An unidentified man moves through the debris of a school bus and the small van, in which a Novato woman died in a collision yesterday.

Two Die In Separate Traffic Accidents

Two automobile accidents — one involving a collision with a Novato School bus yesterday afternoon, the other a car that drove off the Sausalito lateral last night — have claimed the lives of a Novato woman and a Berkeley man, Marin's 27th and 28th traffic fatalities this year as compared to 25 by this time last year.

Killed in the Novato accident was Christine Gail Hinton, 21, of 1701 Indian Valley Road, whose Volkswagen van collided head-on at 2:15 p.m. with a school bus carrying seven first and second grade pupils and a driver.

But a passenger in Miss Hinton's Volkswagen, Barbara Langer, 23, also of Indian Valley Road, was seriously injured. She was reported in fair condition today in Novato General Hospital's intensive care unit, being treated for head injuries and multiple cuts.

Killed some time during the night was William Feeney, 27, of Berkeley, whose body was found at 7:30 a.m. today crushed beneath his car in a drainage ditch off the Sausalito Lateral west of the Highway 101 underpass.

The California Highway Patrol said Feeney, had been dead for several hours when his body was found.

The car, which landed on its roof in the six-foot-deep ditch was hidden from the view of traffic, officers said, but was spotted by the driver of a Golden Gate Bridge tow truck driving on the lateral.

Officers speculated that Feeney missed the turn coming out of the underpass tunnel and skidded off the road between the end of the tunnel and the guard rail.

Feeney was employed with a San Francisco architectural firm. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth.

Driver of the school bus, Valerie Everett Hansen, 40, of 820 Eucalyptus Avenue, Novato, told officers she was driving on Diablo Avenue when she saw Miss Hinton's van approaching and starting to drift slowly over the center line.

Mrs. Hansen said she slowed down the school bus and honked the horn but the van kept moving right on until it smashed into the school bus.

The van bounced back and Miss Hinton was thrown to the pavement, officers said, but Miss Langer remained inside the car. Also thrown from the car were three cats and a dog that the two women reportedly were taking to a nearby veterinarian.

One of the cats was killed and the two others ran across the glass littered street to hide under a car and would not come out until rescued by Marin County Humane Society officers, witnesses said.

The school children were taken home in private cars by school officials.

Yesterday's accident was the first in which a Novato school bus has been involved while carrying children, Novato School District officials said yesterday.

The Marin County coroner's office reported that Miss Hinton and Miss Langer were residents of a hippie commune at 1701 Indian Valley Road.

Green Berets Chief Denies Agent Killed

Senator, White House Discuss Dropped Case

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — The former Green Beret commander in Vietnam said today he didn't know the alleged Vietnamese double agent he and seven of his men were accused of killing and denied there had been such a slaying. (See also photo, another story, page 5.)

"That is correct," Col. Robert B. Rheault declared when asked at a news conference if he denied there had been a killing.

"No," he said when asked if he had known the person a newsman described as the "alleged dead man."

Rheault, 43, also was asked if he thought "the Vietnamese who was killed was a close political ally of President Thieu" and "Do you think this might have resulted in the case being brought against you?"

NO THIEU LINK

"There was no conclusive evidence that the individual was ever killed and there is certainly no indication anywhere that the alleged victim was connected with President Thieu in any way," the colonel said.

Rheault and six of the seven other Green Berets involved in the case returned to the United States from Vietnam to this California base in Solano County, the day after the Army dropped murder charges against them.

They headed for their homes shortly after the plane set down and an Army spokesman said all would get 30-day leaves.

'WE . . . EXONERATED'

The colonel said he believed the incident "would better be forgotten . . . so long as people remember that we were exonerated." He acted as spokesmen for the others during a seven-minute session with newsmen here after a flight from Vietnam aboard a chartered jetliner that brought 219 persons here.

Rheault said he culd not understand why the murder and conspiracy charges were filed against them.

SENATOR'S VIEW

With Rheault, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., were Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, Bloomfield, N.J.; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge

Dr. Wilson Suspension Requested

By WAT TAKESHITA

Dr. Clyde G. Miller, controversial director of mental health services for the county, last night was suspended with pay for 30 days from his $2,110-a-month job after a two and one-half hour public hearing followed by five and one-half hours in closed session.

At 8:15 p.m., the Marin County Board of Supervisors announced Miller's suspension and asked the Marin General Hospital District to impose a similar 30-day suspension on Miller's chief critic, Dr. Donald P. Wilson, director of the community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital, for "reevaluation of his performance."

Simultaneously, the supervisors asked the county administrator to "reappraise the mental health center operation under its contract with the county within those 30 days."

The county has no legal right to suspend Wilson, who is employed by the hospital district. However, the county contracts with the hospital's mental health center for nearly $2 million worth of services and thus can exert some purse-string influence.

George E. Croke, president of the hospital district board, said today a special meeting of the board was planned at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Marin General Hospital to discuss the supervisors' recommendation. Much of the meeting, he said, would be held in closed session.

(He said the board of supervisors request was a surprise. As to whether he thought the supervisors were within bounds to make such a recommendation, Croke said, "That's something we'll discuss with our legal counsel.")

"Is it possible that they can return to their duties after the 30 days?" asked a newsman. "It's possible," replied Chairman John F. McInnis. "But you framed that question; I didn't."

Supervisors gave no explanation of what the suspensions are intended to accomplish nor what would happen after 30 days. Miller, who serves at the pleasure of the supervisors, said he had been instructed not to comment.

Hershey In Favor Of Lottery Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today the draft lottery is not proposed as a way to defuse student protest—as some people suggest—because there is nothing to defuse.

"I think we exaggerate how much we can defuse anything," Hershey said. "But I'm a great optimist. I don't think things are as bad as some students advertise."

He had high praise for college students, calling them "some of our finest people," despite campus disturbances by a few.

Hershey told a special House subcommittee he favors President Richard M. Nixon's draft lottery plan because there is a great demand for it and he believes the draft situation has reached a point where it would work.

But the general made no effort to dispute a complaint that the provision for returning men with student deferments to the draft pool after they finish school is unfair.

"When you defer 4,000 to 5,000 people (for college) out of an age group," he said, "it's a little hard to talk about equity."

The Selective Service chief agreed that because of different birthdays the lottery would not draft 19-year-olds only, it would also take some 20-year-olds.

But he said the point is that a young man would learn from the lottery conducted in late September or early October what his prospects are for being drafted the following year and unless there were an emergency he would be subject to the draft only that one year.

Earlier, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee said he would not object to a draft lottery if the President can prove it is equitable.

GIBRALTAR (AP) — Spain cut telephone and telegraph links with Gibraltar Wednesday as tension mounted between Spain and Britain over possession of this Mediterranean territory.

Nixon Vows Against U.S. Losing War

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Richard M. Nixon, in another summons to national unity on Vietnam, was quoted today as vowing he will not become "the first president to preside over an American defeat." (See story on "bugout", page 2.)

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Nixon restated that determination to a group of about 10 Republican senators the White House last night.

Scott, the Senate GOP leader, said the discussion centered on the administration's effort to achieve unity behind American policy.

He said Nixon told the senators he does not seek a devastating defeat of North Vietnam. "He repeated that he offered peace with honor and justice to both sides," Scott reported.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., told a news conference the United States should consider resuming the bombing of North Vietnam unless the Communists, within days, offer indica-

Panel Postpones Vote On Haynsworth Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today postponed until next week, at the earliest, a vote on President Richard M. Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., charging that he was getting a "runaround" in efforts to check on Haynsworth's financial records, said the committee acted after a "heated exchange."

Bayh said the committee put off a vote on the request of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., one of Haynsworth's strongest backers on the committee.

Thurmond thus used up the one-week delay that ordinarily can be granted under committee rules only once. Bayh and other members of the committee, however, said that another delay was still possible.

In an impromptu news conference outside the committee hearing room, Bayh said that he and his staff and the committee have been getting the "runaround" in efforts to obtain full records of Haynsworth's stock and real estate transactions from 1957 to the present.

Asked if the committee discussed possible use of a subpoena to get these records, plus those of the Carolina Vend-O-Matic Co. which Haynsworth and associates helped found, Bayh said the Supreme Court nominee "will be risking a possible subpoena request" if the records are not made available.

Bayh said he ordered his own man to Haynsworth's home state when the judge and his stockbroker, Arthur McCall of Greenville, had supplied real estate and stock records going back only to 1964. The Indiana senator wanted to see the records dealing from 1957 when Haynsworth was appointed a federal district judge.

"If there are things there that need to be answered, he ought to be the one to answer them," Bayh said of the investigator.

Kindergarten Is Linked To Militancy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An elementary school principal told a conference on campus unrest today that regimented kindergartens may be breeding grounds for future student militants.

"Teachers demand quiet and the children are lined up on rugs and told when to talk and not to talk," said Harold Hyman, principal of the George Washington Elementary School in Compton.

"When I walk into a classroom, I expect to hear something," he said. "I want to feel the electricity. The problem starts in the kindergarten."

Hyman told a panel discussion sponsored by the state Department of Education that teachers should take a "humanistic approach" to the classroom by reminding themselves "the child is the most important thing."

He said proper treatment of youngsters may discourage them from resorting to violent

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Israeli Bus Blasted

TEL AVIV (AP)—Arab saboteurs detonated an explosive charge in front of an Israeli bus and raked it with small arms fire today, the Israeli military command said. No injuries were reported.

The incident occurred near the Israeli settlement of Yiron, on the Lebanese border about 20 miles east of the Mediterranean, a spokesman said.

Student Clash Fatal

Tadao Tsumoto, 20, a freshman of the literature department of Kansai University, suffered extensive burns when he was hit by a Molotov cocktail thrown by a student in the clash Sept. 21, police said.

Tsumoto was the third student to die in student demonstrations in Japan since Sept. 18.

Dollar Slumps

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The U.S. dollar dropped to a record low 3.78 marks on the Frankfurt currency market today and the West German Central Bank offered to sell dollars at 3.83 marks.

The new dollar laws were established under a government decision to free the mark to seek its own level — an attempt to curb speculation on a mark revaluation upward. The mark is officially pegged at 4 to the dollar. With the dollar under pressure in the last few weeks, the Central Bank had guaranteed to buy dollars from commercial banks at 3.97 marks.

Sound Barrier Test

TOULOUSE, France (AP) The French-British supersonic transport plane Concorde slipped through the sound barrier today for the first time and the plane's commander said it "was much calmer than could be inagined."

Andre Turcat, chief test pilot for the Sud Aviation Co., told newsmen after the flight, "We stayed at supersonic speed for nine minutes at a speed of Mach 1.05. We carried out various operations which permitted us to appreciate the extraordinary stability of the plane."

Viet Flight Cutback

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans Jr. says a 50 per cent cut in air operations over Vietnam is planned within the next two years.

By this, he told a news conference yesterday, he means the number of sorties will gradually be reduced. There are no plans for an immediate pullout of equipment, he said.

Seamans didn't give a reason for tapering off combat missions, but said its timing would depend on the level of enemy activity.

School Shakeup Set

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken has unveiled a sweeping plan to revamp Michigan's statewide property tax to eliminate the traditional district taxation.

Milliken also proposed state aid to parochial schools yesterday in announcing the results of a five-month study by his commission on education reform.

The state legislature begins a special session next Monday to consider Milliken's proposals.

Mao Sees Red Fete

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's top five leaders stood on the red walls of Peking's Forbidden City today above a half million Chinese shouting: "Long live Chairman Mao!"

Towering over the 20th anniversary celebration of the nation he founded was Communits party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, 75, whose appearance again belied widespread rumors that he was either dying or dead.

Mao smiled, waved and shook the hands of dignitaries as thousands of marchers turned the vast square below him into "a sea of red flags," Peking Radio said. Mao did not address the crowd.

Apollo 12 Stroll Set

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts may stroll more than half a mile from their moon landing craft next month.

Also, they plan to collect rocks with far greater scientific finesse than Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., were able to employ on mankind's first lunar scavenger hunt.

Apollo 12 Commander Charles Conrad rates chances as "50-50" that he will be able to land close enough to an unmanned Surveyer spacecraft now on the moon's Ocean of Storms so that he and astronaut Alan L. Bean can bring pieces of it back to earth.

Per Diem Hike Of $5 Is Out

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislators and high-ranking state officials today exchanged a $5 raise in their daily expense allowances for freedom from Internal Revenue Service scrutiny.

The $25 per diem for legislators and state officials had been scheduled to increase to $30 today.

But the board of control rescinded the raise last week at the request of Sen. Robert Stevens, R-Los Angeles, a member of the Legislature's Joint Rules Committee.

Stevens said he was acting on behalf of lawmakers who "didn't want to take the increase. Many members felt it was not justified. After all, there was a pay increase voted this year."

79 Flee Cong Controlled Village; 91 Also Rescued

SAIGON (AP) — Seventy-nine Vietnamese civilians escaped from a Viet Cong village to an American patrol base north of Saigon and South Vietnamese infantrymen rescued another 91, the U.S. Army announced today.

The Army said the villagers had been forced to produce food for enemy troops while the villagers went hungry. Some of the refugees attended a Roman Catholic mass at the American base and received communion for the first time in five years.

The Army said they had been held captive in the village of Duc Bon, 70 miles northeast of Saigon. It had a population of 400 before the exodus of the 170 civilians.

"Last night," an Army spokesman said, "Enemy solcut off the increasing flight of Duc Bon's population, rounded up and tric to move one quarter of the villagers to a new location."

He said South Vietnamese infantrymen intercepted a Viet Cong squad herding 91 civilians through the countryside, scared the enemy troops off with a volley of gunfire and rescued the civilians.

Spokesmen said the 79 other civilians had fled during the past 10 days to Landing Zone Mary, a patrol base of the U.S. miles south of the village of Duc First Air Cavalry Division three miles south of the village of Duc Bon.

The civilians have been turned over to South Vietnamese authorities in the provincial capital of Song Be, 80 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Army said one group of 27 villagers who turned up at Landing Zone Mary yesterday included 17 children.

Elsewhere, three enemy arms caches were found by South Vietnamese troops 11 miles west of Saigon. The finds strengthened speculation that the Communist command is stepping up infiltration efforts in the capital.

IN DEFEAT—Massachusetts State Sen. William Saltonstall, a member of the Republican Establishment, seems deep in thought after being defeated yesterday in a spcial election by state Rep. Michael Harrington, a Democrat, for the Sixth District congressional seat. (UPI Telephoto)

Dove Scores Victory In Old Guard Haven

BOSTON (AP) — Voters in the sixth Massachusetts congressional district have elected as U.S. representative a Democrat who advocates a stepped-up withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam and a change in the priorities of the Nixon administration.

Winner in yesterday's balloting to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Rep. William H. Bates was state Rep. Michael J. Harrington, 33, a former McCarthy-for-president supporter. The district had been Republican since 1875.

He defeated state Sen. William L. Saltonstall, 42, son of retired U.S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, 72,030 to 65,453.

Saltonstall ran as a down-the-line Nixon supporter.

It was the fourth special congressional election this year which the Democrats won from the GOP, and the national Democratic party chairman, Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., described it as another rejection of the administration's course.

Harrington's victory gives Massachusetts eight Democrats and four Republicans in the U.S. House. The sixth district seat had been held by Bates and his father for 33 years.

Stokes Overcomes Deficit In Cleveland Primary Race

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Negro incumbent Carl B. Stokes defeated a self-styled law-and-order candidate by more than 31,000 votes yesterday in Cleveland's Democratic mayoral primary election.

But Stokes won his bid for nomination to a second two-year term only after overcoming a lead of more than 20,000 votes which Robert J. Kelly, an electoral newcomer, built up in white sections crucial to the mayor's Nov. 4 general election prospects.

Stokes became the first Negro elected mayor of a major American city in 1967. He also is the first Negro mayor of a major city to face a re-election battle.

"We're going to really have to work against Ralph J. Perk," Stokes said of the Republican county auditor he will face in the general election.

Negroes compose about one-third of Cleveland's population of 880,000.

Kelly said he congratulated Stokes "in conformity with the American tradition of politics" but held to his earlier announcement that he would not support the mayor in the general election.

The turnout of 153,118 voters compared with 200,000 when Stokes, the 42-year-old grandson of a slave, unseated incumbent Ralph Locher in the 1967 primary.

Perk said the smaller turnout indicated disenchantment with Stokes and promised a vigorous campaign in his bid to become Cleveland's first Republican mayor in 28 years.

College To Honor Reagan At Dinner

CHICAGO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California will be honored Oct. 22 at a $25-a-plate benefit dinner for his alma mater, tiny Eureka College in Eureka, Ill., it was announced today.

The announcement said Reagan would make "a major speech on education" at the dinner in Chicago. The dinner is billed as an "Illinois Salute" to the governor from his native state.

London, Ont., named for England's largest city, is also located on a river named the Thames.

U.S. Awaits Gains In Russ Talks

Rogers and Gromyko wound up their sessions here last night, agreeing to continue U.S.-Soviet discussions on a Middle East settlement. Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco will carry these forward with Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Washington.

BIG FOUR NEXT

Rogers hopes that by late October, the United States and the Soviet Union will have agreed on enough groundwork to launch Big Four—U.S., Soviet, British and French—undertakings for a Middle East solution.

Another item discussed was President Richard M. Nixon's still-unanswered bid to begin missile curb talks. Gromyko told Rogers Sept. 23 that Moscow would reply with a time and place "soon," but didn't say when.

NIXON PLEDGE

Nixon, upon taking office, vowed to seek an "era of negotiation," rather than "confrontation," with the Communist world. Rogers' meetings with Gromyko provided the first high-level test. Gromyko heads today for Ottawa, then Moscow. Rogers returns to Washington tomorrow.

Under the administration's nonconfrontation policy of not pushing issues it considers irreconcilable at this time, Rogers did not press Gromyko on Vietnam or Soviet pressure on Czechoslovakia.

Senator Shrugs At 'Bugout' Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles E. Goodell, shrugging off a "bugout" charge from fellow Republicans, says he hopes his proposal for total withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam will produce a searching inquiry into war policy.

The New York senator's bill to order a total cutback by Dec. 1, 1970 has drawn strong protests from the White House, summed up yesterday in a one-word description of the Goodell plan: "bugout."

Hugh Scott, Senate GOP leader, said he applied the GI slang to Vietnam withdrawal proposals, and President Richard M. Nixon agreed it was accurate. Within hours, Republicans were using it all over Capitol Hill.

"Hanoi has used some of these bugout resolutions and they've used some quotations of senators as a means of enforcing their hand," said Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo.

Allott even supplied a definition: "A bugout is when you pull out and put a date on a pullout or put numbers on a pullout in such a way that you have the position of the United States unguarded."

"I think they're bugged by my proposal," said Goodell. "It sounds like they have a unified line."

"I certainly don't think labeling it in that way contributes anything to an enlightened dialogue."

"His is a bugout attitude," Saxbe said. "It's just impractical. The Congress is not in a position to instruct the administration on tactical matters."

Goodell said he will seek hearings soon in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He said he anticipates a thorough debate of the war issues. Sen. Charles Mc. Mathias, R-Md., said that might be the major product of the Goodell proposal, which has no real prospect of gaining majority support.

"It is a vehicle for a review of national mistakes," Mathias said, "Congressional as well as military."

"I want no part of it," Saxbe said. "It could very well result in riot and hell-raising."

He proposed instead a Nov. 11 demonstration of support for Americans in Vietnam.

Dr. Miller Suspended; Wilson Action Asked

nal decision, giving the county staff 30 days to investigate the operation of both offices, with both directors suspended to clear the air.

Another was that the supervisors decided one or the other must go, and they are putting pressure on the hospital district to oust Wilson. A third was that the simultaneous suspensions were slaps on the wrist for both, and they could continue in their posts if they iron out their differences during the next 30 days.

Miller was called behind closed doors from 3:30 until 6:30 p.m., while a parade of witnesses was called in to testify in his defense. Administrator Alan Bruce and his assistant, Thomas F. Campanella, were with the supervisors throughout.

Among those who testified behind closed doors were Miller's administrative assistant Jay J. Shinohara, and various staff members of the mental health center. They included Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt, Dr. James Green, Dr. Robert Burke, and Dr. Arthur Reiss, all sympathetic to Miller.

Mrs. Daniel A. Collina, a member of the Mental Health Advisory Board, said she asked Shinohara for a chance to speak and was invited to testify before the supervisors.

From 6:30 on, only the supervisors, Bruce and his assistant Campanella remained behind closed doors.

Outside, Miller remained calm and cheerful throughout. "They're trying to decide whether they'll dismiss me," said Miller. He said he did not ask for an open hearing because he is satisfied the two and one-half hour morning session provided sufficient public hearing for both sides.

During the open morning session, a parade of about 30 speakers rose from the audience to speak for and against Miller. The majority were opposed, and several called for his resignation or dismissal.

The tone of speeches and letters ranger from charges against Miller of "inept" and "wasteful" administration to praise of him as a "man of vision, courage and intelligence."

Opponents declared Miller is an ineffective administrator, lacks the trust and confidence of various mental health organizations, and seeks personal control at the expense of services to the community.

The Rev. John J. O'Connor, director of Catholic Social Services, said he supported Miller in 1966 but is now convinced that the Miller should resign. "The problem is not one of philosophy or interpretation of policy," said O'Connor. "It is Dr. Miller's inability to communicate with the community."

Dr. William J. Dickerson, director of the Ross Psychiatric Clinic, criticized Miller's "preoccupation with control at the expense of services." Dickerson charged that Miller can never regain the confidence of various mental health contractors. "It is impossible for him to function effectively . . . He is not responsive to community needs."

Edward K. Allison, president of the board of trustees of the Marin Institute on alcoholism, added "my vote of no-confidence to Dr. Miller's Administration."

Florine Miller, speaking for the Marin Association for Mental Health, declared that an atmosphere of understanding and cooperation among the many organizations is not possible under Miller's administration.

Among supporters of Miller were Dr. Patricia Hallinan, assistant county health officer, who declared that mental hygiene in Marin would revert to the dark ages if Miller quit.

Others who backed Miller were Dr. Paul Kingsley, former member of the Mental Health Advisory Board; Sylvia Boorstein, psychiatric social workers; Dr. Leon Waterman, assistant director of the Community Mental Health Center; and Dr. James Green, consultant at the center.

Dr. Gerald Hill past chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, praised Miller as the one man responsible for the county's mental health program. "When the smoke has finally settled in 'mental health land'," said Hill, "let it not be forgotten that Dr. Clyde Miller made it a reality."

C. M. Pete Croughan, former chairman of the advisory board, described Miller as "a man of vision, courage, intelligence and ability." Said Croughan, "I didn't have any trouble understanding Dr. Miller."

Chairman McInnis declared the problem is more than one of personality but stems from long-standing bitterness among mental health organizations, each trying to expand its own activities.

McInnis scolded Wilson, director of the mental health center, for making a personal attack on Miller. "I'm disappointed when you sat there and tried to psychoanalyze Dr. Miller's reasons for taking a certain attitude," said McInnis.

Dr. John Guerrant, psychiatrist at the mental health center, had blamed Miller for not providing a maximum security room in the original plans of the center.

That criticism is aimed in the wrong direction, asserted McInnis. He said the previous board of supervisors had discussed the matter and decided against the maximum security room. "If you wish to criticize that area, you should bring the criticism to this board, not to Dr. Miller."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. declared the decision must be made by the supervisors, while Supervisor Michael Wornum preferred that the matter be sent back to the mental health advisory board for a recommendation.

"It doesn't bother me to have to remove the director (Dr. Miller) or to ask the hospital board to dismiss Dr. Wilson," said Arrigoni. "But I don't see any solution in dismissing one or both."

Supervisors William A. Gnoss and Louis H. Baar said the supervisors should make the decision.

On a motion by Arrigoni, the supervisors then called for the closed meeting to discuss charges against Dr. Miller.

BERETS

E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.; and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York.

In Washington, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said he is convinced President Richard M. Nixon personally gave the order to drop charges against six Green Berets.

"He ordered it. I know it," Young told a reporter, saying "Every knowledgeable senator knows the order came from the White House.

Young, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said that "Obviously, this was a Central Intelligence Agency operation."

But he said prosecution was complicated by the fact that the body of the victim was not recovered and by the fact that two enlisted men in the case, against whom chargs were dropped earlier, were apparently going to testify against the six Green Berets.

The White House acknowledged belatedly today that President Nixon was involved in events that prompted the dropping of the criminal charges.

But press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted that the Army acted on its own in deciding to drop the charges Monday.

By Ziegler's account Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency made a decision that, in the interests of national security, its employees would not be permitted to testify at the planned courtsmartial of the Army Special Forces men.

"The President approved the decision," said Ziegler.

The press secretary said the Army made its move after being informed of the Nixon-approved CIA decision.

The Army did not seek Nixon's okay for its action but did inform the White House that the charges would be dropped, Ziegler said.

Observation For Suspect In Burglary Case

A young man was committed to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital today by Marin County Sheriff's deputies after he was found inside a Tamalpais Valley grocery store reportedly in the middle of an LSD trip, sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said they will book Louis Kuntz age and address unknown, into Marin County Jail for investigation of attempted burglary, resisting arrest and assault, after he completes a 72-hour observation period at the center.

Deputies said they found Kuntz inside the 7-11 food store at 371 Shoreline Heghway at 4:20 a.m. when they responded to a silent burglar alarm.

It took several minutes, deputies said, to subdue Kuntz. They reported he was running around the store, yelling, throwing food and canned goods and drinking wine from a bottle. He later said that he was on an LSD trip, deputies said.

Planning Council To Eye Housing

The City-County Planning Council will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Marin Civic Center to discuss a joint housing survey to be conducted with the Marin County Labor Council and the Marin Economic Opportunity Council.

Army NCO Graft Case Led To Threats, Senators Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bribe offers and threats of death were received by Army personnel probing charges of rakeoffs and kickbacks in operation of servicemen's recreation clubs, an officer testified today.

Lt. Col. William L. George said he received many anonymous threatening phone calls during the three months between the arrest of one sergeant and his conviction for stealing slot machine proceeds.

"One in particular which I remember most vividly happened about 2:30 in the morning and the caller said: 'You're dead, you bastard you,' and hung up," George told the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee.

He said his family also was threatened, but added that neither he nor any member of the family was hurt.

The subcommittee, of which Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., is acting chairman, is investigating charges that some of the Army's top sergeants who managed clubs throughout the world had received hundreds of thousands of dollars in a wide spectrum of schemes.

One witness yesterday estimated the takeoff from slot machines alone at $350,000 a year. He also said a live lion and expensive items of furniture were given by favor-seekers.

Col. George said that on one occasion a sergeant he trusted was threatened, offered bribes, and followed by unknown persons when he was assigned to monitor slot machine money at one club in Munich.

The gross proceeds of the gambling machines had slipped from $20,000 to $4,000 a month, George said.

The sergeant collected $10,000 in 10 days, George said.

The arrest George referred to was that of S.Sgt. Edward Jones, who committee aides said was sentenced to one year of hard labor after admitting he had taken money from slot machines.

George described also what he said was a $700 night on the town sponsored in part by Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge, who later became the first sergeant major of the Army. Wooldridge has been named as one of the leaders in the conspiracy.

George said he believed the money for the entertainment came from the noncommissioned officers' club in Munich. He said Wooldridge refused to accept his offer to pay part of the bill.

Investigator Irvin E. Beard also accused the Army of hiding the facts to avoid embarassing Gen. Harold K. Johnson, who, as Army chief of staff, had named Wooldridge the Army's first sergeant major.

Yesterday's testimony brought a quick admission from Secretary of the Army, Stanley R. Resor that "a number of strategically placed enlisted men have apparently been able to abuse their positions in nonappropriated fund activities" to siphon the pay of their fellow soldiers into their own pockets. Resor said the Army is moving firmly to correct the situation.

tions they will move toward peace.

Tower was not at the White House meeting and said he had not discussed his proposal—a retort to demands for U.S. withdrawal — with the President.

"It becomes increasingly apparent that the intensification of military pressure on our enemies is the only thing that will bring them to terms," Tower told a news conference.

"The point is we are involved in a war," Tower said. "The question is are you going to fight it or not fight it. . ."

"I think the time is fast approaching when, in the light of North Vietnamese intransigence, we must consider the exercise of additional military options available to us such as the resumption of bombing in the North, interdiction of their lines of communication and supply on a saturation basis, and closing the port at Haiphong," Tower said.

"It is my belief we can achieve military victory with no more than our present available resources," Tower said. "The policy of restraint, though honestly motivated and worthy of trial, has to date been unsuccessful . . ."

Tower said that he had no criticism of Nixon's troop withdrawal orders because they involve the replacement of Americans with South Vietnamese. He said congressional proposals for a withdrawal deadline would "completely sabotage" negotiating efforts.

Greenfield has been made one-way for part of its length and workmen are building a retaining wall as part of the city's remodeling of the complex Hub intersection.

Booking Made On Los Angeles Theft Warrant

A San Rafael man, who apparently was sharing both a home and an alias with a woman who died Monday, was booked into Marin County Jail today on a Los Angeles petty theft warrant.

Barbara Hyde Bastion, 41, who was using the name Barbara Hyde Dana, died in her home at 209 Marin Street Monday, apparently from an overdose of phenobarbitol pills, according to the coroner's office.

San Rafael police said Andrews told them she was unconcious when he left for work in San Francisco Monday morning that he knew she had taken some pills and was aware of her past suicide attempts but did not think it necessary to summon aid. He said he believed she would vomit the pills later, according to police. She was dead in bed when he returned that evening, he told police.

Passenger In Crash Is Fair

Michael Lee, 19, of 26 Los Cerritos Drive, Greenbrae, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after the car in which he was riding collided with a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus.

According to Lee's sister, Susan 21, of the same address and driver of the auto, the accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. yesterday while she was driving through the Francisco — Divisadero Street intersection.

Lee suffered a cut forehead, broken ribs and internal injuries. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bump on the head.

militancy when they reach high school or college.

Hyman criticized the department for "shoving state-mandated tests down our throats." The criticism raised the eyebrows of state Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, who moderated the program.

Capt. Odell Sylvester of the Oakland Police Department informed the 200 department employees attending the discussion that his city has begun a concerted effort to head off campus unrest by a coalition of state and local agencies working together.

Sylvester said secondary schools are "plagued" by unrest that he said is "rooted in the past." He said two of the problems are poverty and prejudice.

Assemblyman Victor Veysey, R-Brawley, Assembly Education Commitiee chairman, predicted the same type of unrest and militant violence on high school campuses this year that spread across major college campuses during 1968.

"I hope educators will be ready," said Veysey noting that the legislature passed two onmibus bills last year giving administrators tougher tools to quell unrest and prescribing stiffer penalties for violators.

He said both were meant "to bolster the will of the educators" to take action against violent demonstrators who disrupt campuses.

Dr. William Lacey, superintendent of the Monrovia School District, suggested that administrators act fast to understand what students are demanding.

"It's more than just listening to the students," Lacey said. "You have to understand what they're saying."

He also recommended that student demands for new courses they consider relevant to contemporary times be given top priority.

Water District Grants TV Tower

The North Marin County Water District board last night approved a lease for a 74-foot television antennae tower with G'Tec cable TV firm for the Lynwood tank site on South Novato Boulevard at Sunset Parkway, according to District Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill.

The vote was 4-0 with Commissioner Franklin Gustafson absent from the adjourned meeting.

The lease calls for an annual rent of $840 for five years with an option to renew for two more five-year periods at $1,090 for the second five years and $1,410 for the third five years.

Unions Tell Warning By Nixon

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Labor sources said today President Richard M. Nixon told construction union leaders at the White House yesterday to restrain in wage increases or face the possibility of federal controls.

The account of Nixon's statement was reported to AFL-CIO leaders at a convention here after the President met with his newly created commission to study inflation in the construction industry.

Four AFL-CIO officials who are members of the White House commission flew from the convention to the Washington meeting.

A report to labor sources here said Nixon told the union leaders their most important job is to restrain wage hikes that have been running at an annual rate of more than 15 per cent in the construction industry this year.

If they fail to persuade their union members to hold down wage hikes, the only alternative is controls, Nixon was quoted as telling the union leaders.

The report said Nixon apparently was vague as to whether such controls would cover both wages and prices in the construction industry.

President George Meany of the 13.6-million member AFL-CIO, which opens its biennial convention tomorrow, has said organized labor would accept federal controls if Nixon declared a national emergency, and if such controls were applied to wages, prices, profits, interest rates, corporate salaries and all other forms of income.

Chavez Backers Beg For Support

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI)—Backers of grape boycott leader Cesar Chavez were out hours before sunup today begging for support from truck drivers at a big warehouse complex that distributes most of the food for the Washington, D.C. area.

An estimated 300 demonstrators picketed the gates of the complex starting at 3:30 a.m. as the big trucks pulled out on their morning runs to supply chain stores and other distribution points.

The demonstrators were asking each driver to refuse to haul California table grapes. It was not known if any of the trucks passing out of the warehouse complex actually contained grapes.

Chavez was not present but planned to put in an appearance later.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon said it has sharply increased its shipments of grapes to Vietnam because troops like them and there are fewer available oranges.

The Pentagon replied to a charge by Chavez that the Defense Department had increased the shipments because of the grape boycott.

The Pentagon said shipments in 1967 were 368,000 pounds; 1968, 555,000 pounds; and 1969, 2,167,000 pounds, and total military purchase rose from 8.3 million pounds in 1967 to 10.4 million pounds in 1969. It said military purchases comprised less than 1 per cent of the U.S. production.

150 Acres Of Land Charred

More than 150 acres of grazing land were charred yesterday in a fire started by a machine spreadiing manure west of Fallon.

The fire, which started at 1:30 p.m. either by a spark from the spreader's muffler or friction from the vehicles tires, burned 20 acres on the S and T Ranch before spreading to a neighboring ranch owned by Henry Jensen where it burned 130 acres. One acre on the Bilovick ranch was also burned, Marin county firemen reported.

Over 20 firefighters using seven units and one bulldozer took over two hours to control the blaze near the Whitaker Bluff Road west of Shoreline Highway. Four airplanes sent by the state Division of Forestry made 10 drops of chemicals on the blaze. The forestry departments also sent two ground units to assist the Marin County firemen.

Widow Sounds Threat In Green Beret Case

SAIGON (AP) — The weeping widow of a suspected Vietnamese double agent allegedly slain by American Green Berets demanded an explanation of her husband's death at the U.S. Embassy today and threatened to kill herself and her children "so the whole world will know about this matter."

"My husband came south looking for freedom and democracy and the help of the Americans," she cried to two American political officers in the embassy garden. "The Americans killed him and won't take the responsibility. They must either take the responsibility for his death or my death."

Earlier, Pham Kim Lien, 29, met with the two officers inside. She carried a 14-months-old baby in her arms.

She presented the officers with a petition written in Vietnamese and addressed to the U.S. ambassador. It said:

"Now that the incident has happened that way, I would like to ask you, Mr. Ambassador, as a representative of the American government in Vietnam, to answer to us exactly the circumstances surrounding my husband's death.

"Also I would like to request that you let us know how you will treat us because I think your silence has lasted a bit too long already."

Mrs. Lien said the slaying of her husband, Thai Khac Chuyen was "an inhuman act. They killed my husband as killing an animal."

Mrs. Lien added that if the U.S. and Vietnamese authorities do not intervene, she will take her case to the United Nations.

"I want freedom and justice. And if I will not have it, I will go back to the North (North Vietnam) and live there," she said.

"What I ask for is compensation ... to support myself and my two children."

She said her husband, as an interpreter for the U.S. Special Forces at Nha Trang, was paid 18,900 piasters a month, about $160.

A U.S. military officer said a claim filed by the woman in August is now being considered by the Army office in Saigon. He added U.S. authorities did not act previously because the death of her husband was a vital element of the Green Beret case.

Rear-End Collision Hurts Fairfax Woman

Nina E. Washburn, 64, of 27 Sequoia Road, Fairfax, was treated for multiple bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after a two-car collision on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo police reported.

Mrs. Washburn was injured, police said, when she stopped her car to make a left turn onto Sheffield Avenue at 3:45 p.m. and was hit from the rear by a car driven by Iris Nelson, 17, of 1 Tiburon Boulevard, Strawberry.

Metal Fatigue Found In Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A helicopter crash which killed 21 persons in Compton last year has been attributed to metal fatigue which caused the blade of the Sikorsky aircraft to rip loose.

The National Transportation Safety Board said yesterday that two factors contributed to the Aug. 14, 1968, accident:

—The Sikorsky company to carry out a request by Los Angeles Airways to strengthen the defective part.

Frank Kelly Quits Grand Jury Panel

Former San Rafael Police Chief Frank J. Kelly has resigned from the Marin County Grand Jury because of ill health, County Clerk George H. Gnoss said yesterday.

Ethnic Studies Complaints Hint New Strike At State

By ALAN KORNFELD
(Independent-Journal Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO — Rumors of a repeat strike at San Francisco State College began circulating on campus yesterday when Black Students Union leader Benny Stewart told a campus press conference that "the administration is moving to sabotage the black studies department."

He charged that the administration has supplied a newly formed School of Ethnic Studies with inadequate classroom facilities.

"It is becoming clearer and clearer that the administration is backing off on its commitments," he said. The BSU is currently undertaking a study of student sentiment, according to Stewart, in order to determine possible strike action.

The administration immediately afterward rejected the BSU's charges. Executive vice president Earl Jones attributed the classroom difficulty to normal scheduling conflicts.

Jones said there have been two room problems within the school but that both were resolved without difficulty.

Last Friday, about 60 Mexican-American students and one roomless class staged a quiet sit-in in the administration building until, after an hour, space was found for the class.

Urban Whitaker, acting dean of the school, also rejected Stewart's claims saying, "All legitimate classes have been housed."

Stewart, however, was dissatisfied with the space allotments, "They gave us rooms for 25 or 30 in a class when there were over 120 applicants trying to get in. The administration gauged the school for 500 applicants, but ethnic studies was so popular that there were between 1,500 and 2,000 students trying to get in," he said.

Should any confrontation develop during the year, Stewart predicted "the key issue will be self-determination," or independent control of the school.

Nathan Hare, whose appointment as black studies department chairman was one of the 15 strike demands last year, has meanwhile been conspicuously absent from campus affairs this fall, although according to BSU leader Leroy Goodwin "the department's faculty is working closely with Dr. Hare."

Hare is currently publishing a Sausalito-based journal, "Black Scholar." The first edition, which will come out in November, will include articles by Eldridge Cleaver, Stokley Carmichael and other black scholars.

The new School of Ethnic Studies, meanwhile, has been launched this semester with a completely minority staff except for one black studies instructor and Dean Whitaker. Fifty-six classes are offered in black studies, Asian-American studies, Mexican-American studies and native American studies. A bachelor of arts degree is offered in black studies but the other departments do not grant degrees.

Community advisory boards of between 12 and 21 community members, selected by the administration with students and faculty from each department, will also be provided for the school.

Students Vote Bufano Statue Place In Sun

The stone Louis Pasteur sculpted by Benny Bufano will be moved to a spot in front of San Rafael High School picked out by the sculptor, students decided yesterday overwhelmingly in a plebiscite election.

The students also said they would help pay the estimated $900 it will cost to move the 7.5-foot 2,000 pound statue and its large pedestal to a central grassy area from its present location near the science building.

The students voted 589 to 228 in favor of complying with Bufano's request, according to Principal Alan Ellsberg. The students voted against returning the statue to Bufano or leaving it where it is. A multitude of other suggestions were also written on the ballot, including selling the statue and purchasing textbooks with the money.

The move began today with digging a hole and pouring a cement foundation.

The district hopes to cover the expenses later through donations. Ellsberg said he felt placing the statue in its new position will make it more of a community piece and said he would be delighted if persons in the area donated money for the move.

The statue was abducted by Bufano and a crew two weeks ago but brought back under police guard the same day. Bufano claimed it was not being properly exhibited.

Bought by the school in 1940 as a WPA project for $300, including pedestal and some mosaics, the statue is now appraised $5,000 to $10,000, Ellsberg said.

Petaluma Motorist Suffers Broken Leg

A Petaluma man was injured yesterday at 8:30 a.m. when his car tumbled into a drainage ditch on Spring Hill Road, west of Petaluma.

The Anti-Establishment Trend Not Passing Thing

I-J Special Report

"Many of those revolutionaries will not return to the Establishment," said Dr. Roy Fairchild, professor of education and social psychology at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

"New ways of life are emerging, and they are here to stay," Fairchild contended.

"The Protestant work ethic, for example, is going down the drain. Among the young people today there is a concentration on inner subjective sensation and enlargement of feeling, rather than a materialistic approach," he maintained.

Another Marin clergyman told chaplains that the clergy should not be conformist.

"Don't stifle change," said Dr. James Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral care at Golden Gate baptist Theological Seminary, Strawberry.

"Encourage it and help changes to develop within the social structure," he urged.

The Marin theologians are among several speakers scheduled for the four-day training session and workshop designed to explain modern youth's psychological, moral, religious and sociological outlooks to the Army chaplins. The session ends tomorrow.

Cuban News Agency Faces Ban In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced today that it had asked the Treasury Department to revoke the license under which the Cuban news agency, Prensa Latina, operates in the United States "until such time as American wire services are permitted to restore their operations in Cuba"

The Cuban agency has four persons accredited as correspondents in its New York office, a State Department spokesman said. One is a U.S. citizen and three are Cubans and the spokesman said the Cubans "are not being requested to leave."

Horses, Not Cattle

Pressmen Halt Capital Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three daily newspapers serving the nation's capital were shut down by a pressen's strike early today after union members rejected new contract offers.

First to be affected by the walkout of members of the International Web Pressmen's Union Local 6 was The Washington Post, a morning newspaper. The Post was 20 per cent through its press run when the contract expired.

Pickets also surrounded The Daily News and The Evening Star, both afternoon newspapers.

Woman Denies Guilt In Youngster's Death

Florence Constance Stoltman, 41, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday to a felony manslaughter charge in Marin Municipal Court. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 24.

Mrs. Stoltman was the driver of a car which collided in San Rafael Sept. 23 with a 6-year-old boy riding a bicycle, throwing the child from the bike and killing him.

Emergency Medical Aid Proposal To Board

Suggestions for emergency medical examinations and treatment — developed by county medical men and law enforcement officers — have been sent to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for approval, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales announced today.

A meeting of Bales and other officials to develop policies followed public outrage at the difficulties a Novato mother of three experienced after she had been raped. The woman was refused help at Novato General Hospital but eventually was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Bales asked the board to consider the suggestions as soon as possible.

He reported representatives of Marin General, Kaiser Foundation, Ross General and Novato General hospitals, the Marin Medical Society and Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county medical director, met with him Saturday and discussed several proposals.

None received unanimous agreement, Bales said. However, he said four tentative conclusions were reached for the interim period pending a policy decision by the board of supervisors.

"Emergency medical care and services will continue to be furnished to all victims of crime by each of the four medical hospitals.

"Police evidentiary emergencies, where no medical treatment is indicated, should be referred to the county medical department for examination and similar services(which) will be performed at Marin General Hospital only; and

"Evidentiary . . . services comboned with emergency medical care will be furnished by the victim's personal physician or by the emergency ward of any hospital to which the victim is taken."

Brown Paternity Suit Is Settled

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Soul singer James Brown has agreed to pay child support for a one-year-old boy he is accused of fathering, it was disclosed yesterday.

James Ford, an attorney for Mary Florence Brown, 20, who filed a paternity suit against the singer, said "the entire case has been resolved." Details of the settlement were not disclosed.

Ford said a "fair and equitable" settlement was reached after two days of negotiations with Georgia State Sen. Leroy Johnson, an attorney and longtime friend of Brown.

Ford indicated the settlement was much less than the $5,000 a month sought by Miss Brown, a former president of Brown's Sacramento fan club.

Poverty War Goals Sought

Directors of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council will try to establish goals of the organization at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the county courthouse in San Rafael.

The EOC has a new executive director, W. Robert Lomax Jr.

New bylaws and board make-up also will be discussed by directors.

New Book Takes A Look Into Farm Labor Force

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Assemblyman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, today reported the new state book, "The California Farm Labor Force: A Profile," is the state's first study in history providing reliable and detailed information on the state's farm labor force.

Ketchum, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Agriculture, said the comprehensive survey began in 1964, and is the first successful attempt to survey the farm labor force of any state "on a scientifically valid basis."

The report was derived from the random samplings of 3,488 workers who, during 1965, had farm earnings over $100, and based on field surveys of these workers and their employers performed during 1966 and 1967.

Detailed are the workers' patterns of employment and unemployment, type of work performed by crop, education, housing, family and personal characteristics.

The data forms the basis for a series of studies on the pattern of earnings of the farm labor force, the migrant labor force, the low-in-income farm worker, the Mexican-American farm worker, the role of students in the farm labor force, along with welfare, social insurance, and pension payments to farm workers.

The survey was financed by grants from the U.S. Department of Labor, in collaboration with the state Department of Employment and the Assembly.

Nine Seeking Four Jobs In College Voting

Nine candidates are running for four student body posts in the two-day College of Marin election that was to end this afternoon.

Being chosen are the four final members of the Associated Students executive council. Ten councilmen were elected last spring.

Non-Commuter Jet Fares Hiked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One-way air fare hikes for United Air Lines non-commuter flights in California have been approved by the state Public Utilities Commission.

The commission yesterday granted a $2 hike for coach and $3 for first-class on one-way fares. The airline estimated the increases will hike its 1969 revenue by $1.3 million.

Burglar Allowed College Chance

Raymond Bruce Edwards, 26, of Novato, has been ordered to spend the next year in Marin County Jail but Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court said Monday that he could be released to attend classes at College of Marin.

He was charged with burglarizing the home of David E. Stovel of San Rafael on Dec. 1, 1968.

Judge Wilson also placed Edwards on three years probation.

4,000 Seeking 970 Openings At Sonoma

First in line to submit his application today was James Cartwright of Kentfield. Cartwright arrived on campus at 2 p.m. yesterday and spent the night with dozens of other prospective students at the entrance of the new library building.

A former College of Marin student, Cartwright said he failed to gain admission last semester by being a few too many names down on the list and was determined it would not happen again.

Harold J. Soerters, dean of admissions, said he expected to receive more than 4,000 applications with only 970 openings. The college will accept 50 first time freshmen, 750 junior college transfers and 170 graduate students.

Soerters said that with the large number of persons on campus seeking admission and many others who mailed applications after midnight, that the quota would no doubt be filled today.

College president Ambrose R. Nichols Jr. said the quota for students is determined by the facilities — or lack of facilities.

He noted last week that if the college had enough classrooms and auxiliary facilities, the 3,200 enrollment would easily be doubled by accepting all qualified students who apply.

With the large budget slash proposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan for the state colleges, Dr. Nichols said he saw no relief in sight for the problem.

Sonoma State is required to serve a six-county area and can accept only 4 per cent of its students from outside Marin, Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Napa and Solano counties.

Hunt Proves Futile For Marinite

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Max Schmeling today offered a $1,250 reward for information leading to the discovery of Gene Tunney's missing daughter, Joan Tunney Wilkinson of Tiburon.

A Schmeling spokesman said the reward was offered because of the personal friendship between the two former champions.

Tunney held the heavyweight title from 1926 to 1928 and Schmeling from 1930 to 1932.

Hamburg police said they had no new information on the case.

They said the search for Mrs. Wilkinson, 30, was continued in West Germany.

An extensive search in Norway also has been fruitless.

Mrs. Wilkinson was reported missing in Bergen, Norway, Aug. 28 after a camping tour with her husband, Carter, and their two children, Alexandra, 5, and Erin, 3.

Gene Tunney Jr., of San Rafael, Mrs. Wilkinson's brother, came to Europe to help West German and Norwegian police in the search.

Mrs. Wilkinson and her husband, a real estate investor, live at 2290 Paradise Drive.

Guilty Plea In Bridge Collision

James Edward Gray Jr., 28, of Larkspur, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of misdemeanor drunken driving. He had originally faced a felony count stemming from a head-on collision on the Golden Gate Bridge July 15.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. set Oct. 24 for sentencing.

Gray was charged after an accident in which his car crossed the center line and hit a minibus. Gray and the occupants of the bus, Brian W. Beggs, 21, and Paul R. Healey, 18, both of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, were injured.

Flood Zone Set To Pass Gavel

The Santa Venetia Flood Control Advisory Board will meet Tuesday to elect a new chairman to succeed Ronald W. Shafer, who has served for the past five years.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the library at MacPhail School, Vendola Drive and Adrian Way.

"It dawned on me that quite possibly we should rotate the chairmanship and so 'I'm asking for an election," said Shafer. He said he will suggest a set term for the post.

Other items on the agenda include progress reports on the storm drain that is being installed along Meadow Way and on reconstruction of dikes along Gallinas Creek.

Culprit Pinpointed In Water Trouble

The culprit in Marin Municipal Water District's sometimes "dirty, earthy, musty" water is a miniplant called the actinomycete, district officials reported yesterday after a two-year study.

The tiny irritant, part of a group of branching unicellular micro-organisms believed to fall between fungi and bacteria, was thought to be at fault from the beginning.

Two years of scientific study substantiated the theory and also resulted in recommendation of techniques designed to prevent future problems in district lakes.

The report, by district employees, was outlined yesterday for the board by Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger, shortly after board members authorized purchase of an oxygen system for Bon Tempe Lake at a cost of $1,748 — a system expected to eliminate taste and odor problems there.

Bon Tempe and Kent lakes have been most seriously affected but more recently, Nicasio Lake has shown signs of actinomycete, Seeger reported. Alpine Lake also was tested, but not Lagunitas and Phoenix which are no longer used as water supplies.

Seeger said there are two basic ways to control taste and odor — treatment after it leaves the lake or at the lake. He indicated the latter would be more economical.

Actinomycete develop on fallen tree limbs and other old vegetation along lake banks and on algae. Taste and odor problems are attributed to the metabolic products of the organism and lack of oxygen in the affected lakes, Seeger said.

One way of treating the problem is the system authorized yesterday which will circulate water in Bon Tempe to keep the temperature lower than actinomycete can stand.

Other methods are applications of copper sulfate or carbon to the lakes.

The report said copper had been effective within two weeks of treatment in district lakes. In apparent conflict, however, it noted that literature in the use of copper indicates actinomycete growth is accelerated in copper environments.

Seeger also reported that after it was established that the organism grows on old vegetation, crews cleaned up the lake banks.

Puppy Is Stolen

A German shepherd puppy valued by its owner at $150 was stolen either Friday or Saturday afternoon from the Washone Kennels, at 1754 Indian Valley Road, Novato, the owner reported to sheriff's officers.

Russian River Water May Cost Millions More Than Expected

By JOANNE GRANT

A study that could add millions of dollars in cost to the plan to bring Russian River water to Marin is currently underway by a top Bay Area geologist.

Marin Municipal Water District Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said yesterday tests are being made to see if the planned natural filtration system for Russian River water will work.

If the natural system, filtering water through river bed gravel, won't work, a treatment plant would have to be built, at considerable additional cost.

Seeger explained the natural system would draw water 80 to 90 feet through the river gravels. The study is being made to see if the gravel will handle the necessary water volume.

Currently, Russian River water used in Sonoma County is filtered through gravel. From the earliest studies of the Sonoma-Marin project, it was believed the natural system would be used.

Some time ago, Seeger reported to the board that he had doubts about the system for the quantity of water which will eventually be needed, noting that the gravel can clog up.

Space will be needed in the river for several filtration units and it's also necessary to determine whether land acquisition would cost more than a treatment plant.

Seeger said geologist Burton H. Marliave of Walnut Creek is working on the project, with the total estimated cost of the study not to exceed $8,000 of which Marin Municipal's share would be 40 per cent.

Seeger did not discuss costs of land acquisition nor treatment plants. The last water treatment plant built in Marin, the Bon Tempe in the San Geronimo Valley, cost $1.2 million 10 years ago. Its maximum capacity at that price was 20 million gallons a day, far less than expected eventually from the Russian River.

Questioned after the meeting about the effect of former gravel mining operations in the river bed, Seeger said it had not been mentioned in connection with the current study.

He reported to the board a meeting has been tentatively set for Oct. 28 at the district office with members of the North Marin County Water District and the Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, the other jurisdictions involved in the multi-million-dollar plans to import water.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The University of Cincinnati was the nation's first city university, established in 1906. The school also claims the honor of pioneering in cooperative programs in higher education.

EARNING POWER

Water District Money Is Put To Greater Interest

A rare question from a Marin Municipal Water District director on district operation has resulted in higher interest rates, the board learned yesterday.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said a study was made following a question several months ago from Jordan L. Martinelli on whether the district was making all it could on the money it has in banks.

It wasn't, a report by Peter J. Gilliam, controller, indicated.

The district has money scattered throughout the county, mostly in small amounts — $5,000 or so, the report indicated. These accounts are receiving 5 per cent interest.

However a large chunk — $345,352 — in the San Rafael branch of the Wells Fargo Bank was only earning 4.25 per cent interest. It's now earning 6.25 per cent, Gilliam's report said.

Other funds at that bank were increased from 4.25 per cent to 5 per cent, he reported.

He also reported interest on U.S. Treasury bills at the time of his report was 7.27 per cent. No investments can be made in these until current time deposits are up, said Seeger.

He also said the controller would explore consolidating some of the accounts in an effort to obtain better interest rates.

The Marin Water District Board Also:

SLIDE — Called for bids for repair of a slide at the Bon Tempe treatment plant for the Oct. 22 meeting. Estimated cost of the work is $17,100 and federal assistance totaling $33,000 has been requested.

LOG CABIN — Approved reroofing Phoenix log cabin for the first time in 50 years. The work, to be done by low bidder McLeran Roofing Co. will cost $1,500. The board also authorized removing some trees from near the cabin.

FIRELINE — Authorized a fireline extension along Scenic Road in Fairfax, with the city and district splitting the cost of $8,184.

HEIFETZ — Extended for another year a 1967 personal note of Harry Heifetz for $3,400 in connection with some work across from Terra Linda, provided he continues paying 6 per cent interest. Asked for clarification of the note and problem, Seeger told the board, "It's a very shady thing; it was hard to tie down." Director William A. Marcus commented, "I'm a great believer in a modest (interest) rate and getting it than a high rate and not."

PERSONNEL — Hired James W. Mistron and Edward J. Posusney as engineering aides at $602 a month each.

SEWER BOARD — Authorized Seeger to serve on a regional board studying Bay Area waste disposal problems.

POINT REYES — Decided to study taking a stand on Point Reyes National Seashore, as directors indicated they weren't enthusiastic about it since Point Reyes isn't even in the district's area.

MACHINE STUDY — Authorized a study to process accounts receivable by computer, a program to cost $13,900 and require a $7,000 envelope stuffing machine.

Board Revisions Taken To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Service Committee on Public Education asked superior court yesterday to prevent San Francisco's voters from deciding whether to elect board of education members.

Judge Edward F. O'Day ordered the board of supervisors to show cause tomorrow why he should not issue a temporary restraining order against the initiative proposed by the Concerned Parents Association.

SCOPE, which describes itself as a liberal organization, says it does not object to an elective board rather than an appointive one. It does object to an election from the districts proposed by the CPA.

Supervisors voted to put the election proposal on the November ballot after a recheck showed that the CPA had enough valid signatures for an initiative on the subject.

Commission Argument Due Airing On KTIM

County Administrator Alan Bruce's proposed dissolution of some conuty commissions will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board by a panel including Bruce, Ray W. Foreaker, vice chairman of the county aviation commission; Lothar Salin, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, and a representative of the juvenile delinquency commission.

Questions are invited for tomorrow's broadcast. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

HONORED — Sgt. Edmund F. Ball Jr. of 1067 Turner Drive, Novato, has been named noncommissioned officer of the quarter with the 1902nd Communications Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base. The award, sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, is made for contributions to flying safety in Marin County.

Tomales High Students Pick Slates, Leave Issue Open

Class officers have been elected at Tomales High School but the constitutional question of whether or not the principal should continue to decide the qualification of who shall run for student body offices has not been settled, according to Vice Principal Neal Fenton.

During the last days of school in early June, Supt. Anthony Matulich disqualified Robert Borello for running for student body president which threw the election to Dennis Rodoni. And as a result a student commission was selected to propose amendments to the constitution for submission to the student body.

"The students are still working on the constitution and as yet no date has been set for any election on it," Fenton said.

New class officers elected are:

Juniors: Mike Deenihan, president; Ray Mazzuchi, vice president; Kathy McDonald, secretary-treasurer and Annette Bunce, student council representative.

For the first time, the school elected junior varisty cheerleaders. They were: Robin Noblett; Becky Anderson; Donna Tremari and Lindell Kieffer. Varsity cheerleaders were elected last spring.

Warrant Issued In Credit Card Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for Harry M. Cassidy, 26, of Kentfield, when he failed to appear in court.

Cassidy is accused of signing another person's name to a credit card slip. He was arrested Sept. 23 in Novato after San Rafael police alerted other officers to be on the lookout for him. Cassidy allegedly used a stolen credit card Sept. 21 in San Rafael.

Expansion Of Grand Canyon Being Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., called today for expansion of the Grand Canyon National Park to more than three times its present size.

Case introduced a bill to enlarge the park from its 673,575 acres to more than 2.1 million acres.

The Case bill, based on proposals of the Sierra Club of San Francisco, also would result in a park more than twice as large as called for in pending bills by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, jr-Ariz., and Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

Either proposal would bar construction of huge dams once proposed as part of the Central Arizona Project to carry Colorado River water through aquaducts to the Phoenix and Tucson areas.

Case said he was "glad to join the battle" against the proposed dams in the Grand Canyon. But he said further studies "indicated the desirability of protecting the important side canyons and plateau areas to make an intelligible whole of the canyon."

The proposed park, Case said, would require acquisition of about 40,000 acres of private land at a cost the Sierra Club estimated at less than $4 million. He said the bill would provide for acquisition of 50,000 acres of state land.

Gonorrhea Case Load Reaches 21

Twenty-one cases of gonorrhea were reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer has reported.

Also reported were 11 cases of streptococcus infection, three cases of infectious hepatitis and one case of tuberculosis.

Stations Donate $1,736 For Kidney Machine

Fourteen independent Shell service station dealers in Marin and Southern Sonoma have raised $1,736 for the Kidney Foundation of Northern California.

The money will be used to buy artificial kidney machines for patients unable to afford them.

The funds were raised in a one-day drive on Sept. 20 in which the dealers donated five cents on each gallon of gas pumped to the foundation.

Among the contributing dealers whose names were omitted from a list published Sept. 16 were Ed Gilmore, whose station is at Third and Irwin streets, San Rafael; Lloyd Roberts, Petaluma Boulevard, Petaluma, and Jim Burkhead, Washington Boulevard, also Petaluma.

Installers Of Elevators Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike of elevator installers has brought halt-work orders on 58 major buildings in the city and continues to hamper building on Long Island and nearby New Jersey and northern suburbs of New York.

The full impact of the strike, now in its 14th week, began to be felt this week after Buildings Commissioner John T. O'Neill ordered work stopped at 58 building sites, 27 each in Manhattan and the Bronx and two each in Brooklyn and Queens.

The order was issued at the request of Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery to enforce a regulation that a manned personnel elevator must be available for fire emergency in construction projects rising more than 150 feet above the street.

Refunds Due PG&E Customers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Refunds totaling $25 million have been authorized for customers of Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

The California Public Utilities Commission approved the refunds yesterday, a result of favorable reductions in costs ordered by the Federal Power Commission for gas supplied by El Paso Natural Gas Co.

A PUC spokesman said the average household gas refund would be $3.25 and the average electrical customer's refund would be 90 cents.

Electrical rates are involved because gas was used to generate electricity.

Most of the refunds, in the form of credits to bills, will be made in November.

Petaluma Scholars Commended On Tests

Two Petaluma Senior High School students have won letters of commendation for high performances on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test.

They are Steven Wynne, sports writer at the Independent-Journal's Southern Sonoma bureau, and Lance Barlas. Wynne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wynne, 21 Juniper Court, and Barlas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Barlas, 30 Brainerd Avenue.

Reagan Differs With Nixon On Direct Presidential Vote

COMBINED AP & UPI

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan, chief executive of the state with the most votes, doesn't like direct election of the president — the plan passed by the House of Representatives and supported by President Richard M. Nixon.

"To go to the direct presidential election would be the greatest blow to our sovereign states that has been made for a long time," said the Republican governor.

Reagan commented at his news conference yesterday a few hours after Nixon, also a Republican, endorsed the House-passed constitutional amendment abolishing the present electoral college and substituting direct balloting.

It would give the presidency to the candidate receiving the largest popular vote. If no candidate got 40 per cent of the vote, there would be a runoff.

On other topics, the governor:

Declined to say much about whether he will run for a second term, even though his friends and advisers have said he will enter the race. Asked if he had decided to run, Reagan said "I haven't and I'm not prepared to make any statement."

Promised again that California will not have another tax increase while he is governor. "I don't care what has to happen," he said. "We are not going to ask the people of this state for more money."

Said he doubted whether he would call a special legislative session to reconsider his defeated tax reform plan.

Expressed doubt about claims by Cesar Chavez, the farm labor leader, that there are dangerously high levels of pesticide residues on grapes harvested in California.

Said he "would hate" to see the California State Employees Association remove its no-strike pledge, as will be proposed at its meeting next month.

Reagan's opposition to the House-passed electoral reform constitutional amendment could spell trouble in California for the plan.

If it passes the Senate, it would go to the states for ratification by legislatures. Both houses of the California Legislature are controlled by the Republicans — and Reagan has been successful in opposing party discipline on the GOP on major issues.

Speaking of the grape strikers Reagan was critical of a Chavez statement that dangerous levels of a pesticide had been found in California grapes purchased in and eastern market.

There might have been "shenanigans" involved, he said. The laboratory that tested the grapes might have made a mistake, he said. "It was either that or someone putting something on the grapes."

Reagan also said Operation Intercept had his "full support," saying the inconvenience faced by irate motorists may be a good idea.

Alarmed by an "epidemic of narcotics addiction and drug abuse" in California, Reagan warned the only way to cure this "is to isolate the virus" and "Operation Intercept is trying to do just that."

It was the first time Reagan has spoken out strongly in favor of the Nixon administration's new get-tough policy of searching every vehicle leaving Mexico in an effort to cut off drug smuggling. The searches have resulted in frustrating traffic tie-ups.

"There is no question that this project has caused more inconvenience to tourists and workers who cross the border regularly," Reagan said. "Some are obviously experiencing a measure of economic hardship.

"But if this were an epidemic disease that crippled and took the lives of our youth, the economic hardships and the inconvenience to travelers would be considered inconsequential."

Reagan repeated his opposition to legalizing marijuana.

"I think that our young people are being deliberately indoctrinated by some who for whatever reason are continuing to tell them (marijuana) is like chewing gum," Reagan said.

Bolinas Pipeline Job May Interrupt Water

Installation of a new water pipeline on Brighton Avenue at Wharf Road in Bolinas may interrupt water service during the next six weeks, warned Jane Phillips, secretary of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

Mrs. Phillips said construction on the pipeline, which will provide domestic and fire-fighting water service, began yesterday.

BAY AREA housewife Mary S. Atwood was inspired by a visit to India to learn all she could about traditional Indian dishes. Her interest prompted several return visits to watch and assist Indian housewives with food preparation and the outcome is a cookbook, "A Taste of India," with recipes adapted to the American kitchen.

Try Traditional India Recipes

By BARBARA HOSMER

With Marinites' love of travel abroad, perhaps the trip around the world and ensuing inspiration to write a cookbook on Indian foods of Hillsborough resident Mary S. Atwood will give Marin travelers an idea of their own.

Mrs. Atwood and her husband John made a nine months' trip around the world in 1960 and she became fascinated with India and its cooking.

She returned to India on three more trips to spend time in Indian friends' homes and kitchens, dine at some of the country's "best tables" and discuss food preparation with many Indian homemakers.

"During these visits I . . . learned the techniques and recipes in Indian home kitchens by observation and participation in the cooking process," she says.

Mrs. Atwood began to compile some of the basic Indian recipes and then to work out the proportions and techniques so that an authentic Indian meal could be prepared in any American kitchen.

Her book, "A Taste of India," (Houghton Mifflin Co.) has a wide variety of traditional Indian dishes and sweets and Mrs. Atwood includes an introduction explaining origins of the dishes and ingredients and their use. In all there 275 recipes that the most inexperienced cook can follow easily.

Some of the recipes:

MILD LAMB CURRY

2 pounds lamb, cubed
6 cloves garlic, crushed
3 medium onions, thinly sliced
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoons ground coriander
1 teaspoon cumin
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon ginger, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
pinch of ground cardamon
1½ cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sugar
½ cup yogurt

Heat vegetable oil and fry onions until golden. Add coriander, cumin, paprika, ginger, cayenne pepper and ground cardamon. Fry for 2 minutes. Put in lamb and fry for 5 minutes. Add water and bring to a simmer. Add salt and sugar. Cover and simmer until meat is tender. Just before serving, stir in the yogurt.

A dessert to accompany this meal could be Banana Halva which contains the romantic ingredient of rose water, though vanilla can be substituted:

BANANA HALVA

4 or 5 firm, ripe bananas
3 tablespoons clarified butter
1¼ cups water
⅝ cup sugar
½ teaspoon rose water
½ teaspoon ground cardamon
2 tablespoons blanched sliced almonds

Peel and cut banana into 1-inch pieces. Heat butter in a heavy skillet. Add bananas and fry for about 5 minutes over moderate heat, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and thoroughly mash the bananas. Add ¼ cup water and return to heat. Simmer gently for 2 and 3 minutes, stirring constantly.

Combine sugar and remaining 1 cup of water. Add to bananas. Simmer gently for 15 to 20 minutes or until quite thick. Stir frequently and watch for sticking. Remove from heat and stir in rose water. If any excess butter is present, drain it off. Pour into serving dish. Garnish with ground cardamom and blanched almonds. Can be served either warm or slightly chilled.

Vanilla can be substituted for rose water.

TAMALE PIE — Ground beef, ripe olives, onions, tomato sauce, Roquefort cheese in a cornmeal crust — dates back to early days in California when it was a province of Mexico. Easy to make, delicious to serve for buffet suppers with more of the piquant Roquefort and fruit for dessert.

Mexican-Inspired Tamale Pie

Give a "charro" a tempting hot tamale, and you're sure to bring a smile of pleasure to his face. Tamales, made of cornmeal dough, filled with tastily spiced ground beef and steamed in corn husks, are one of Mexico's famed foods. Even if you didn't get to Mexico this year to see these dashing horsemen perform at rodeos or fiestas, or to taste these exciting foods, you can still enjoy the cuisine of this colorful country.

TAMALE PIE

Cold water
1⅓ cups yellow cornmeal
2 teaspoons salt
1½ tablespoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 pound ground chuck
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
⅓ cup pitted ripe olives, drained

Measure 1 quart water into top of double boiler. Place over direct medium heat. Gradually stir in cornmeal. Add 1 teaspoon of the salt. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mush is thick and bubbling. Set it over boiling water; cover and cook 20 minutes. Heat oil in a large skillet. Add onion; cook over low heat until soft and yellow. Add chuck. Break it up with a fork and cook, stirring often, until browned. Stir in tomato sauce, ¼ cup water, pepper, chili powder, olives, half the Roquefort cheese, and the remaining salt. Line the bottom and sides of a 2-quart casserole with three-fourths of the mush. Pour in meat mixture. Spoon remaining mush over top. Dot with remaining Roquefort cheese. Bake, uncovered, at 350° 45 minutes or until bubbling hot and lightly browned on top. Makes 6 generous servings.

Food Bacteria

Food safety tips from Purdue University nutritionists: Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. If food cannot be served when ready, either keep it hot on low heat, or cool and reheat before serving. Most bacteria do not multiply above 120 degrees but 140 degrees as a minimum provides a safety zone. And for storage of perishable cold foods, temperatures should be 42 or below.

Dinner Short-Cuts From Canned Meats

Canned meat can mean a shortcut to cooking and clean-up chores without short changing the family.

LUNCHEON MEAT ORIENTAL

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, cut into ½-inch cubes
1 can (16 ounces) bean sprouts
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
1 slice bread, cut into ¼-inch cubes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Drain bean sprouts thoroughly. Combine meat, bean sprouts, celery, onion, sugar, pepper and mushroom soup. Mix well. Place in a 1½-quart casserole. Combine bread cubes and melted butter or margarine and sprinkle on top of meat mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. 4 servings.

DESERT CHILI

3 cans (10½ ounces each) chili (without beans)
4 cups corn chips
1 cup onion, coarsely grated
2 cups Cheddar cheese, grated

Open and heat chili. Crush corn chips. Place a third of corn chips in bottom of a greased 8 x 12-inch baking dish. Arrange half the heated chili, half the onion and half the cheese over the bottom layer of corn chips. Cover with another third of crushed corn chips. Add remaining chili, onion and cheese. Top with remaining corn chips. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

CHEESE HASHBURGERS

1 can (15½ ounces) corned beef hash
⅓ cup catsup
2 tablespoons pickle relish
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 teaspoons mustard
4 hamburger buns
8 slices Cheddar cheese

Combine corned beef hash, catsup, pickle relish, oregano and mustard. Split buns in half and toast slightly. Spread hash mixture on buns evenly, covering toasted surface completely. Place on broiler pan. Place broiler pan and rack in oven so the meat is 3 to 5 inches from heat. Broil 6 to 8 minutes or until mixture is heated through. Place Cheddar cheese slice on top of meat mixture and broil 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese is melted. 8 servings.

Marin Native Aids Local Museum

SINCE OLD St. Hilary's was turned into a local history museum by the Landmarks Society of Belvedere-Tiburon 10 years ago, a number of items once used in the old church, as well as articles of general interest have been donated. Mrs. John Ericson, executive director of the society, displays a holy water font and a religious picture used in the former church. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

By BETTY FROST

"I retired and became a full fledged volunteer immediately," said Mrs. John Ericson of Belvedere.

"Retirement" was in 1947 from her work as a statistician with the public health department and was prior to the birth of her daughter, Robin, now 22.

For the past 11 years the community service of Carol Ericson has been concentrated on helping the Landmarks Society of Belvedere-Tiburon. Officially she is the executive director of the society. These duties she describes as "curator, janitor, painter. . . " They also involve lectures to visitors to the museum, including school children, Boy and Girl Scouts and others.

Mrs. George Elman gives talks on the wildflowers preserved in the surrounding acreage under the auspices of the Landmarks Society, and Carol talks about local history. Lately a number of college students interested in botany have been making field trips to the Tiburon landmark.

THE MUSEUM, open to the public free of charge from April until mid-October is coming to the conclusion of its official season. On Sunday John Thomas Howell, curator of botany at the California Academy of Sciences, will talk on "Fall Flora" at 3:30 p.m. at Old St. Hilary's. Dried flowers and seed pods to be arranged for the occasion by Mrs. Elman, will be on display until Oct. 15, when the final event of the official season will be a tea, and lecture by Mrs. Robert Tuckey of Kentfield on arrangements of dried flowers that are available locally.

This does not end Mrs. Ericson's responsibilities, however. The museum will still be open by appointment for individuals and groups, and in the winter months refurbishing of the building is undertaken and certain necessary bookkeeping responsibilities taken care of by the executive director.

Breaking up the ordinary routine of Sunday and Wednesday afternoon sessions when the museum is open have been some unusual events. Shortly after an article appeared in the New York Times about the unusual wild flowers preserved in the two acres below the museum, a woman flew out from New York especially to see the Black Jewel Flower in bloom.

Last Fourth of July a wedding was held at the Landmark, when Elaine Lyons of Ross chose it for her marriage to William K. Halnan of Oakland. The ceremony, performed by an Episcopal clergyman, was the first marriage service in the former Catholic church since 1954.

"IT WAS A charming wedding," Carol reminisced, "Simple field flowers were used to decorate the church, and it was just right for a small wedding. I wish we could have more weddings here."

The most unusual request for use of the museum came to the director by telephone. "What about a funeral at Old St. Hilary's?" a woman's voice demanded. Taken aback, Carole sputtered, "I don't see why not." "Good," said the anonymous caller, "I will put it in my will that I want my funeral held at Old St. Hilary's," and hung up.

Mrs. Ericson's interest in the area and in local history is authentic and springs from a life-long association with the area. A native of Marin County, she grew up in Tiburon. She attended the old Tiburon grammar school, noting that the present structure is the third Tiburon elementary school. She was graduated from Tamalpais High School and from the University of California with a B.S. in bacteriology. She has lived in Marin all of her life with the exception of four years when she was employed in Stockton as a statistician for the San Joaquin County Health Dept.

Her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Creighton came to Belvedere as bride and groom in 1905. Five years later they purchased property in Lyford's Cove in Tiburon and built a large house where Carol, her three brothers and two sisters spent their childhood. The home, still in the family, is now owned by Carol's brother, Allan Creighton of San Anselmo.

CAROL'S FATHER was a marine engineer on the bay ferry boats, serving as chief engineer of the Cazadero for many years and was chief engineer of the ferry, Eureka, until February 1941 when the boats were taken off the bay permanently.

After her marriage in 1940 to Jack Ericson, now in the insurance business in San Francisco, where he is employed with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., the couple lived in Sausalito for several years. In 1947 she began her "volunteer career."

For 17 years she was secretary for St. Hilary's Church, which she had attended all of her life. In the old structure is a window dedicated to Carol's mother, Loretta Ryder Creighton, noting that she had been a member of the church since 1905.

During the time immediately following World War II she started the Tiburon Well Baby Clinic which she operated for nine years, under the sponsorship of the Tiburon Mothers Club.

"WHEN THE Village Salvage Shop was started 17 years ago, who was into that up their neck? — Me!" Carol emphasized. She was chairman of the board of directors of the shop for four years, and continued to assist actively for several years. The shop was, from the beginning, an ecumenical endeavor, and today is operated by the women of St. Stephen's Guild, St. Hilary's Church, Westminster Presbyterian Church and the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club.

In 1958 when plans to build a new church for St. Hilary's Parish were in the works, the question of what would become of the little white church on the Tiburon hill, an outstanding example of Carpenter's Gothic architecture, concerned the whole Tiburon peninsula.

Carol worked with Mrs. Robert Bastian of Belvedere, former president of the Landmarks Society, to preserve the old church as a museum.

But the cheerful Carol's days aren't entirely devoted to good works, she protests. She has studied pottery making at the College of Marin, plays golf with the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club regularly and has lately taken up gourmet cooking.

"Me and Julia Child," she grins.

Marin Women

SEATED IN one of the two remaining original pews used in Old St. Hilary's when it was a Roman Catholic mission church, Mrs. John Ericson of Belvedere holds a coal oil lamp used in the structure at the turn of the century. The lamp had been preserved by the late Mrs. Agnus Kircher of Tiburon, who gave it to the museum.

Wedding Postponed

ESTCOURT, South Africa (AP) — Telephone operator Bennie Schutter, 19, talked himself out of a wedding when he put a long-distance call through to his out-of-town brother to relieve the boredom of office routine. He lost track of the time as he carried on the conversation in between connecting other telephone calls. At the end of the month, he discovered the one call cost him Rands 45 ($63). His next telephone call was to his fiancee to explain that he couldn't afford to get married that month. The wedding was postponed.

Wives Think Of Pie And Cake But Ice Cream Is Favorite

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most women think men's favorite desserts are pies and cakes. But the desserts wives serve most often are ice cream, gelatin or canned fruit.

The study that revealed these findings also quoted most wives as saying they choose desserts to please their husbands.

WHILE YOU ponder the logic of the foregoing, consider some other findings of the study made by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn.

Ice cream is the most frequently served dessert and the ranking favorite with children. Runners-up with small fry are puddings, flavored gelatins and cookies.

Childen, as you might expect, are the big dessert eaters. More than nine out of 10 women said their children ate dessert with one or more main meals during the week, and three out of four said their children ate dessert every weekend.

Women themselves said they preferred gelatin, cakes and pies, in that order. Yet 68 per cent of the 800 women questioned in the eight-city study said they serve ice cream one or more times a week. Sixty-seven per cent said they serve canned fruit as frequently.

STORAGE SPACE apparently has little influence on the choice of dessert. Only 60 per cent said they actually had ice cream on hand. But 84 per cent had canned fruit in the house, and 77 per cent had both flavored gelatin, which is relatively popular, and packaged pudding mixes, which the study showed well down in usage on a list of 12 types of desserts.

Other desserts considered were mix cakes, already prepared cakes, cakes made from scratch, pies made from scratch, bought pies and frozen baked goods.

Women ranked both ice cream and canned fruits high in nutrition, with the fruit taking a slight edge. But they look on canned fruit as a casual dessert —not fancy enough for a formal setting or a special occasion meal, such as entertaining close friends or the husband's boss.

They regard both canned fruit and flavored gelatins as versatile desserts and ingredients for desserts; also economical and appropriate for dieting.

THE WOMEN tended to categorize puddings as children's desserts; relatively few felt puddings should be served to adults.

Pies were envisioned as a man's dessert and, with cakes, those best designed to impress both families and guests. Women also called pies and cakes the tastiest and most popular desserts of the dozen they were asked to consider.

Pies and cakes' stepchild status in menu planning apparently stems from their oft-deserved image as fattening, rich and expensive.

The study showed women put frozen baked goods in the same class as cakes and pies — and for the same reasons. Yet 45 per cent of the women said they buy more frozen foods now than they did a year earlier.

DESPITE SUCH drawbacks, women look to desserts to add variety to meals. Four out of 10 felt a good dessert guaranteed success for a meal. More than eight out of 10 said they felt they could rely on a dessert to dress up a meal.

Many use desserts—especially cakes and pies—to round out a meal featuring a meatless casserole, or to brighten a meal in cold, dreary weather.

In our increasingly weight-conscious society, low calorie desserts appear to be making small headway — at least, among the families covered in this study. Women said they found it difficult to accept low calorie desserts. Forty per cent said that "low calorie desserts usually aren't very good."

Even though desserts can be expensive, three-fourths of the women said they wouldn't eliminate that course to save money. They indicated that they tend to reserve cakes and —to a lesser extent—pies for occasions when the upgrading of a meal outweighs the disadvantages of high cost and high calorie count.

HELEN HELP US!

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 28 and happily married, though my mother in her well-meaning way almost goofed it up. In fact, she did scare away several prospects.

Now she's doing the same thing with my younger sisters. She gets that marriage look every time they bring a fellow home, and the way she talks them up to eligible bachelors, well, it's like she was desperate. She praises their cooking, sewing, sweetness, the works, and even though my sisters are very marriageable, the guys get scared and run. Actually they aren't ready to settle down yet, but they'd like to keep male friendships. They can't always keep the men away from our matchmaking mother, so how can we get her to think before she speaks? She's really a dear and always so sorry afterwards, but she just can't help (as you once said) the ring in her voice. — MRS. J.P.

DEAR MRS. J. P.:

It's darn near impossible (as you discovered) to make a born matchmaker stop glowing with bride. She does it unconsciously, and don't blame her overmuch, as most mothers develop a ringing in their ears when their girls reach marriage age.

If your sisters can't kid Mama into line, then they might work out a system of stop signals when she gets that marriage look. Most fellows understand, especially if they're in on some of the friendly teasing. Didn't yours? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I notice you are sometimes reprimanded by adult readers who are furious because you stand up for young people. Too often they see only what they hope to see, not the real good in youth. It seems they actually enjoy believing kids are going to the dogs so they can pound their chests and show how righteous they are.

My eldest grandson has long sideburns and a longer hair style, wears bell-bottoms and fancy ties, but works in a research department of a chemical company. Yet he gets those looks from up-tighters who can't accept change. Often he spends his weekends taking youngsters on outings they would never get to enjoy otherwise.

We recently lost our 15-year old dog. The boy next door felt so sad for us that he offered us his much-loved dog as a replacement. When we explained how grateful we were but we couldn't accept, he said, "Any time you want to, come over and talk to my Lancer. We know how lonely you are."

Children of all ages are still the same. Socrates thought they were going to the devil and the world still does, but some of these so-called devils are now running our country, and some of the present crop will be doing a good job running it in the future. Our youth, for the most part, are holding up well in an insecure world shadowed by too many wars.

I'm glad you give them credit, Helen. — ME TOO!

DEAR ME TOO:

Thank you for an extra-fine letter. You know, the so-called generation gap isn't so much between the young and older, as it is between members of the same generation. You, and people like you relate beautifully to youth, but I doubt you have much time for the doom-cryers in your age group who see every long haired boy and miniskirted girl as a sex-crazed juvenile delinquent. — H.

Breathe In Birth Control

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — A University of New Hampshire botanist says all women could be sterilized by an airborne virus, and those who wanted to have children could receive an antidote.

Dr. Richard W. Schreiber said the virus and antidote could be developed in three years at a cost of about $5 million.

He said his system would require married couples to "make a human decision" to have a family, reversing the present approach that requires them to "work not to have children."

The antidote would be administered by injection and be good for six months or less, he said.

Schreiber said his system is justified by trends that show man is "fatally close to breeding himself out of existence."

Season Of The Shaped Shirt

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

It's shirt time again. Every so often the fashion world takes a look at the all-purpose, ubiquitous old shirt and decides it's time to do something with it again. And the time is now. Is there any other garment, I wonder, that has been such a long-player in the history of fashion?

The shirt of the season, for both men and women, is shaped. That's the message. Instead of bagging out over your skirt or your trousers, with the need for frequent tucking in, this season's shirt hugs you gently around the ribs, definitely marks your waistline - and the same goes for men and women. This is achieved of course by shaping of the side seams and by darts taken in both back and front. So if you've an old shirt you're fond of, and you can sew,there's nothing to stop you from up-dating it at once. Just put it on, pin in darts to make it fit snugly around you, and sew it up.

SHAPED SHIRTS for men are a relatively new idea, and many a middle-aged man, and quite a few younger ones too who have let themselves go around the middle will be surprised to find that the new shaplier version of drip-dries won't quite do up in the front.

Lace shirts and shirt dresses that the girls have been wearing for the past few months are giving way to designs in slippery satin or crushed velvet for autumn—while the men have picked up the lace-look idea for themselves.

The Indian look comes in, unexpectedly, in a range of super-shirts cut from very fine lightweight suede and trimmed with leather fringing on the breast pocket and the cuffs. These are strictly for girls who don't spill things over themselves and live a dainty life. The cleaning bills for suede could mount up astronomically over a period of months. There's a trend, too, towards the home-spun wood-choppers look again with shirts in woolly materials, checked or plaid designs and bright warm colors.

Swinging in completely the opposite direction, there are a whole host of shirts around now in floppy droopy fabrics which cling seductively to the body (his or hers) and go in perfectly with the rather more fluid look of fashion at the moment. Some of the best shirts are in printed jersey, cut rather meanly so that you look rather like an overgrown schoolchild in them, if you are skinny. If you're not the result is less than appetizing.

THE SHIRT that's the fashion favorite at the moment is the jockey shirt. It's cut from boldly striped cotton jersey, and it has no collar, simply a collar band which buttons in the center. It has short sleeves, which makes it look somehow younger and gayer and more feminine than the long-sleeved variety which can conjure up an office atmosphere. On the shoulders are little epaulettes.

The skirt that you wear with your shirt is important, because it's essential to retain something of that long-waisted look. In the conventional skirt this is done by having it snug and cut on the cross from the waist to the hipline, then flaring out in tiny pleats or panels cut on the cross. If you're wearing trousers then they must be flared or cut like bell-bottoms - anyone who is sticking to stretch ski-trousers for casual wear is missing out on a great new fashion look.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

(AP Newsfeature)

Men are accustomed to giving neck and sleeve sizes when buying shirts, but for those who want to keep up with style waist measurement also will count.

This is because of the new shaped shirt, which follows the contour of the body.

Typical of the trend is a torso shirt which has a bib-like front, reminiscent of the old-time tapered sides. A man wearing a 15½ neck and 34 sleeve would have to have a waist measurement of no more than 35 inches. Otherwise, it'd look like a stuffed sausage.

"One of the factors which makes the torso shirt a broad-appeal shirting item is that Americans are weight-conscious and have the trim to wear such a shirt," says Jay Raab, Philadelphia, a shirt firm executive.

There doesn't seem to be any concern that the ordinary guy will go for the shaped shirt. Last year's high collar, which seemed so noticeable, scarcely causes a ripple. Fashion designer John Weitz has come forth with an international line for fall which accents the collar further, adds detail to three-inch French cuffs, some of which have a curved instead of straight edge, and colors and patterns of vivid and vibrant hues.

"We feel the big colors will be chocolate brown, bronze, red and black," says Raab.

Hands Off Ties

Tip to the men: If you're a "tie soiler," could be you're a chronic tie adjuster. Don't keep adjusting the knot when it doesn't need it.

Save Stuffers

Save cardboard stuffers that come back from the laundry inside men's folded shirts. These are handy for wrapping odd-shaped gifts.

Scientist Ties Infants' Death Rate To Radiation

PITTSBURGH (WMNS) — Why did infant deaths, which had been dropping steadily for years, suddenly level off in the early 1950s?

A leading radiation expert blames fallout from atomic tests begun in 1945 and continued until 1963, according to the Women's Medical News Service.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, director of radiation physics at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, points to infant mortality rates in eight southern states as proof. In these states, all in the path of fallout from the New Mexico and Nevada testing sites, the rate of baby deaths stopped declining while infant mortality in neighboring states — out of the fallout path — remained normal.

Furthermore, says Dr. Sternglass, baby deaths in other states correlate directly with strontium-90 measurements in milk. Recent Swedish experiments, he says, reveal something unsuspected up to now — that radioactive strontium can damage reproductive cells. This genetic damage, he believes, has killed one baby out of every hundred born in the 1950s and up to the mid-sixties.

Wear The Right Shoes When Applying For Job

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)— "Putting your best foot forward" means wearing the right shoes when applying for a job.

Clothing specialists in the Extension Service of the University of Vermont say that potential employers can tell a lot about a prospective employee by the cut of his or her shoes.

The specialists offer these tips to job hunters:

Women should wear simple, low or mid-heeled pumps, ties or slingbacks.

Sneakers are two-prong sore spots—they're definitely "out" for interviews and can hurt feet on the job because they normally lack proper support.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Major interest at the San Francisco Opera House last night centered on the opera debut of the renowned young Welsh soprano Gwyneth Jones in the title role of Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio."

She more than fulfilled expectations with a powerful voice of rich quality produced with splendid control. This permitted great emotional intensity in the demanding role of Leonore, disguised as a prison guard in order to find her husband imprisoned by a tyrant.

The role was a fortunate one for her debut in that she had as her husband, Florestan, the excellent young tenor James King, heard in his first major San Francisco Opera role after starting his career with spring opera here in 1961. The results of their previous singing of these roles together was evident.

In another way, however, it was a hazardous debut vehicle, for any woman singing an entire performance dressed as a man is at a disadvantage.

Miss Jones was electrifying in her great aria, "Abscheulicher! Wo Eilst Du Hin!" ("O! Thou Monstrous Diend!") on learning of tyrant Pizarro's plan to murder her husband, and the full beauty of King's voice was revealed when he sang the moving aria, "In Des Lebens Fruhlingstagen" ("In the Springtime Days of Life"). Their voices were evenly matched in duet and ensembles.

Franz Mazura, heard last year in the far different role of John the Baptist in "Salome" had the perfect black iron voice, appearance and dramatic force to convey the savage cruelty of Pizarro, and Peter Lagger of Switzerland, making his San Francisco Opera debut as Rocco, the chief jailer, was a strong bass with much emotional warmth.

A sparkling Marzelline, the jailer's daughter, was sung by soprano Sheila Marks, recently heard in the Marin Music Chest-sponsored performance of "Cosi Fan Tutte," with her usual clear, resonant lyricism.

Young tenor Evan Thomas made his major operatic debut successfully as Jaquino, who loves Marzelline. Bass Ara Berberian, a regular member of the opera staff sang the Prime Minister role of Don Fernando well, but has been heard to better advantage in other roles.

Swedish conductor Sixten Ehrling in his San Francisco Opera debut, for the most part made the orchestra serve the purposes of the singers and the drama, but conducted a full concert caliber "Leonore" Overture No. 3 between Scenes 1 and 2 of Act 2. I am inclined with critics who feel that this unnecessarily anticipates the musical and dramatic effects of the following scene. It belongs in the concert hall.

The huge diagonally placed wall of grillwork of designers Skalicki and Colangelo was ingeniously used to suggest the prison environs of the entire Paul Hager production. I have seen more impressive staging, however.

Though the chorus of prisoners and townspeople helped to provide a brilliant finale, the only notable choral number, the prisoners' chorus in Act 1, I found rather disappointing.

SLITHERY TOURIST IS JUST A MARIN STRAY

A San Rafael man and a local snake are both a little bit wiser today. The man has been given a brush-up course in herpetology and the snake has learned to watch where he crawls.

It all began yesterday morning when a man called the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum and excitedly told museum officials he had captured a deadly poisonous South Pacific reptile. The snake had apparently immigrated to this country in a shipment of Japanese flowers, the man said.

Museum officials waited eagerly to assess the rare find, but were disappointed when the deadly reptile turned out to be a garden variety California King snake.

Bar Owners Plead Guilty In Pot Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sausalito bar owners Stanley Mulligan, 36, and Charles P. Barrett, 46, pleaded guilty yesterday in U.S. District Court to conspiracy to import marijuana and buy and sell it without paying taxes.

Sentencing was set for Dec. 1 by Judge George B. Harris.

The charge the pair pleaded to allows the judge to grant probation. A similar charge, which would not allow probation was dropped by the prosecution.

The two men were captured by U.S. Customs agents last October in Texas with 258 pounds of marijuana. They were allowed to deliver it and brought it to entertainment promoter Frank Werber's Richardson Bay home.

Arrested and charged with conspiracy to smuggle the weed, Werber was acquitted by a federal court July 3 in San Francisco but still faces trial in Marin on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

Murphy Retracts On Table Grape Pesticide Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., yesterday retracted charges that a California union had falsified a sample of table grapes to show a dangerous level of pesticide residues.

"Let's say that I was mistaken," he said during a Senate hearing called at his request to consider conflicting laboratory reports on pesticide residues in California table grapes.

Murphy's retraction and near apology came during an exchange with Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chairman of the Senate Migratory Labor Subcommittee.

Murphy denied he had accused the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (UFWOC) of misleading the committee with "a vicious type of deceit" in its efforts to organize California grape workers.

Mondale said he did not believe UFWOC had doctored a sample of grapes purchased from a Washington area store and found by an independent laboratory to contain a dangerous level of the pesticide aldrin.

"I think it is abundantly clear the union took an honest sample, took it to an honest laboratory, and came up with an honest report," Mondale said.

As a result, Mondale said, he felt the committee was "kicking a dead horse."

The chairman's comment resulted in prompt disagreement by Murphy, who said the committee should seek to determine the facts about a report that had done "a great deal of harm" to the California table grape industry. He said he wanted to know how the pesticide got into the sample in light of testimony that aldrin was not used on California grapes.

"This is not just an accusation," he said.

Mondale said Murphy's comments suggested "the nature of this hearing has changed," but went on a few minutes later to cite Murphy's charges of "a vicious type of deceit" by UFWOC.

"I did not understand that my statement was on trial here, and I resent the implication," Murphy said. "I have made no charges against anyone."

Mondale then read another of Murphy's statements suggesting UFWOC's charges grapes had dangerous amounts of pesticide were "part of an attempt to mislead the subcommittee by presenting false testimony."

When Murphy asked where Mondale was reading from, the chairman said it was from the Californian's letter requesting the hearing.

"This is a personal letter from me to the chairman, isn't it?" Murphy said.

"It was released to the press," Mondale noted, adding it made a "serious charge."

"Let's say that I was mistaken," Murphy said. "I intended no accusation. I'm not in the habit of accusing without facts and knowledge. Let's get on with the hearing. If the chairman has any complaints about me, I think we should take them up at a different time."

"Yes, I'm very fond of Senator Murphy," Mondale said. "I have no complaints."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., sat silently throughout the exchange.

Expert testimony presented to the committee did little to solve the mystery of how the aldrin got into samples which both UFWOC and Safeway Stores had tested by independent laboratories. Tests by the Food and Drug Administration, on the other hand, showed only traces of aldrin.

Monterey Nabs Check Suspect Duo

A man and woman forgery team wanted in three Marin cities for passing stolen checks has been arrested in Monterey.

Jerry Eugene Sharpnack, 26, of Hermosa Beach and Patricia B. Whitaker, 20, of Palm Harbor, Fla., who are being held in Monterey County Jail on charges of forgery and possession of a stolen vehicle, are wanted by San Rafael, Fairfax and Mill Valley police for passing stolen, forged checks here during the last two months.

They were arrested by Monterey police Sept. 5 while riding a stolen motorcycle, local police departments reported yesterday.

On Aug. 15 the pair passed a $20 forged check, stolen from Stephanie G. Johnson of Hermosa Beach, at the Gamas Service Station, 107 Bolinas Avenue, Fairfax Patrolman Mel Dollahite reported. Miss Whitaker allegedly forged the check and Sharpnack signed his own name as payee, he added.

Three days later the pair cashed a $122.50 check at the Western Sport Shop, 902 Third Avenue, San Rafael police reported. Sharpnack again endorsed the check, stolen from a Manhattan Beach cleaning firm, with his own name.

The duo began their alleged spree in Southern California where Sharpnack, working as a painter, gained access to homes where the checks were allegedly stolen, reported Patrolman Dollahite.

He was ordered to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Perdue was arrested by police answering a burglar alarm at the store. They said they found him in the attic.

NOBODY GOT INVOLVED

San Anselmo Patrolman F. B. Leonard stems bleeding from a head injury suffered by Jeanne E. Criss, 51, of 60 Magnolia Avenue, San Anselmo, as patrons of the Escrow bar where she was taken for first aid continues their drinking, juke box listening and dice games undisturbed. Mrs. Criss was treated later at Marin General Hospital for the severe head cut and bruises of the knees suffered at 7:40 p.m. yesterday when her car rammed into a nearby pet shop. Gerald Sutcliff (right), proprietor of the Casa del Perro, examines from the inside the hole knocked in the wall by Mrs. Criss's car. Police said the throttle jammed open as she turned around in a parking lot between the pet shop and the bar.

THREE-CITY CHASE

Burglary Suspect In Head-On Crash

A fleeing burglary suspect and a Tiburon woman were injured yesterday in a head-on crash that ended a high-speed chase through three cities, Larkspur police reported.

The suspect, Kenneth Ray White, 17, and two men who reportedly bailed out of his car at the start of the chase were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary. The other two were caught as they fled on foot in Larkspur.

The chase started at 12:25 p.m. after a neighbor telephoned Larkspur police to report a burglary in progress at the David L. Going residence on 93 Wilson Way in Madrone Canyon.

As Sgt. John Cottle started up the canyon, he was passed by the suspects in their car coming down. As he turned and gave chase, Cottle reported, two men leaped from the car near Larkspur-Corte Madera School and the third sped on along Magnolia Avenue.

The fleeing car reportedly hit 80 miles an hour as it went through Corte Madera and started up the Corte Madera Grade. Cottle radioed ahead to Mill Valley police, who took up the chase as White came down the grade. He reportedly sped through the East Blithedale Avenue-Camino Alto intersection at 45 to 50 miles an hour and smashed head-on into an oncoming car driven by Carolyn A. Fifield, 55, of 7 Mercury Drive, Tiburon.

Meantime, Larkspur Police Capt. Charles Mattos went after the other two suspects, aided by telephone reports from residents who saw them fleeing on foot. On Edison Avenue he arrested Donald Ray Turner, 20, of 623 Drake Avenue, and Morlin Smith, 22, of 307 Drake Avenue, both of Marin City.

White, 11 days short of his 18th birthday, reportedly has been sought since April when he escaped from Synanon House in Oakland, where he had been sent by Marin juvenile authorities.

Formerly of Marin City, White has been in hiding since then.

White was treated at Marin General Hospital for a back sprain, then taken to jail.

Mrs. Fifield was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for cuts and bruises.

All three men were in jail today in lieu of $2,500 bail. Smith and Turner were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

White is being held at jail rather than Marin County Juvenile Hall because of the risk of his escaping, said. Lt. Harvey Teague, head of the juvenile department of the sheriff's office.

Questioning Into Death Continues

Joan Conine, 38, died in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital of a brain hemorrhage. Tests were being made today to ascertain whether the hemorrhage was due to natural causes or an injury.

Lt. Guido Battaglia of the sheriff's department said that officers were interviewing her husband, Thomas S. Conine, 43, a former jazz tap dancer, who was reported by a daughter to have beaten his wife Sunday night.

Residents Of Marin City To Direct Future Planning

Marin City Council last night approved formation of a nonprofit corporation, owned and controlled by Marin City residents, to undertake development in Marin City.

"It's a big step," said Ulysses J. Montgomery, San Francisco urban consultant, who has proposed a $13 million, three-year developrnent program for Marin City.

The council's action, an endorsement of Montgomery's proposal for development of Marin City by a locally controlled association, will expedite the program, he said.

The corporation will be named the Marin City Development Association.

Montgomery said it could function as the Fillmore Community Development Association did in sponsoring the Martin Luther King Square housing development in San Francisco.

Among the purposes of the corporation are to provide moderate and low income housing and to plan and execute a development program.

It also is designed to give Marin City residents full involvement in all phases of development and a hand in decision making.

The council appointed seven persons to be incorporators of the new association and act as directors until an election is held.

Named directors were Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., Frank Phillips, C. J. Williams and Terrie Harris, all council members, and Otis Gaines, Thelma McKinney and Hazel Curry.

Banks pointed out that people in Marin City didn't have the money to get started on a development program. But Montgomery said the new corporation would qualify for federal funds and private grants for preliminary planning and federal funds for mortgage financing.

Montgomery has proposed a program of housing construction, a neighborhood shopping center and development of a science and industrial park over a three-year period.

He said the articles of incorporation will be filed in Sacramento "as quickly as possible."

Phase two would include 123 multi-family units and 39 single family units.

The final phase would be construction of a science industrial park on flatland area, once designated for a high school site.

Banks reported that six persons have filed for five council seats open in next Tuesday's election at the Economic Opportunity Council office at the Manzanita Center, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Candidates are Ronald Foster, seeking reelection, Harris, Mrs. Ruth Hodges, Williams and Peggy Ann Bullock, who recently were appointed to the council, and the lone challenger, Royce McLemore.

Remaining members on the nine-member council, whose terms are not expiring, are Banks, Mrs. Collie Gaines, Phillips and Joseph Knighten.

Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Gaines, Foster and Knighten were absent last night.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1969 23

Logging Case To Be Tried In Oakland

A suit filed by Marin County asking a halt in timber cutting on the Ethel Righetti Ranch on Bolinas Ridge will be tried in Alameda County, it was decided yesterday by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

After an all-day hearing in San Rafael City Hall, the judge granted the request of the logging firm and Dr. Righetti to move the case to her home county.

Attorneys for the lumber firm of Matthews, Humbert and Walker of North Bend, Ore., and for the ranch owner had asked for a change of venue on two grounds.

The judge refused the request on the grounds that the case should be heard in a "neutral" county, but granted it on the grounds that Dr. Righetti was entitled to be sued in her home county. (None of the defendants lives in Marin.

Judge Keating also denied the county's request for a temporary restraining order which would halt timber cutting immediately, saying that the matter should be decided in Alameda County courts in Oakland.

The county's suit for an injunction alleges that logging operations will damage Bolinas Lagoon and Tomales Bay through erosion and siltation and that debris left from the logging constitutes a serious fire hazard.

The loggers have responded with a $5 million claim against the county, charging that officials have no right to halt the logging.

Creek Trespass Case Awaits Judge's Ruling

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court yesterday said that he will announce his decision next Wednesday as to whether a participant in last April's Tamalpais Creek demonstration is guilty of two misdemeanors.

He took the case of Mary Kent Schardt of Kentfield, who is acting as a test case for all 38 defendants in the spring flood control protest, under submission after hearing about two hours testimony.

It appeared after yesterday's trial that Mrs. Schardt and the other defendants may have been charged under the wrong section of the California Penal Code.

They are charged with trespassing under a section which requires that unfenced lands be posted with at least three "no trespassing signs per mile.

Yesterday Judge Smith asked Deputy Atty. J. Michael Anthony why he had not charged the defendant under another section, which makes it misdemeanor to trespass with the inten of obstructing a lawful business operation.

Anthony said that he thought the signs had been posted.

Anthony also argued against dismissal of the case saying that the code section referred more to large farms and that the posting of the signs was meaningless on such a small piece of property.

Mrs. Schardt and the other defendants are also accused of failure to disperse when ordered to by officials.

Attorneys yesterday also argued that the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control District had not legally obtained a right-of-way for Tamalpais Creek.

Two Puppies Stolen

Officials at Guide Dogs for the Blind in Los Ranchitos reported yesterday that someone had crawled over a fence in the kennels and taken two puppies valued at $300 each, sheriff's deputies said.

Guilty Plea In Marijuana Case

Michael Garrett Gray, 20, of Santa Venetia, admitted yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that he possessed marijuana at his home May 22. A second charge of growing the weed was dismissed.

Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered the youth to appear in superior court Oct. 13 for setting of a sentencing date.

Gray was arrested by drug agents who said that he had about 15 plants in his backyard.

Emergency Care Panelist Quits With Parting Shot At Bruce

A second member of the Marin County Emergency Medical Care Committee has resigned with a blast at County Administrator Alan Bruce -- and a suggestion that the office of county administrator be abolished.

Thomas H. Larke Jr. of Fairfax, committee chairman and retired insurance broker, submitted his letter of resignation yesterday, too late for the weekly meeting of the county board of supervisors.

The resignation itself was included almost as an afterthought in a letter from Larke to the board praising the committee work of Dr. Elmer A. Weden of Sleepy Hollow, who resigned last week with a call fore replacement of the county administrator.

Dr. Weden had suggested that, to prevent the administrator's becoming too powerful, a new man should be put in office at least every six years. He advocated Bruce's removal now.

"From my own observations at your meetings," wrote Larkep "I would have a somewhat different idea. I would add to the staff of the county clerk, and upgrade communications between the heads of the county departments and your board, by abolishing the office of county administrator.

"To paraphrase his own words about the county commissions and committees, I consider the office of the county administrator to be a duplication of functions already performed by others, an impediment to good government and a waste of the taxpayers' money. It also assumes an erroneous conclusion, that the incumbent of that office knows everything about everything."

Larke wrote that he will "continue to do volunteer work for organizations where I feel that I am accomplishing something, and my efforts are appreciated, at the Red Cross, at Marin General Hospital, the City of Fairfax, for the California Legislature, which thinks enough of my efforts to pay me a consultant's fee for planning emergency medical services, and for the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, where I serve on the faculty of its course on initial emergency care of the sick and injured.

"Of course, I too am hereby resigning from the committee, as of now."

Bruce recommended to the supervisors on Sept. 16 that the emergency medical care committee be reconstituted or merged with the Marin County Comprehensive Health Facilities Committee. "To date the committee appears to have been dominated by two members, and has tended to be vehicle for pursuit of their personal interests," he wrote.

Hub Woman Is Attacked By Two Men

A 20-year-old San Anselmo woman who accepted a ride from two strangers last night told police she was raped by both of them and robbed on a lonely fire trail outside Fairfax.

The woman told Fairfax police she was about two blocks from home on her way from work after 5 p.m. when two men offered her a ride. She first refused, she said, but yielded as they argued.

She told officers they drove by her house without stopping and then one forced her to the back seat and onto the floor police said. One had an iron pipe, she reported.

After a short ride, the two took her to a fire trail off Olema Road, Fairfax, and forced her down the trail where both raped her, she told police. After that they searched her purse and took her single dollar bill.

She told officers the two men offered to take her home then but she refused and as soon as they left she ran to a nearby apartment house to notify police.

She was later examined at Marin General Hospital, hospital officials reported.

Police said the girl described both men as white and about 25. One had dark hair, was about five feet, 10 inches tall and weighed about 155. The other had light hair, blue eyes, was about 5 feet, nine inches and weighed about 170 pounds.

Youth Center Sought For Gallinas Area

By ROD BREWSTER

A youth center where Las Gallinas Valley teen-agers can paint, sculpt and play music and talk over coffee is being planned by a group of local church members and school art teachers.

The group recently incorporated the Revelation of Las Gallinas Valley, a non-profit organization that will allow the group to solicit tax deductible funds and acquire a building lease for the youths.

Werner Von Gundell of 2208 Juniperberry Drive, San Rafael, one of the Revelation directors and a county planning assistant, said the purpose of the center is "to fill a need of young adults away from home." It is a common complaint of the day that youngsters are left out in planning the daily life of an area, Gundell said yesterday.

For this reason the company is quite confident it can raise the $12,000 to $13,000 budget it has set for this year, by soliciting funds from churches and businesses in the Las Gallinas area, he said. It has collected $1,500 so far and plans to begin its major push for contributions soon.

The group presently has a lease option on a large room in an industrial area at the rear of 4180 Redwood Road, Terra Linda in which partitions could be moved to fit changing space needs.

Von Gundell says the company hopes to interest art and music teachers in donating time to teach youngsters who would come into the center after school. A small annual fee would be charged for artistic supplies but general use of the center would be free.

Part of the room would be used as a gallery where the artistic results would be shown. Another section would have tables and chairs for a coffee house.

The company plans to hire a full-time director, who will manage the center and act as an informal counselor to the youths.

The group also hopes to add five more directors to its board. Present directors are Von Gundell, attorney T. Neal McNamara of 240 Mount Shasta Drive, Marinwood; Rev. Clyde R. Vaughn of Aldersgate Methodist Church, Terra Linda, and Mrs. Granville Coggs of 847 Pine Lane, Terra Linda.

Red Cross Sets Officer Election

The Marin County Chapter of the American National Red Cross will elect officers and honor volunteers at its 57th annual meeting at noon Oct. 14 at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Mrs. Douglas M. Christensen, volunteer chairman, will present awards to adult volunteers.

A fee for luncheon will be charged. Reservations may be made through the Red Cross office at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Nevada's Gov. Laxalt To Quit Political Life

CARSON CITY (UPI) — Gov. Paul Laxalt ended months of speculation about his political plans yesterday, announcing he will retire from public life at the end of his term next year. Laxalt, 47, had been encourged by Republican party leaders, including President Richard M. Nixon, to run for the U.S. Senate or seek another term as governor.

The governor told a packed State Senate chamber he had never promised to stay in office beyond his present four-year term and now wants to spend his time in Nevada with his friends and family. He was elected governor in 1966.

Laxalt said he had written to Nixon declining his request to run for the Senate. He also said his decision not to seek re-election as governor was "firm and irrevocable."

"Regretfully, after an intense consideration of all factors, I must advise you I have decided to retire from public life," Laxalt said in his letter to Nixon. The governor said his decision was based largely on his belief he had accomplished many of his goals and aims during his administration.

Marijuana Case To Youth Court

The case of Valient Gale Nims III, 18, of Novato, has been accepted by Marin Juvenile Court, it was reported yesterday in municipal court.

The youth is accused of possessing marijuana, being in a place where narcotics were used and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He was arrested with two young girls in a car in a parking lot Sept. 14 in Novato.

Hearing Is Set On Marijuana Growing

An Oct. 14 preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for John Frederick Tanzi and Patricia Ann Tanzi, both 21 and of San Anselmo, who are accused of growing marijuana at their home.

They were arrested Sept. 20 after police noticed the plants from a neighbor's home.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Octogenarian Has Sudden Trouble With Activities

VAN DELLEN

A.R. writes: "I am 85 and, until recently, my activities have included long walks, golf, and driving the car. Lately, however, my muscles have deteriorated.

Could my agility be improved by some form of exercise?

"Picking up things off the floor and getting in and out of the car are difficult. Perhaps other senior citizens would benefit if they did exercises that were not too strenuous. Just sitting around waiting for the end does not appeal to me.

"THERE must be others who would do something about the aging problem, if they could."

Weakness in a previously healthy individual requires a thorough physical examination. Sudden weakness usually stems from an infection or a change in mood, such as a depression. This man should continue walking and playing golf, as these are excellent activities.

SWIMMING AND fishing also are good, because they are not too strenuous. If you are physically sound, get a hobby, engage in social activities, or take a long trip. As a matter of fact, at 85, you have a very young outlook.

A reader writes: "I have a small bunion on the outside of my foot. I've been told it is a Taylor's bunion. Can you elaborate?"

I assume you refer to a tailor's bunion. This name stems from the way a tailor sat on the table with legs crossed and the small toe against the hard surface.

The bunion develops on the outer edge of the foot at the base of the small toe. The skin thickens becasue the individual has a wide or bent metatarsal joint in this area.

When the shoes are too tight, pressure against the small toe leads to the irritation that causes the defect. Treatment involves wearing properly fitted shoes or surgery.

(Questions on medical topics will be answerd by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DRAINAGE TUBE

REPLY

This is done after gallbladder removal especially when the surgeon has reason to believe that some of the stones have escaped into the duct leading from the liver to the intestine. An incision is made into this passageway and a tube is inserted to prevent the bile from leaking into the intestine during the healing process.

FIRST AID FOR EPILEPTIC

REPLY

Ease his fall and stretch him out flat on his back. Place a folded handkerchief between his teeth to prevent him from biting the tongue. Do not restrain him, but watch him carefully so his arms and legs are not injured as he thrashes about.

CHILD WITH CONTACTS

REPLY

There are reports of a 1-year-old child being fitted with contacts. Most physicians, however, do not recommend the devices for youngsters under the age of 6. It is well to remember that if a youngster of 6 or 7 is fitted with contacts, it will be up to the parents to insert and remove them.

Murder Case Reward Offered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. is offering a $10,000 reward in the slaying of an employee who came to this area to audit firm records.

J. Dexter Bowers Jr., regional vice president for the F.W. Dodge division of the firm, said the money would be given for information leading to an arrest and conviction.

The body of Davis Sarles, 39, of North Hollywood, the victim, was found strangled Thursday in his room at the Hyatt Motor Lodge in Oakland. A necktie was knotted around his neck and his hands had been tied behind his back.

Police said clothing pockets had been turned inside out, indicating a robbery.

Forgery Count Prison Sentence

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court has sentenced Anthony Mark Ramirez, 29, of San Francisco, to state prison for two counts of passing forged checks.

Ramirez had been convicted by a jury July 28 of passing the checks last year in Novato and Tiburon.

The judge on Monday said that the two- and one-to-14-year sentences could be served concurrently.

Freshman Elections Postponed A Week

Freshman class elections at Tamalpais High School, scheduled for today, have been postponed one week because only four candidates filed nomination papers for the four offices open, student activities director Joseph E. Petterle reported.

The elections will be held all day Wednesday in front of the high school's book room, Petterle said.

No Contest To Crash Charges

Frank Edward Jordan, 20, of Novato, pleaded no contest yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony manslaughter charge stemming from a June 22 car crash in which Michael W. Gramlich of Novato died.

He was told to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date.

More Home Control For Cities Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Robert Monagan, R-Tracy, says he sees a reversal of the trend toward Washington domination of municipal programs and an increase in state participation.

Monagan told delegates to the League of California Cities convention here yesterday that home rule is not necessarily threatened when the state works with local government on regional problems.

"It is a fact that the concerns of environmental quality tend to find their solutions in regional approaches, simply because the problems of congestion and pollution have no respect for jurisdictional boundaries," Monagan said.

LEGISLATIVE ROLE

He added that "in this age of giant departments," the Legislature — not the executive branch — finds new solutions to the cities' problems.

"Many agencies of state government are naturally dominated by narrow professional or specialized interests. These agencies find it difficult to develop solutions to major problems requiring approaches in more than a single discipline," Monagan said.

He also said local leadership should seek solutions to urban problems, the same plea voiced by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto at the convention.

"The radicals . . . suggest that the simple solution for the ills of democracy is simply more democracy," Monagan said. "Nothing could be further from the truth. The cure for our ills is leadership."

Alioto said a key to an effective city program to find more jobs in industry for minority youths is to "use the city's economic clout. The strong leadership has to be at city hall."

ALIOTO'S REPORT

Alioto said he was encouraged that there has been "substantial improvement" in conditions causing unrest last year at San Francisco State College.

He counseled restraint in dealing with student dissent, "but if they go beyond dissent and resort to violence, then we must use whatever police power is necessary."

Berkeley Mayor Wallace Johnson added:

"The lesson learned over the years in Berkeley is that it is important to under-react rather than to over-react. The hazards of over-reaction is that it attracts sympathy groups to the disturbance."

Automobile accident deaths in Great Britain declined to 6,810 in 1968, the lowest in seven years.

Sierra Clubber Flays Nixon Park 'Duplicity'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The 82,000-member Sierra Club has blasted President Richard M. Nixon for "duplicity" and "non-policy" in the field of conservation.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, vice president and organization spokesman, yesterday told a news conference that the administration was engaging in false economics involving "federal peanuts" while backing the $667 million supersonic transport program, a $4.5 billion annual highway program, and a trip to Mars which will eventually cost $50 billion.

But the conservation economies mean Point Reyes National Seashore will be destroyed, Everglades National Park will remain in jeopardy, and long-standing park proposals, such as Sleeping Bear Dunes Lakeshore in Michigan, will be lost, according to Wayburn.

Wayburn said the administration was refusing to use $76 million this year in the land and water conservation fund for anti-inflation reasons. He said Nixon had requested an appropriation of $124 million for park acquisition, compared with congressional authorization of $200 million.

He begged the President to authorize the $38 million needed for Point Reyes Seashore before owners there are forced for tax reasons to sell to developers. He said leaders of both parties have recommended the President support full development of the seashore, but "Mr. Nixon doesn't understand what is going on, and we want to make him understand."

"We feel we have to indict and attack the Nixon Administration for what we call its nonpolicy in conservation," Wayburn said.

"...The Nixon Administration has given strong verbal assurances that the protection of our present and potential parklands is a matter of high priority," Dr. Wayburn said.

"This is an example of the duplicity that is going on right now. Mr. Nixon says one thing and does the opposite, and the sad part here is that his nonpolicy is neither economical nor anti-inflationary. Land prices for park purposes are escalating at rates of 10 to 20 per cent."

Passerby Halts Attempt To Leap Off Gate Span

A 35-year-old San Rafael man who said he needed love was rescued early today as he attempted to jump from the railing of the Golden Gate Bridge, California Highway Patrol Officers said.

Dwain Eldon Essig of 4 Oak Avenue was committed to Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco for 72 hours observation, officers said.

Gabe Jackson, 31, of 45 Drake Avenue, Marin City, told officers he was driving north on the bridge when the car in front of him stopped and Essig got out and walked toward the rail near the north tower.

By the time Jackson stopped, he said, Essig had climbed on the rail and was dangling his legs over the edge. Jackson said he slowly approached the man, talking all the time, until he was close enough to grap him.

He then held him until another passerby, an offduty San Francisco police officer, stopped and called for aid.

Jackson said Essig kept mumbling about needing love and repeating a person's name all the time Jackson was holding him, officers said.

Transit Session Off Due To Quorum Lack

The Marin County Transit District board will not meet tonight because of lack of a quorum.

Chairman John F. McInnis announced last night he would call off the meeting because he could not get four of the seven-member board to attend tonight's meeting.

Streaking Braves Find Time For Champagne

Clinch West Title

ATLANTA (AP) — Manager Luman Harris was scrambling away from a mob of fans, Cecil Upshaw was passing out cigars and the Atlanta Braves were pouring champagne and beer on anyone in sight as they savored winning the National League West Division title last night.

"You're danged right it was dangerous out there," said Harris in the jubilant Braves' dressing quarters after threading his way through the crowd that swarmed on the field following Atlanta's 3-2 title-clinching victory over Cincinnati.

"I lost my glasses, my cap and everything else," Harris said. "That was the worst mistake I made all night, trying to get to (Hoyt) Wilhelm and congratulate him."

Upshaw, the Braves' leading relief pitcher with 27 saves, shouted, "Man, it's too good. Have a cigar. We had a baby-it's called a pennant."

However, the relief honors last night went to the old veteran, the 46-year-old Wilhelm, who retired the final six Reds to protect Phil Niekro's 23rd victory.

"In a game like that, you've got to be tensed up," said Wilhelm.

Asked if he planned to play again next year, Wilhelm, who isn't eligible for the playoffs, replied, "You damn right. I'm going to take them year by year. You've got to work until you can draw your pension."

"I'm not going to worry about New York until Friday," said Hank Aaron, who starred on the Milwaukee Braves pennant winners in 1957 and 1958.

"This is the best thing that ever happened to me," said Bob Didier, the rookie catcher. He said he wasn't worrying about the Mets because "right now, we'll do a little celebrating."

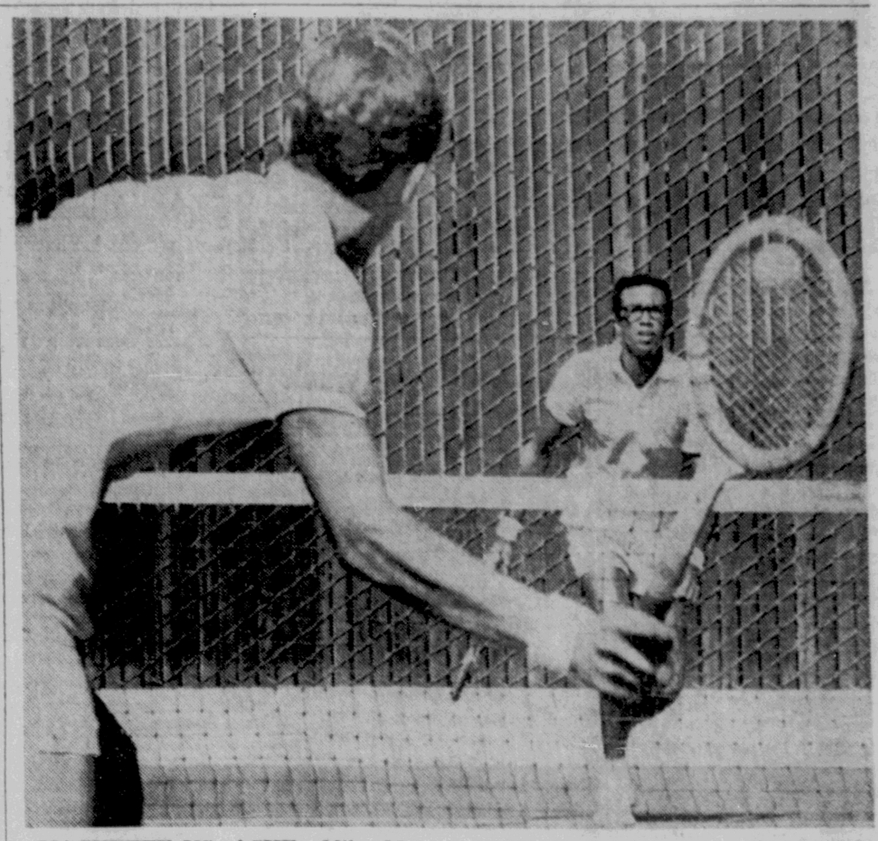
"Twenty-five guys contributed to it," said Clete Boyer, a veteran of five World Series when he was with the New York Yankees. "These guys hustled their rears off all year. At no time did we think we were out of it."

"Beautiful, beautiful and beautiful," shouted Orlando Cepeda, who came to the Braves from St. Louis in a trade for catcher-first baseman Joe Torre. Cepeda played for the Cardinals when they won the last two National League pennants and the World Series in 1967.

"This is the happiest moment of my 32 years in baseball," Harris said.

Harris said the playoffs with the Mets opening here Saturday should prove to be interesting.

Reminded that New York whipped the Braves in eight of 12 regular season games, Harris said, "They may find us a little damn tougher hitting. I'm encouraged by the way my team has been hitting."



MACHETTE VS. ASHE—Mike Machette, 18-year-old tennis standout from Belvedere, prepares to return a forehand shot as Arthur Ashe charges the net in a first-round match of the Pacific Coast International Tennis Tournament in San Francisco. Ashe won, 6-3, 6-1. (UPI Telephoto)

Machette Loses To Ashe In Pacific Tennis Tourney

COMBINED AP & UPI

Ashe, the No. 1 seed in the $20,000 Pacific Coast International Tennis Championships, quickly disposed of Machette in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, in a trans-planted game yesterday at the Golden Gateway Tennis Club in San Francisco.

Machette, who had trouble returning service, was meeting Ashe for the second time this year and improved on his 6-1, 6-0 loss in the first round of the Western championships at Cincinnati.

Ashe's chief threat, Stan Smith, Pasadena, got a scare in his match at the Berkeley Tennis Club but bounced back to take 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 victories over Gene Cantin of Berkeley.

A brace of upsets were recorded iin the opening round with the most notable ones being unseeded Jim McManus, Berkeley, topping fifth-seeded Australian Davis Cupper Ray Ruffles, 8-6, 6-1, Britain's Gerald Battrick, also unranked, topping Mexico's eighth-seeded Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, 6-3, 6-2, and Jeff Borowiak, Berkeley, defeating 12th seeded Erik van Dillen, San Mateo, 6-4, 7-9, 6-3. 9, 6-3.

The Women's singles got underway today with top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia meeting Gail Hansen, Palo Alto, and No. 2 seed Winnie Shaw of England facing Sharon Walsh of San Rafael.

JIM GILMARTIN

And You Think Torrey Faced With Problem!

When Tamalpais High School District Superintendent Robert Torrey temporarily rescinded a Redwood athletic department hair-grooming policy last week he found himself in the middle of a controversy that won't easily be brushed aside.

I still wonder why he temporarily sided with a handful of long-haired boys against a 12-year-old department policy when it would have been much simpler for the boys to get a temporary haircut.

Anyway, Torrey's problems may seem minor compared to those of Petaluma High School authorities. I understand some of the girls there are creating an embarrassing situation by not wearing bras to school. And apparently there's nothing in the books that makes flopper stoppers mandatory. You see, when authorities set standards of dress they were so concerned about length of hair that they apparently overlooked such fundamental weapons as double-barrelled sling shots in the regulations. So, NO, Virginia, there is no scanty clause.

It Sure Livens Up Campus

This may be a tremendous letdown for the lingerie retailers but has livened up the campus considerably, according to one of my Petaluma undercover agents who reports: "You ought to see the action when the bell rings for the home economics class!"

Meanwhile, back in Larkspur, long-haired students are looking up to Mr. Torrey as the guardian over their fundamental rights to life, liberty and the hirsuite of hippiness while Redwood coach Bob Troppmann feels he has been upbraided just for advocating low ears.

"But, I've received a lot of moral support for my stand," said Tropp. "Let's see, I got a letter from the World War I Veterans of Merced, another from the local barbers union and a pledge from the Yul Brynner Fan Club." I think he's kidding, but I heard that the SPEBSQSA will perform at halftime of all Redwood athletic contests. But, again, that's only hairsay.

Takes Heat Off Fat Teachers

One good thing about this hair issue, though: It's taken a lot of heat off fat gym teachers. You may remember that one pleasantly plump Redwood girls' physical education marm got farmed out to Weight Watchers for being "a living hypocrisy of the subject she teaches." I heard she landed a job with the Department of Weights and Measures in Toledo.

This matter of avoirdupois and hirsuteness is really bugging some physical educators. I saw one gym teacher sneak into class the other day wearing a girdle and rug. No one knew the difference, but he had trouble explaining it to his wife with Halloween still a month away.

As a matter of fact, the only man I can think of at the moment who physically and tonsorially qualifies for the Redwood athletic directorship is Abraham Lincoln.

Just Complying With Rules

It should be noted that Redwood cross country coach Doug Basham was only complying with department policy when he temporarily suspended the long-hairs until they were temporarily reinstated by Torrey. Basham was among the minority of Redwood coaches who had voted against the short hair policy. Which is admirable on his part. Imagine a track coach who doesn't advocate short cuts.

Well, I think everything will be resolved soon. I don't think the Marin schools will have any more problems with long-haired or short-haired boys. They're all transferring. To Petaluma.

Another Second For S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The turning point of the season was when Atlanta failed to lose," sighed San Francisco Giants' manager Clyde King at the conclusion of the Great Race last night.

The second place Giants failed to grasp the bouquet for a fifth straight season when the Braves clinched the National League western division title with a 3-2 triumph over Cincinnati last night.

A few minutes later, the Giants took the field and sealed runner-up honors as Gaylord Perry struck out 14 San Diego Padres in a 6-1 victory, his 19th of the season.

17 OF 20

"Naturally, I'm disappointed we didn't win it," said King, "but it isn't because we didn't try. We've won 11 of 16 games, but the Braves have been unbelievable with 10 straight and 17 of 20.

"If we were something like 6-11 down the stretch it would be different, but we played good ball," the skipper stressed. "I can't complain because I'm grateful we did so well despite all our injuries.

"Nothing that's happened has changed my opinion of this club," Clyde continued. "We kept hustling all the way. Look at tonight. We could have fallen flat on our face, but we went out and did a job."

BONDS HITS

Though the Giants learned the bad news prior to the game, they jumped on loser Al Santorini, 8-14, for three runs in the first inning. Bobby Bonds belted a two-run single and scored on the same play when two Padres errored.

Bonds scored again in the fourth after walking and stealing second and third. The two runs pulled him ahead of Pete Rose for the league lead, 119 to 118, has 44 successful steals in 47 attempts.

Willie McCovey went hitless, but boosted his RBI lead to 125 with a run-scoring grounder in the seventh. King said it would be up to McCovey whether he played in the second game of the series today.

"We're going to take a look at some of the young players," explained the manager, "but I'd like to see Willie win the home run and RBI titles. It'll be up to him."

NO PITCH

King also disclosed tht Juan Marichal, 21-11, would not pitch the season finale tomorrow, virtually sewing up the league earned run average title for the great right-hander at 2.10.

"If we needed a win Thursday to clinch second, Juan would have pitched," said King, He named onetime bonus baby Bob

Lee Stung With Loss In 1st Start

Bill Lee, former Terra Linda High School prep star who got a call in mid-season to join the big team, got his first pitching start for the Boston Red Sox last night.

It turned out to be a mixed blessing. Lee pitched shutout ball for four innings but was tagged with the loss when the Washington Senators exploded for seven runs in three innings, four of the runs being charged to Lee in a 7-2 Washington victory.

Lee gave up six hits and four earned runs, walked six batters and struck out three. Del Unser's bases-loaded triple was the big blow off Lee, who now has one win and three losses.

The Red Sox' loss gave second place in the American League's Eastern Division to the Detroit Tigers.

College Of Marin Runners Extend Record To 2-0

College of Marin's cross-country team, behind record-setting Don Makela, kept its dual meet record unblemished with a runaway against Merritt College in Oakland yesterday.

The Tars won easily, 16-43, as Makela, last year's Marin County Athletic League champion, led a sweep of the first four places with a course record of 25:06 over Merritt's 4.2-mile layout.

The Tars are now 2-0 in dual-meet competition. They'll go to San Francisco Saturday ffor the Golden Gate Invitational.

He's Scoring Star

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Patriots end-placekicker Gino Cappelletti has led the American Football League in scoring five of the nine years that the league has been in existence.

PREP GRID STATISTICS

Tomales Ace Leads List

Ron Petroni, Mr. Everything at Tomales High School, member of the 1,000-yard club last year as a junior, is once again casting his statistical shadow over Marin County prep footballers.

Petroni, who leads Tomales in rushing, scoring and pass receiving, is also the top rusher in the county, with 285 yards amassed in two games and 35 carries.

Only Tamalpais High School sophomore flash Clifford Hall comes close to that total with 224 yards in 35 carries.

SHARES LEAD

Hall also shares the scoring lead with Ken Gnoss of San Marin, both having scored three touchdowns for 18 points.

There's a batch of runners who have rushed for at least 100 yards or more on the Marin County scene, headed by Scott Duncan of San Rafael (157), Mark Costello of Tamalpais (125), Bob Sutherland, last year's MCAL rushing king from Drake (115), Urbano Bousciguez (113) of San Marin and Mark Lewis of Marin Catholic (106).

Tom Jackson of Terra Linda is the standout quarterback so far in Marin County, having completed 14 of 28 passes in a pair of games for 320 yards and three touchdowns. He's also scored twice.

Tennis Seems To Have Met Its Match In Ashe

Tennis is like China — it usually manages to swallow up all those who invade it. THEY change, Tennis doesn't. The eyes don't start to slant, a pigtail grow and the skin yellow, but "dese, dem and dose" guys begin to talk like a guy being strangled. They get this kind of bored, rich look. They play life from the baseline.

YOU REMEMBER your first trip to a tennis tournament? All of a sudden, that purple tie, the one with all the flowers on it and the wide bottom that looks like a St. Bernard's tongue hanging out, begins to look as if it came with a packet of seeds alongside those subdued ones with all the coats-of-arms and Latin phrases on them. Your suit, the lavender-blue gabardine looks as if you copped it off a Salvation Army truck alongside those custom-tailored, real wool ones on the legitimate patrons.

YOU BEGIN to think What am I doing here? You get the feeling none of these people ever sold papers or shined shoes (not even their own), or sorted mail, or waited table, or drove a truck, or left the spoon in their coffee or went out for dinner where the menu was printed in English or where they had to order entrees by number and put plenty of ketchup on them and, if they were ever in Peoria, they stuck to room service.

Well, lots of underprivileged kids came in the game in recent years but, if they were good enough to hang around long enough, Tennis hacked the rough edges off and took them in and, pretty soon, they knew to take their hats off when they ate and not wear brown shoes with tuxedos and they joined Tennis, not vice versa.

Arthur had one gigantic handicap right off the bat — eyeglasses. Nobody ever walked into championship tennis carrying that handicap before. Nobody who couldn't see without glasses ever won anything more important than a mixed doubles before.

IT WASN'T only the glasses that set Arthur apart. His other peculiarity was that he was the first male of his ethnic minority of 30 million in America to begin showing up in the finals of Wimbledon and Forest Hills. In fact, he was the first one to show up there, period. For one thing, a game in which a shutout is called "love" could not be expected to make much headway in the ghetto. You had no trouble spotting Arthur. At the tonier clubs, he was the only black person carrying a racket instead of a tray, playing a court instead of mowing it.

A lot of us sat back with a good deal of zest to watch the contest for Arthur's, so to speak, soul.

YOU CAN prizefight without becoming a part of prizefighting. You can play baseball merely for a living. But tennis is a way-of-life. The line between social, athletic and private life is blurred. It's its own cruise through life, the world's tightest key club.

Tennis didn't make Arthur a gentleman. His parents did that. They had class, they just didn't have money. But, tennis being tennis, most of us thought it wouldn't be long before Arthur would be exchanging those hornedrims for two monocles.

TENNIS SEEMS to have met its match. It's at least set-point. Arthur Ashe didn't just show up in eyeglasses. He showed up in yellow shirts. If you can't imagine the sucking-in of breaths THAT caused, you just don't know tennis. When the ladies auxiliary protested, Arthur showed up in BLUE shirts. Some patrons fainted dead away. They just hoped he wouldn't be scheduled the same day as the Queen.

Tennis has been a game for pale faces and pale shirts and for guys who get paid off like kidnapers for so long that it was surprising how effortlessly Arthur cut through the seeds of hypocrisy as easily as he cut through the seeds of Forest Hills. One by one they fell in love sets. Arthur didn't challenge them, he ignored them. He got paid for wearing the shirts, he candidly explained. Candor had been even less a part of the game than colored shirts — or colored players.

IT MAY be coincidence but lily-white amateurism disappeared as swiftly as lily-white shirts with the advent of Ashe. Amateurism became as optional as shirt color — or skin color. The game joined the century.

Ont thing is demonstrable: Ashe didn't change. The game did.

ARTHUR STOOD easily in a locker room at the Pacific Southwest tennis tourney the other afternoon, pulling on a blue shirt and explaining HIS plans for the game:

1) Open up the Davis Cup or Ashe and the present Cup team won't play; 2) take the challenge round out of Cleveland next year or take Arthur Ashe out, he doesn't much care which; 3) pick a commissioner with the dictatorial powers of a czar (Ashe is on a committee of six of the USLTA to pick one and he is the only player ever to be on such a committee); 4) reconcile the warring groups of tour professionals and insist they play only for prize money in Open tournaments the same as everyone else or Ashe and his group won't; 5) let Arthur Ashe play South Africa IN South Africa or don't let South Africa play Arthur Ashe anywhere.

I DON'T know who is swallowing whom but I have a feeling when it is over, Arthur Ashe will be the one burping.

Bando Leads A's Victory Over Pilots

SEATTLE (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics, with a lot of hammering by Sal Bando, nailed the expansion Seattle Pilots into the cellar of the American League West last night.

Namath Says This Year Is His Last

BOSTON (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets' said in a television interview last night he expects to retire from professional football at the end of the 1969 season.

Namath, interviewed by Pat Collins on WBZ-TV's 11 p.m. Eyewitness News show, said his problems with knee injuries have grown and this season they're the worst they've ever been.

Namath said he and his doctors have decided upon an operation on the left knee at the end of the season, and that he probably will be finished with football after that.

"Does that mean you're all through at the end of this season?" Miss Collins asked.

"I can practically guarantee that," Namath replied.

WBZ-TV said the interview was taped earlier in the evening at Namath's Bachelors III Club in Park Square.

'C' Teams Remain Unbeaten

Drake and Marin Catholic high schools are running neck and neck in the Marin County Athletic League Class C basketball race, both teams keeping undefeated records intact in yesterday's action.

Drake won its third game without a loss, rapping San Rafael, 36-25 at Drake, while Marin Catholic ran its record to 2-0 with a 35-20 whipping of Terra Linda on the loser's court.

Drake was never headed, jumping off to a 16-10 half-time lead and pulling steadily away. The Pirates have beaten Redwood and Terra Linda.

Marin Catholic broke up a close game, shutting out Terra Linda 10-0 in the third period to pull away from a 16-11 half-time lead

Bruce Nuttman scored 10 points as nine Wildcats got into the scoring act. John Kunst helped out with 14 rebounds.

Daryle Lauds Wells' Ability

BOSTON (AP)—Warren Wells has given a new dimension to the Oakland Raiders' offense, says quarterback Daryle Lamonica.

Lamonica hit Wells with touchdown passes of 27 and 55 yards in Sunday's 38-23 victory over the Boston Patriots.

Now the Raiders are training at Tufts College in nearby Medford until Friday when they leave for Miami and a Saturday night clash with the Dolphins.

"Warren has the uncanny ability to burst to the ball," Lamonica said yesterday. "Sometimes I'm amazed that he catches balls that I think are overthrown."

Wells has made Fred Biletnikoff more effective and has helped the Raider sweep. Lamonica said.

Tournament Honors Late John Forbes

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Golfers in the Meadow Club near Fairfax were swinging away today in the Forbes Tournament, named in honor of the club's first president, the late John F. Forbes.

Forbes, the founder of John F. Forbes and Co., reportedly the largest independent accounting firm on the Pacific Coast, died in 1965.

Seventy golfers will be competing in the medal play tourney. It's an all-day thing, lunch and dinner sandwiched around the actual golf.

THERE WAS a lot of brass on the Peacock Gap golf course in San Rafael Monday, and one of the officers pulled rank on the ball.

Lt. Col. Conrad Matson, playing a round of golf with three fellow Air Force officers, whacked a hole-in-one on the 10th hole, 140 yards. Watching in awe as Col. Matson's eight-iron shot rolled in the cup were Lt. Col. James Lee, Lt. Col. James Bardsley and Maj. Don Tidwell. All four men are stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base.

FINALS IN club championship tournaments are on tap this weekend at two Marin County courses. At Peacock Gap, Bob Sterley and Bob Bond will lock horns Saturday. In semifinals, Sterley downed Sid Nu Delman 1 up and Bond did in Bill Breen, 2 and 1. At Indian Valley, finals will be held Sunday on the Novato course, Mike Dunham vs. Bob Hachmyer. In semi-finals last weekend, Dunham defeated Jim Creighton 3 and 2, and Hachmyer eliminated Al Randig, 2 up.

Mill Valley Golf Club will hold semifinals of its club championship Sunday, with one of the quarter-finals still up in the air.

Lou Garbutt and Rick Patterson still have to meet, the survivor advancing to Sunday's semis. In the other matches in round of two, Jim Brown d. Jeff Ferris, 2 up; Wayne Duerson d. Russ Adams, 1 up, and Early Brown d. Craig Smith, 2 up.

SAN GERONIMO National will be the last of the Marin-Sonoma courses to hold its club championship, Ken Harnquist to defend his title in that tourney starting Saturday and the final 18 the following Saturday.

Over at Sonoma National, sister club to San Geronimo (all part of National Golf Courses, Inc., headed by William Saunders), they're moving into the third round of the club championship. At present, former state champ Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael is tied with John Flachman of St. Helena, each with a 147 total, a two-stroke lead, at the halfway mark.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Experimentation Gets Correct Dangle Angle

The tilt adjustment of an outboard motor is probably one of the most misunderstood things about this very efficient machine. Yet it's such an important thing, because having an outboard motor at the wrong angle can cut its efficiency by as much as 25 per cent. This is so wasteful because getting the right "angle of dangle" on the outboard is not very difficult. It takes just a little experimentation.

THE QUALITY of "tiltability" possessed by an outboard—and by the outboard section of a stern drive unit — is the feature which makes these devices so versatile. They can be used on an infinite variety of hull shapes and transom angles. The transom is that flat part at the stern of power boats, and surely everyone has noticed that it is not the same on any two boats.

The angle of tilt is controlled by a pin through two holes in the clamp bracket which holds an outboard on the boat. In theory the motor is at the correct angle when the anti-cavitation plate is parallel to the surface of the water when the boat is in motion.

THE ANTI - CAVITATION plate is that flat plate on an outboard just above the propeller. Every outboard and stern drive unit has one, and its function is to make sure that the prop by its suction does not pull down air into its slip stream, thus creating a "cavity."

An engineer might say that an outboard motor is at the correct angle when the line of thrust of the propeller is parallel to the plane of the boat's motion.

BUT NOBODY can go over the side to see that the anti-cavitation plate or the line of propeller thrust is parallel to anything. So really, the only way to tell whether the angle is right is by checking the boat's performance.

PORPOISING — This is a rhythmical rising and falling of the bow . . . much like the swimming action of a porpoise. Bad weight distribution in the boat may also be a cause of porpoising, but not as often as improper tilt.

CAVITATION — This problem often shows up on turns. The outboard races and the propeller churns up a great deal of foam. A common cause is a motor tilted too far forward. The prop is cocked up too high behind so it sucks air. Then it races around in a cavity of air and water vapor instead of the "solid" water it should be working in.

BOW HIGH ATTITUDE—This is very common in small outboards where the operator sits at the stern to handle the controls. It's dangerous because the operator can't see properly over the bow, the boat is vulnerable to wind and may be hard to control, and it sure wastes gasoline.

INABILITY TO PLANE — How often does one see a boat which rides along bow high until someone crawls out on the foredeck to add weight up front, then it starts to plane? It speeds up and skims along. A major cause of this is increased drag because of bad tilt angle. A little weight up forward improves the attitude, reduces the drag and when power isn't being wasted on drag, there is enough to make the boat plane.

There are other causes to all these problems — such things as nicks in the prop, operation of the prop too close to the surface, a keel or other protuberance on the bottom causing turbulence in the propeller current, something wrapped around the prop, bad boat design, or possibly even a boat shape that was never meant to be powered such as a sailing hull. But mostly it's the tilt.

EAST OVERTAKES

West leads the jack of spades, and East overtakes with the queen just in case West's card happens to be a singleton. East continues with the ace of spades and then the king.

The average declarer works himself into a lather at this trick. He fingers the ten of hearts and the queen of hearts, trying to choose which card to play on the king of spades.

The ten of hearts will be high enough if East happens to have the jack. But if West has the jack of hearts, South probably considers ruffing with the queen of hearts. Then he will be safe if the jack of hearts is singleton or part of a doubleton.

BOTH FAIL

Both plans happen to fail. If South ruffs with the ten, West overruffs with the jack. If South ruffs with the queen, West's jack becomes set up for a later trump trick. South eventually loses a diamond trick as well. Down one.

South can keep cool if he doesn't ruff the third spade at all. He should discard the low diamond, allowing East to win the trick.

RUFFS LOW

If East then leads a fourth spade, South ruffs low. If West then overruffs, dummy can win with the ace of trumps. South can then easily draw the trumps and claim the rest of the tricks.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 3-no-trump. Since you have 10 points in high cards you know that the combined count is 26 to 28 points. This should be enough for game at no-trump buy may not produce 11 tricks at diamonds.

From Post Office To Carpet Store Is Tale Of Novato Office

This occupies the entire former Post Office Building — about 6,000 square feet.

The principal is Nelson Whitrock of Petaluma, who has an extensive background in carpet sales and installations, most recently in Sonoma County.

Novato Carpet Crafts sells and also will be doing its own installations of carpets and hard surface materials (vinyl, tile and others) in Marin and Southern Sonoma County. Inventories will be substantial and there will be several brands of the popular indoor-outdoor carpeting. Other main brand names include Monticello, Jorges and Armstrong. Whitrock believes he will have the largest carpet store in the North Bay.

The store is open Mondays through Saturdays. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with later hours to 9 p.m. on Fridays.

A grand opening celebration will be held tomorrow through Saturday. A nine-by-12 indoor-outdoor carpet will be given as a door prize. Drawing is at 6 p.m. Saturday.

NEW OWNER of the meat department at Miller's Market in Larkspur is Richard Adkins of San Anselmo, formerly with the Corner Market in Tiburon and 13 years with Cala Food Stores.

Finnish Auto Sales

HELSINKI (UPI) — About 29,000 automobiles were sold in Finland in the first three months of 1969, an increase of approximately 13,500 cars over the corresponding period of 1968.

The St. Lawrence Seaway allows ocean-going vessels to travel inland 2,342 miles to American and Canadian ports.

Market In Sixth Day Of Setback

NEW YORK (UPI)—Declines bowled over advances by more than a 2-1 margin on Wall Street today, stretching the stock market's losing streak to six sessions. Trading was moderate.

Turnover of 8.8 million shares was about in line with that of the previous session.

Analysts noted that the list continued to be pressured by inflationary concern and monetary uncertainty in Europe.

Newton Zinder of E. F. Hutton Brokerage said the news background simply "reduced the incentive to buy stocks."

Among the most active issues were Benguet, Thiokol Chemical, Texaco, INA Corp., Aluminum Co. of America, American Telephone and Financial Federation. Texaco closed off 1-4 at 36 7-8 and AT&T was off 1-8 at 50 1-4.

Motors continued to attract selling. The automobile industry recently said it expected sales and production to slack in the remaining months of the year. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler lost fractionally at the close.

Chemicals and steels generally traded in fractions. So did most oils, although point-sized declines cropped up in a few instances.

Rails were narrowly mixed. Airlines, aircrafts, and conglomerates also traded in both directions, as did gold mining shares.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Savings Bonds Under New Pressures On Interest

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have been purchasing U. S. savings bonds through payroll savings for the last 17 years. These were bought for retirement coming up in three years. Is there any hope that interest rates will improve before then? — G. L.

A. In an obviously misguided attempt to keep the lid on inflation certain influential members of Congress let it be known that they would fight the Treasury's proposal to lift the ceiling on savings bond interest to a 5 per cent rate.

Retention of the unrealistic 4.25 per cent rate has created a cash outflow problem for the Treasury as bond redemptions exceed sales, month after month. The end result is that the Treasury has been forced to turn to other sources for funding, paying interest rates in some cases double those currently paid on savings bonds.

Now United Steelworkers' president, I. W. Abel, has stated that unless some remedial action by Congress is begun quickly, he will urge the 1.2 million members of his union to boycott U. S. savings bonds. While his threat may not move a foot-dragging Congress, it may stir some action from an aroused public.

Q. I plan to retire the first of the year and have $30,000 to invest for income. What do you think of Fannie Mae and other federal agency bonds? What are current interest rates on these and where can they be bought? — E. K.

A. Federal National Mortgage Assn. issues are top quality and can be purchased to yield 8.1 per cent to 8.2 percent. FNAM 8.30s of November, 1970, and 7.85s of September, 1974, can be purchased in $5,000 lots. Another attractive agency issue is the recent 8¾ Series D Federal Home Loan Bank Bond due April 26, 1971, available only in $5,000 denomination or larger. These bonds may be purchased through your broker's bond department.

CIA Defies Army, Law —And Gets Away With It

If there was any doubt about the power of the Central Intelligence Agency, it has been removed with the announcement by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor that murder charges against six Green Berets will be dropped because CIA agents refuse to testify.

The CIA, according to Resor, refused to let its agents be witnesses in the projected courts-martial "in the interest of national security."

We have come a great deal closer to "1984" than is pleasant to contemplate when the legal processes are blocked by the simple refusal of a government agency to participate in them.

WHAT IS THE CIA that it can thumb its nose at the army, at the law, and at the democratic processes — and get away with it?

Following World War II, President Harry Truman realized that our foreign intelligence systems were inefficient and overlapping. Army, Navy and Air Force each had its own spies and undercover operatives. The State Department also had its intelligence network. None knew what the others were finding out.

Truman proposed to remedy this situation by creating a new over-all intelligence agency to do spying and investigating abroad for all the services, and to keep the State Department informed of its findings. The Central Intelligence Agency was created for this purpose.

LIKE TRUMAN'S "unification of the armed services," it was an idea that sounded fine and looked all right on paper but didn't work out. Army, Navy and Air Force all continued to do their own spying. The State Department went on as before. But the CIA provided a haven for an assortment of characters who had found work to their liking in the Office of Strategic Services, a World War II "super-spy" agency that would have gone in for bacterial warfare in North Africa and various other atrocities if it had had its own way.

Freed from control by the military commanders, the CIA has pretty much had its own way. Some of the results may have been good. But some that have come to light have been quite the opposite.

IT WAS CIA "intelligence" that led to the Bay of Pigs fiasco in Cuba.

CIA "intelligence" helped influence Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson to involve us deeper and deeper in Vietnam.

It was the CIA that sent U-2 planes over Russia, leading to an international incident when Francis Gary Powers was forced down in one of them and spoiling the best chance for postwar understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union

Now it is the CIA that blocks an army court-martial for murder in Vietnam.

WE MAY BE SURE the Army did not begin court-martial proceedings against the six Green Berets if what was done was in the ordinary course of war.

And since the CIA refuses to let its agents testify, we must suspect it does not have clean hands in the matter.

A long time ago, in France, there was similar effort to prevent a public trial based on new evidence in the case of Alfred Dreyfus.

That effort failed, and Dreyfus was re-tried and cleared, largely because of an open letter by Emile Zola, "J'Accuse," which appeared in the newly founded newspaper, l'Aurore.

Perhaps we need another Emile Zola today, in the United States.

President Keeps Self Informed Through Digest Of Press Comment

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

Is he isolated deliberately or helplessly from the harsh cross currents of public opinion?

Does he get only a tenderized version of what's being said and done and thought in a turbulent nation?

If the answer to these questions were yes, the United States would be in danger from an insensitive, unaware, ill-informed President. We report the good news that Mr. Nixon gets the bad news — and plenty of it. He wants it that way. He knows that he can't do his job unless he knows what is going on in the country and is sensitive to its moods, its concerns, its complaints.

WE ARE APPRAISING how well President Nixon does with all his information; we are reporting that he is exceptionally and continuously well-informed, that he knows this is a vital input for him.

He has set about to make sure he isn't insulated, that he isn't fed only what some of his aides might think he would most like to hear.

HERE'S HOW it's done.

Every morning at 8 an aide puts on the President's desk in the Oval Room an 18- to 48-page loose-leaf blue briefing book marked "For the President's Eyes Only." It isn't classified; everything in it is from the public press but it's prepared for the President only.

A typical breakdown of its contents:

Summary of American and foreign news developments based on press-association dispatches — six pages.

Digest of other news reports from 42 U.S. newspapers, plus summary of principal columnists and analytical writers — six pages.

Summary of the TV news from the three national networks plus commentaries — six pages.

A weekly cross-section of articles in weekly and monthly magazines, including the Saturday Review, Newsweek, Time, National Review, Economist, U.S. News and World Report, Life, New Republic, Fortune, Business Week, Nation — 30 pages.

The President also gets a weekly summary of the foreign press and of magazine articles from all over the world including Communist publications.

Mr. Nixon himself reads at least six daily newspapers which reach the White House on their day of publication.

THE MOST ELABORATE news summary for a president would be gravely harmful if it were softened or slanted.

The Nixon news summaries are remarkably objective, and faithfully representative of all viewpoints and sources from the whole country. They give the rough with the smooth, the favorable with the unfavorable, the critical and hostile with the praise.

Anyone who has read samples of the summaries can affirm that this is the fact. It is evident of Mr. Nixon's desire to keep himself abreast of reality that he insists that it be so. If unpleasant news and critical comments dominate the press, it dominates the President's disgest, and our impression is that if there is any doubt as to what should be included, the critical gets more space.

VIETNAM is never played down, college unrest is fully covered. The news bearing on black estrangement is reported, as are the Haynsworth hearings, congressional criticisms, Senator Kennedy's troubles, the peril of war in the Mideast, Latin American uprisings and racial disturbances at home.

Does Mr. Nixon really read and use his unusual daily newspaper? The best evidence is that cabinet members and others get chits almost daily as the result of his reading. These news digests weren't something the staff thought it would be nice for the President to have. He ordered them.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Coach Should Have Faith In All

To read of the resignation of Mr. (Robert J.) Troppmann, and particularly his reason for doing this - saddens me.

To say that we live in an era of change in this year 1969, is a masterpiece of understatement. As adults we cannot join the younger generation but we can try to understand their search for individuality in a troubled generation of inconsistencies. Rules and discipline are vital elements in any area of life, but the style of hair does not make the man.

As a swim coach of many years experience, it has been my observation that it takes a special kind of young person to participate on a regular basis in any type of athletic program. The total dedication, sacrifice and strong sense of "team" is essential to all who participate in athletic programs, particularly in high school where young people are searching for a permanent sense of identity. . .

It is every young man's birthright in this country, to find his own place in life, and to have available the same right and opportunity guaranteed to each child in our nation.

To penalize a young dedicated athlete because he chooses to have long hair, is to withhold the very opportunities this country guarantees to each growing youngster.

Our job as a coach is to teach, to encourage, to take pride in, and to have faith in the young people who will some day take our places and hopefully approve on our efforts to build a better world.

Proclamation For Waste Disposal

Our illustrious sire, Emperor Norton First, would be extremely distressed could he see the devitalized, depleted and eroded lands of his domains . . . and the heartless pollution of his rivers and oceans resulting in extinction of animals — even California sardines. . .

Many long years ago our loyal and devoted subject, Sir Henry Ford, perfected an economical method to deodorize and reactivate organic sewage, garbage, wood pulp and other wastes at Muscle Shoals. But all are still being shivaized and dumped into our rivers and oceans.

As the custodian of our local province you, Sir Ronald Reagan, governor of the Province of Upper California, are hereby directed to immediately institute emergency measures to reverse this tragic waste, as follows:

Separate, then bale all non-organic materials into compressed building blocks.

Extend large soil pipe carriers from each city, town and hamlet alongside both sides of each highway and into the nearest eroded flat lands in the outback. Shred, homogenize and liquify all organic sewage, waste and garbage including paper. Add waste consuming microbes and bacteria to decompose, reconvert and rejuvenate the mix into humus and soil additives. Then force the future soil through the soil pipes under high water pressure to huge catch basins and treatment areas to cure. . .

Even now our loyal subjects in our City of Hanover, Province of Germany, are treating waste products in our Leine River with waste-consuming microbes. They shall be knighted in due time.

This decree and proclamation issued under our hand and seal at Serendip, the City, Calif. Norton Second, heir apparent to the throne and empire of Norton the First of blessed memory, may he rest in peace.

Comment On Hair Upsets Reader

I am writing in response to Jim Gilmartin's column of this date (Sept. 26). His understanding, or incredible misunderstanding, of the "hair" issue at Redwood High School outrages truth and fairness. He violates the school community, Redwood, Mr. Torrey, Coach Troppman, the students ("monkeys"), faculty and administration ("Zoo keepers") and the Marin public which your paper serves by allowing his personal prejudice to be the content of his column. I think you have the responsibility to the idea of a free press to make sure that your writers don't abuse it by projecting their prejudices and ignorance into print. How does he dare to call any young person a "monkey"? How does he dare call teachers and school admonistrators "zoo keepers"? How does he dare to make judgemental statements without attempting to get at the complexities of the issue?

How could you permit him to print such a subjective and irresponsible statement?

Pentagon Moves Against 'Pot' Use By Soldiers

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon, while it discounts reports of widespread "pot" smoking in Vietnam, is moving to reverse a steady trend toward increased use of marijuana by is everywhere.

In its campaign against marijuana the Defence Department is cooperating with other federal authorities, including the Bureau of Narcotics and the Customs Bureau, which are currently trying to choke off supplies of "pot" bound for U.S. cities. The Army has even started a pilot program for training dogs to locate marijuana by smell.

IN A FACT SHEET issued at the end of May, the Pentagon reported that there is "virtually no addiction to the so-called hard narcotics" in service units. It described as "gross exaggeration" reports that as many as 50 per cent of the troops in Vietnam are regular users of marijuana.

The fact sheet said available statistics, admittedly no index of undetected marijuana use, show that drug offenses have been increasing among GIs since 1965. It reported, however, that the worldwide statistics for 1968 reflect that slightly less than five servicemen per 1,000 were then involved in marijuana investigations.

Additional army statistics were later presented to congressional committees behind closed doors. The rising narcotics trend was reflected in the number of completed drug investigations filed at the Army's investigative records repository.

In 1965, 379 such investigations were completed. The annual figure has increased each year to a total of 8,247 in 1968 — the high up to that time.

Figures for the first five months of this year, however, when projected to an annual basis, indicate that about 15,000 investigations will be completed during the current year.

LT. GEN. A.O. Connor, who presented the data in congressional budget sessions, included drug abuse with the rising tide of dissent in the military among the "most critical" of disciplinary problems for the armed services.

In its campaign against drug abuse the Defense Department has already printed 3.5 million copies of a pamphlet designed for distrubution to each serviceman. In addition, a reference handbook for commanding officers has become a best seller (more than 130,000 copies) at the Government Printing Office.

The Pentagon has been working with the government of South Vietnam to stamp out marijuana traffic there. According to the Pentagon fact sheet, prepared by Frank A. Bartimo, chairman of the Defense Department's drug abuse committee, the Narcotics Bureau has sent a top agent to work with Vietnamese authorities.

About a year ago, South Vietnamese Prime Minister Tran Van Huong urged national police and province chiefs to crack down of traffic in opium and marijuana. U.S. authorities believe the enforcement of South Vietnamese narcotics laws is improving. Joint investigation squads, combining South Vietnamese police and U.S. agents are also concentrating on the marijuana crackdown.

Dual-Fuel Fleet Provides Proof Smog Can Be Licked

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Announcement by Pacific Lighting System in Los Angeles that it is converting its entire fleet of vehicles to combination natural gas and gasoline propelled automobiles and truck marks an important step in California's battle against air pollution.

Pacific Lighting representatives were in Sacramento recently, with three converted cars, which they demonstrated to state officials. While here, the air resources board approved the conversion system for all automobiles.

CONSIDERING that a converted car discharges up to 90 per cent less pollutant, depending on the type of usage, than does a normal internal combustion engine, the change over of an entire fleet, while it may be no more than the proverbial "drop in the bucket," is at least an indication that private enterprise not only is studying the smog problem but has reached the point where it is doing something to curtail poison in the air.

Pacific Lighting and its two subsidiaries, Southern Counties Gas Co. and Southern California Gas Co., which already have 33 experimental cars operating on natural gas and gasoline, will, according to their three presidents, Joseph R. Rensch, W. Morton Jacogs, and Bruce A. McCandless., apply the same treatment to 1,100 service vehicles in southern and central California. When the job is completed, there will be 1,161 company vehicles operating on the dual-fuel system.

In addition, the switchover has been applied to some state automobiles in the Division of Highways, as well as to Los Angeles city and county cars and some federal government vehicles.

AT PRESENT, the usage of the dual-fuel system is practical only in fleet operations, and not for the individual citizens' automobiles. This is because the car needs refueling every night, and this is done on a mass basis.

The average citizen could use the system, but such usage would require installation of a home gas compressor, and charging up the tanks that hold the compressed gas after about every hundred-mile run.

The companies are testing the use of liquid gas, which would reduce the space needed for tanks. But not all the bugs have been ironed out of the liquid gas usage as yet, although at least one experimental car is operating on it.

But the important thing about the fleet conversion is that it's a visible start on licking the smog problem

Eventually, and the sooner the better, the smog problem has to be whipped, or there will be no one left around to worry about it.

Board Of Supervisors Is Letdown After Fairfax City Council

"Being on the board of supervisors is kind of a letdown after being in Fairfax," Peter Arrigoni declared at a recent Fairfax City Council meeting.

Arrigoni, a former mayor of Fairfax who shows up occasionally to see how things are going, complimented the group — "You people take an active interest" — and told them interest in county actions is limited to a couple of items.

IT'S TRUE. Fairfax people do turn out for city council meetings with amazing frequency . . . even when there isn't a single item that might affect them directly.

They offer suggestions, criticize, shout and scream sometimes — the current council members are masters of indecision.

But it doesn't happen as often as when Arrigoni was on the council and situations erupted that have made some of his meetings legends.

HOWEVER, even regular, faithful participation doesn't satisfy some devoted Fairfax residents and they're hoping the town meeting Oct. 11 will draw a hearty response.

Joe Walla, chairman of the Congress for Community Progress as the town meeting is called, started with a far-out questionnaire asking things like "Do you relate to Fairfax?"

There was space to "speak out/freak out here; say whatever is on your mind about Fairfax."

Residents were asked to identify themselves by age group or in a separate category, "hip."

Some resented the whole thing — they prefer to ignore as much as possible what they call the "new residents" or "visitors."

But they talked about it.

NEXT, WALLA arranged for a community paint-in on a big bare wall. The top half said "Whose Town?", the theme of the meeting and a question Walla thinks every Fairfax resident should ask himself.

The bottom half was devoted to anything anyone wanted to paint and it ended up with peace symbols and love scrawled here and there.

That didn't go over so well either.

Everybody who might conceiveably be able to do something was flooded with calls after the sign appeared and shortly, the committee was ordered to wash it off.

WALLA WAS delighted — the whole purpose of his precongress work is to arouse the citizenry.

"The big objection last year was that it was run by the establishment," he said. This year while the establishment is still very much in evidence, others are also involved.

He pointed out the people who showed up to paint the sign (the whole town had been invited) were the same ones who had turned out for the massive cleanup project in downtown Fairfax earlier in the summer.

"Whose town indeed?" Walla wonders — and hopes everyone will find out Oct. 11.

Another resident who also wonders whose town or if it should be a town has gone in an opposite direction.

Tired of council inaction, the simmering bitterness between the oldtimers and the "new residents" (for the uninitiated they are hip people who've lived there for some time now), he has prepared a stack of petitions calling for the disincorporation of Fairfax.

He hasn't started passing them — yet.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Are Schools Ready To Do Job If Unrest Vanishes?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

There have been many innovations in American public schools in recent years. Each of them, we have been assured, has made the schools better.

A somewhat pessimistic view of the result of all these innovations was taken this month, however, by the Council for Basic Education in its monthly bulletin.

CBE, which is basically conservative but by no means a crackpot rightist organization, noted that the major concern as the new shool year begins is whether the schools can survive the unrest arising from their being made staging grounds for revolution. But it asked the question: "Are our schools so organized that once the social problems are eased they are prepared to provide a sound education for all students?"

EXPRESSING DOUBT that they are, it gave these reasons for the doubt:

"1. The schools seem to be increasingly inefficient, especially in the big cities, in carrying out their essential first task of imparting simple literacy. Even where there have been dramatic increases in financial support of special school systems, the percentage of poor readers or non-readers steadily increases. . . .

"2. In the other essential language, mathematics, the level of competence among American students is also distressingly low. Two years ago the International Study of Achievement in Mathematics found that American 13-year-olds ranked 10th out of 12 countries in mathematics. . . .

"3. OTHER REFORMS in the subject field have also been disappointing. The 'new English' has banned 'Silas Marner' and grammar but the result has hardly been a new love for the native language on the part of students . . . We are discovering that a generation of teachers not trained in the structure of the language has little to pass on to its students about language except its own ignorance. The reforms in the social studies seem to hold more promise, especially in the emphasis on the inductive method, but history as a subject is undoubtedly losing its identity. The effort to make it a 'behavioral science' and the emphasis on 'revelance' and 'comtemporary issues' do not serve to improve the average American's notoriously limited knowledge of his past.

"4. The promise of quick pay-offs from technological hardware and innovative gimmicks has not materialized. . .

"5. Despite new economic gains and organizational solidarity, the teacher seems to be losing identity rather than gaining status. . . ."

CBE CONCLUDED with a reminder of something often overlooked or forgotten:

"This ideal of basic education for all was not only a WASP ideal, it was also the ideal that motivated schools in the Jewish ghettoes and Chinatowns of our larger cities, the ideal that inspired those who founded the Catholic parochial schools, and those who started the pioneer Negro schools."

CBE left unanswered the question of whether the schools, if freed from their current preoccupation with social unrest, are prepared to do a better job of teaching the basic disciplines of civilization. But on the page of the bulletin following the assessment appeared a regular department called "Trivia of the Month," and among its items were these:

"AN ASSOCIATED Press dispatch states that Bowling Green University (Ohio) is about to offer a curriculum, leading to master's and doctor's degrees, based on a study of comic books, mail order catalogues, psychedelic posters, and 'underground' newspapers. . . .

"Last month at the summer session of the Scarsdale (N.Y.) high school, students could take a course, with a half-credit toward graduation, on revolutionary tactics and guerrilla warfare. . . ."

(A class in revolution was given during the summer at College of Marin, but as an "experimental college" course for which the institution gave no credit and assumed no responsibility.)

Light planes may now land on an airstrip at the Wright Brothers National Memorial, North Carolina, where the two brothers made the first successful flights.

AIMED AT YOUTH

Hard Core Drug School To Open

A drug education school to discourage youths from using marijuana and to prevent their getting hooked on harder drugs will start in Marin next month.

Catholic Social Services of Marin, with headquarters at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael, will sponsor the school. Classes will be held in different locations, starting with Golden Gate Baptist Seminary and College of Marin.

James D. Kilty, director of the school, announced that the one-month course will be given each month to a new group of 40 students between the ages of 13 and 22.

These students, the bulk of them marijuana smokers, will meet experts in drugs, including some former addicts, for confidential talks and instruction on the effects of narcotics. Each session will start with a 40-minute lecture, and students will then break into four groups for the confidential seminars.

Students will be youths referred to the school by various public agencies, schools, doctors, police, probation department and social workers. Self-referrals will also be accepted if vacancies exist, said Kilty. If there are more than 40 students per month, the overflow will be carried over to the following month's course.

"During these seminars, we hope to get beyond the rationalization stage where they make excuses for having to depend on drugs," said Kilty. "If they try to rationalize, the other kids will keep them honest. One of the hallmarks of this course is confidentiality. Nothing said during the seminars will get outside the group."

The chief aim will be to show that there are alternatives to drugs, explained Kilty.

The first course will start on Oct. 21 in Robertson Hall at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry. The final of the eight sessions will be on Nov. 13.

The second group of students will then start its course on Nov. 27 and continue through Dec. 10. This will be held at the College of Marin.

Lecturers include Dr. William Lamers, Marin psychiatrist; James Roosien, graduate student at University of California School of Pharmacy; Daniel A. Meyerson, director of Marin Institute; Martha Parsons of Langley Porter Institute; Marin Municipal Judge Hadden W. Roth; Cindy Ceteras, chairman of the Psychedelic Drug Information Committee in Berkeley, and officer Charles Newman of Corte Madera.

Group leaders will be teachers and counselors who have demonstrated their ability to reach teen-agers, said Kilty. Among them are a couple who have experience at Synanon.

Second Campus Views Sought

Where does the state rank College of Marin's need for a second campus? The Marin Junior College District board may find out when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 72 of the fine arts building on the Kentfield campus.

Acting Supt.-Pres. Louis H Herkenhoff is to report on the project's status as seen by the staff of the board of governors of California Community Colleges, which last spring recommended no new campus in Marin or Southern Sonoma before 1977.

But in mid-September, the staff reversed itself, saying the north campus plan "is justifiable and should be supported."

$2,400 Is Collected For Student Program

The Terra Linda High School International Friendship Club collected over $2,400 in its annual door-to-door fund raising campaign Monday night, the dean's office reported yesterday.

The donations, collected in Terra Linda, Marinwood, Lucas Valley and Los Ranchitos, will go toward the school's foreign exchange program. Last summer four students were sent abroad to travel and study.

Long Miller Hearing Cuts Board's Agenda

The expected blowup over Administrator Alan Bruce's suggestion that various county commissions be cut back or merged was postponed until next Tuesday because a closed meeting on the community mental health director stole the show yesterday.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors held a closed meeting on Dr. Clyde G. Miller, mental health director, from 2:40 p.m. until 8:13 p.m. (See also story, page 1.)

When it became evident that testimony on Dr. Miller would take all afternoon, County Clerk George Gnoss announced that the afternoon agenda of the supervisors would be postponed until next Tuesday.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

WELFARE CRITICISM — Heard Peter Edler of 50 Shell Road, Mill Valley, complain that the general attitude of the county welfare staff "is one of condescension." Chairman John F. McInnis asked for specific examples and suggestions for improvement but got none. Edler wound up by staring at the ceiling and writing the word "GOD" on the blackboard before leaving.

LOGGERS' CLAIM — Rejected a $5 million claim filed by the Oregon logging firm of Matthews, Humbert and Walker Timber Co. which charged it suffered damages when the county declared the logging operation a nuisance on Sept. 23 and ordered a halt on timber cutting.

MARIN CITY — Appointed Jack Williams as community coordinator for Marin City as requested by the Marin City Council.

STOCKS — Decided to sell six shares of stock in the Pacific Breeders Association, worth about $30 in all. Supervisor William A. Gnoss said the county acquired the six shares in 1966 when the old Marin County Farm in Lucas Valley became a corporation.

Burglary Charge Proceedings Halted

A burglary charge against Tyrone Westbrook, 36, of no known address, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court when the district attorney's office reported that a witness had failed to identify him.

Another man arrested in connection with the burglary, Michael Emanuel Jenkins, 22, of San Francisco, will be tried on the charge the week of Nov. 10 in Marin Superior Court. The burglary occurred Aug. 20 at a Sausalito home.

An unidentified man moves through the debris of a school bus and the small van, in which a Novato woman died in a collision yesterday.

Two Die In Separate Traffic Accidents

Two automobile accidents — one involving a collision with a Novato School bus yesterday afternoon, the other a car that drove off the Sausalito lateral last night — have claimed the lives of a Novato woman and a Berkeley man, Marin's 27th and 28th traffic fatalities this year as compared to 25 by this time last year.

Killed in the Novato accident was Christine Gail Hinton, 21, of 1701 Indian Valley Road, whose Volkswagen van collided head-on at 2:15 p.m. with a school bus carrying seven first and second grade pupils and a driver.

But a passenger in Miss Hinton's Volkswagen, Barbara Langer, 23, also of Indian Valley Road, was seriously injured. She was reported in fair condition today in Novato General Hospital's intensive care unit, being treated for head injuries and multiple cuts.

Killed some time during the night was William Feeney, 27, of Berkeley, whose body was found at 7:30 a.m. today crushed beneath his car in a drainage ditch off the Sausalito Lateral west of the Highway 101 underpass.

The California Highway Patrol said Feeney, had been dead for several hours when his body was found.

The car, which landed on its roof in the six-foot-deep ditch was hidden from the view of traffic, officers said, but was spotted by the driver of a Golden Gate Bridge tow truck driving on the lateral.

Officers speculated that Feeney missed the turn coming out of the underpass tunnel and skidded off the road between the end of the tunnel and the guard rail.

Feeney was employed with a San Francisco architectural firm. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth.

Driver of the school bus, Valerie Everett Hansen, 40, of 820 Eucalyptus Avenue, Novato, told officers she was driving on Diablo Avenue when she saw Miss Hinton's van approaching and starting to drift slowly over the center line.

Mrs. Hansen said she slowed down the school bus and honked the horn but the van kept moving right on until it smashed into the school bus.

The van bounced back and Miss Hinton was thrown to the pavement, officers said, but Miss Langer remained inside the car. Also thrown from the car were three cats and a dog that the two women reportedly were taking to a nearby veterinarian.

One of the cats was killed and the two others ran across the glass littered street to hide under a car and would not come out until rescued by Marin County Humane Society officers, witnesses said.

The school children were taken home in private cars by school officials.

Yesterday's accident was the first in which a Novato school bus has been involved while carrying children, Novato School District officials said yesterday.

The Marin County coroner's office reported that Miss Hinton and Miss Langer were residents of a hippie commune at 1701 Indian Valley Road.

Senator, White House Discuss Dropped Case

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — The former Green Beret commander in Vietnam said today he didn't know the alleged Vietnamese double agent he and seven of his men were accused of killing and denied there had been such a slaying. (See also photo, another story, page 5.)

"That is correct," Col. Robert B. Rheault declared when asked at a news conference if he denied there had been a killing.

"No," he said when asked if he had known the person a newsman described as the "alleged dead man."

Rheault, 43, also was asked if he thought "the Vietnamese who was killed was a close political ally of President Thieu" and "Do you think this might have resulted in the case being brought against you?"

NO THIEU LINK

"There was no conclusive evidence that the individual was ever killed and there is certainly no indication anywhere that the alleged victim was connected with President Thieu in any way," the colonel said.

Rheault and six of the seven other Green Berets involved in the case returned to the United States from Vietnam to this California base in Solano County, the day after the Army dropped murder charges against them.

They headed for their homes shortly after the plane set down and an Army spokesman said all would get 30-day leaves.

'WE . . . EXONERATED'

The colonel said he believed the incident "would better be forgotten . . . so long as people remember that we were exonerated." He acted as spokesmen for the others during a seven-minute session with newsmen here after a flight from Vietnam aboard a chartered jetliner that brought 219 persons here.

Rheault said he culd not understand why the murder and conspiracy charges were filed against them.

SENATOR'S VIEW

With Rheault, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., were Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, Bloomfield, N.J.; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge

Dr. Wilson Suspension Requested

By WAT TAKESHITA

Dr. Clyde G. Miller, controversial director of mental health services for the county, last night was suspended with pay for 30 days from his $2,110-a-month job after a two and one-half hour public hearing followed by five and one-half hours in closed session.

At 8:15 p.m., the Marin County Board of Supervisors announced Miller's suspension and asked the Marin General Hospital District to impose a similar 30-day suspension on Miller's chief critic, Dr. Donald P. Wilson, director of the community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital, for "re-evaluation of his performance."

Simultaneously, the supervisors asked the county administrator to "reappraise the mental health center operation under its contract with the county within those 30 days."

The county has no legal right to suspend Wilson, who is employed by the hospital district. However, the county contracts with the hospital's mental health center for nearly $2 million worth of services and thus can exert some purse-string influence.

George E. Croke, president of the hospital district board, said today a special meeting of the board was planned at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Marin General Hospital to discuss the supervisors' recommendation. Much of the meeting, he said, would be held in closed session.

(He said the board of supervisors request was a surprise. As to whether he thought the supervisors were within bounds to make such a recommendation, Croke said, "That's something we'll discuss with our legal counsel.")

"Is it possible that they can return to their duties after the 30 days?" asked a newsman. "It's possible," replied Chairman John F. McInnis. "But you framed that question; I didn't."

Supervisors gave no explanation of what the suspensions are intended to accomplish nor what would happen after 30 days. Miller, who serves at the pleasure of the supervisors, said he had been instructed not to comment.

Hershey In Favor Of Lottery Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today the draft lottery is not proposed as a way to defuse student protest—as some people suggest—because there is nothing to defuse.

"I think we exaggerate how much we can defuse anything," Hershey said. "But I'm a great optimist. I don't think things are as bad as some students advertise."

He had high praise for college students, calling them "some of our finest people," despite campus disturbances by a few.

Hershey told a special House subcommittee he favors President Richard M. Nixon's draft lottery plan because there is a great demand for it and he believes the draft situation has reached a point where it would work.

But the general made no effort to dispute a complaint that the provision for returning men with student deferments to the draft pool after they finish school is unfair.

"When you defer 4,000 to 5,000 people (for college) out of an age group," he said, "it's a little hard to talk about equity."

The Selective Service chief agreed that because of different birthdays the lottery would not draft 19-year-olds only, it would also take some 20-year-olds.

But he said the point is that a young man would learn from the lottery conducted in late September or early October what his prospects are for being drafted the following year and unless there were an emergency he would be subject to the draft only that one year.

Earlier, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee said he would not object to a draft lottery if the President can prove it is equitable.

Nixon Vows Against U.S. Losing War

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Richard M. Nixon, in another summons to national unity on Vietnam, was quoted today as vowing he will not become "the first president to preside over an American defeat." (See story on "bugout", page 2.)

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Nixon restated that determination to a group of about 10 Republican senators the White House last night.

Scott, the Senate GOP leader, said the discussion centered on the administration's effort to achieve unity behind American policy.

He said Nixon told the senators he does not seek a devastating defeat of North Vietnam. "He repeated that he offered peace with honor and justice to both sides," Scott reported.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., told a news conference the United States should consider resuming the bombing of North Vietnam unless the Communists, within days, offer indica-

Panel Postpones Vote On Haynsworth Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today postponed until next week, at the earliest, a vote on President Richard M. Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., charging that he was getting a "runaround" in efforts to check on Haynsworth's financial records, said the committee acted after a "heated exchange."

Bayh said the committee put off a vote on the request of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., one of Haynsworth's strongest backers on the committee.

Thurmond thus used up the one-week delay that ordinarily can be granted under committee rules only once. Bayh and other members of the committee, however, said that another delay was still possible.

In an impromptu news conference outside the committee hearing room, Bayh said that he and his staff and the committee have been getting the "runaround" in efforts to obtain full records of Haynsworth's stock and real estate transactions from 1957 to the present.

Asked if the committee discussed possible use of a subpoena to get these records, plus those of the Carolina Vend-O-Matic Co. which Haynsworth and associates helped found, Bayh said the Supreme Court nominee "will be risking a possible subpoena request" if the records are not made available.

Bayh said he ordered his own man to Haynsworth's home state when the judge and his stockbroker, Arthur McCall of Greenville, had supplied real estate and stock records going back only to 1964. The Indiana senator wanted to see the records dealing from 1957 when Haynsworth was appointed a federal district judge.

"If there are things there that need to be answered, he ought to be the one to answer them," Bayh said of the investigator.

Kindergarten Is Linked To Militancy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An elementary school principal told a conference on campus unrest today that regimented kindergartens may be breeding grounds for future student militants.

"Teachers demand quiet and the children are lined up on rugs and told when to talk and not to talk," said Harold Hyman, principal of the George Washington Elementary School in Compton.

"When I walk into a classroom, I expect to hear something," he said. "I want to feel the electricity. The problem starts in the kindergarten."

Hyman told a panel discussion sponsored by the state Department of Education that teachers should take a "humanistic approach" to the classroom by reminding themselves "the child is the most important thing."

He said proper treatment of youngsters may discourage them from resorting to violent

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Israeli Bus Blasted

TEL AVIV (AP)—Arab saboteurs detonated an explosive charge in front of an Israeli bus and raked it with small arms fire today, the Israeli military command said. No injuries were reported.

The incident occurred near the Israeli settlement of Yiron, on the Lebanese border about 20 miles east of the Mediterranean, a spokesman said.

Student Clash Fatal

Tadao Tsumoto, 20, a freshman of the literature department of Kansai University, suffered extensive burns when he was hit by a Molotov cocktail thrown by a student in the clash Sept. 21, police said.

Tsumoto was the third student to die in student demonstrations in Japan since Sept. 18.

Dollar Slumps

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The U.S. dollar dropped to a record low 3.78 marks on the Frankfurt currency market today and the West German Central Bank offered to sell dollars at 3.83 marks.

The new dollar laws were established under a government decision to free the mark to seek its own level — an attempt to curb speculation on a mark revaluation upward. The mark is officially pegged at 4 to the dollar. With the dollar under pressure in the last few weeks, the Central Bank had guaranteed to buy dollars from commercial banks at 3.97 marks.

Sound Barrier Test

TOULOUSE, France (AP) The French-British supersonic transport plane Concorde slipped through the sound barrier today for the first time and the plane's commander said it "was much calmer than could be inagined."

Andre Turcat, chief test pilot for the Sud Aviation Co., told newsmen after the flight, "We stayed at supersonic speed for nine minutes at a speed of Mach 1.05. We carried out various operations which permitted us to appreciate the extraordinary stability of the plane."

Viet Flight Cutback

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans Jr. says a 50 per cent cut in air operations over Vietnam is planned within the next two years.

By this, he told a news conference yesterday, he means the number of sorties will gradually be reduced. There are no plans for an immediate pullout of equipment, he said.

Seamans didn't give a reason for tapering off combat missions, but said its timing would depend on the level of enemy activity.

School Shakeup Set

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken has unveiled a sweeping plan to revamp Michigan's statewide property tax to eliminate the traditional district taxation.

Milliken also proposed state aid to parochial schools yesterday in announcing the results of a five-month study by his commission on education reform.

The state legislature begins a special session next Monday to consider Milliken's proposals.

Mao Sees Red Fete

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's top five leaders stood on the red walls of Peking's Forbidden City today above a half million Chinese shouting: "Long live Chairman Mao!"

Towering over the 20th anniversary celebration of the nation he founded was Communits party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, 75, whose appearance again belied widespread rumors that he was either dying or dead.

Mao smiled, waved and shook the hands of dignitaries as thousands of marchers turned the vast square below him into "a sea of red flags," Peking Radio said. Mao did not address the crowd.

Apollo 12 Stroll Set

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts may stroll more than half a mile from their moon landing craft next month.

Also, they plan to collect rocks with far greater scientific finesse than Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., were able to employ on mankind's first lunar scavenger hunt.

Apollo 12 Commander Charles Conrad rates chances as "50-50" that he will be able to land close enough to an unmanned Surveyer spacecraft now on the moon's Ocean of Storms so that he and astronaut Alan L. Bean can bring pieces of it back to earth.

Per Diem Hike Of $5 Is Out

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislators and high-ranking state officials today exchanged a $5 raise in their daily expense allowances for freedom from Internal Revenue Service scrutiny.

The $25 per diem for legislators and state officials had been scheduled to increase to $30 today.

But the board of control rescinded the raise last week at the request of Sen. Robert Stevens, R-Los Angeles, a member of the Legislature's Joint Rules Committee.

Stevens said he was acting on behalf of lawmakers who "didn't want to take the increase. Many members felt it was not justified. After all, there was a pay increase voted this year."

79 Flee Cong Controlled Village; 91 Also Rescued

SAIGON (AP) — Seventy-nine Vietnamese civilians escaped from a Viet Cong village to an American patrol base north of Saigon and South Vietnamese infantrymen rescued another 91, the U.S. Army announced today.

The Army said the villagers had been forced to produce food for enemy troops while the villagers went hungry. Some of the refugees attended a Roman Catholic mass at the American base and received communion for the first time in five years.

The Army said they had been held captive in the village of Duc Bon, 70 miles northeast of Saigon. It had a population of 400 before the exodus of the 170 civilians.

"Last night," an Army spokesman said, "Enemy solcut off the increasing flight of Duc Bon's population, rounded up and tried to move one quarter of the villagers to a new location."

He said South Vietnamese infantrymen intercepted a Viet Cong squad herding 91 civilians through the countryside, scared the enemy troops off with a volley of gunfire and rescued the civilians.

Spokesmen said the 79 other civilians had fled during the past 10 days to Landing Zone Mary, a patrol base of the U.S. miles south of the village of Duc First Air Cavalry Division three miles south of the village of Duc Bon.

The civilians have been turned over to South Vietnamese authorities in the provincial capital of Song Be, 80 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Army said one group of 27 villagers who turned up at Landing Zone Mary yesterday included 17 children.

Elsewhere, three enemy arms caches were found by South Vietnamese troops 11 miles west of Saigon. The finds strengthened speculation that the Communist command is stepping up infiltration efforts in the capital.

IN DEFEAT—Massachusetts State Sen. William Saltonstall, a member of the Republican Establishment, seems deep in thought after being defeated yesterday in a spcial election by state Rep. Michael Harrington, a Democrat, for the Sixth District congressional seat. (UPI Telephoto)

Dove Scores Victory In Old Guard Haven

BOSTON (AP) — Voters in the sixth Massachusetts congressional district have elected as U.S. representative a Democrat who advocates a stepped-up withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam and a change in the priorities of the Nixon administration.

Winner in yesterday's balloting to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Rep. William H. Bates was state Rep. Michael J. Harrington, 33, a former McCarthy-for-president supporter. The district had been Republican since 1875.

He defeated state Sen. William L. Saltonstall, 42, son of retired U.S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, 72,030 to 65,453.

Saltonstall ran as a down-the-line Nixon supporter.

It was the fourth special congressional election this year which the Democrats won from the GOP, and the national Democratic party chairman, Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., described it as another rejection of the administration's course.

Harrington's victory gives Massachusetts eight Democrats and four Republicans in the U.S. House. The sixth district seat had been held by Bates and his father for 33 years.

Stokes Overcomes Deficit In Cleveland Primary Race

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Negro incumbent Carl B. Stokes defeated a self-styled law-and-order candidate by more than 31,000 votes yesterday in Cleveland's Democratic mayoral primary election.

But Stokes won his bid for nomination to a second two-year term only after overcoming a lead of more than 20,000 votes which Robert J. Kelly, an electoral newcomer, built up in white sections crucial to the mayor's Nov. 4 general election prospects.

Stokes became the first Negro elected mayor of a major American city in 1967. He also is the first Negro mayor of a major city to face a re-election battle.

"We're going to really have to work against Ralph J. Perk," Stokes said of the Republican county auditor he will face in the general election.

Negroes compose about one-third of Cleveland's population of 880,000.

Kelly said he congratulated Stokes "in conformity with the American tradition of politics" but held to his earlier announcement that he would not support the mayor in the general election.

The turnout of 153,118 voters compared with 200,000 when Stokes, the 42-year-old grandson of a slave, unseated incumbent Ralph Locher in the 1967 primary.

Perk said the smaller turnout indicated disenchantment with Stokes and promised a vigorous campaign in his bid to become Cleveland's first Republican mayor in 28 years.

College To Honor Reagan At Dinner

CHICAGO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California will be honored Oct. 22 at a $25-a-plate benefit dinner for his alma mater, tiny Eureka College in Eureka, Ill., it was announced today.

The announcement said Reagan would make "a major speech on education" at the dinner in Chicago. The dinner is billed as an "Illinois Salute" to the governor from his native state.

London, Ont., named for England's largest city, is also located on a river named the Thames.

U.S. Awaits Gains In Russ Talks

Rogers and Gromyko wound up their sessions here last night, agreeing to continue U.S.-Soviet discussions on a Middle East settlement. Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco will carry these forward with Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Washington.

BIG FOUR NEXT

Rogers hopes that by late October, the United States and the Soviet Union will have agreed on enough groundwork to launch Big Four—U.S., Soviet, British and French—undertakings for a Middle East solution.

Another item discussed was President Richard M. Nixon's still-unanswered bid to begin missile curb talks. Gromyko told Rogers Sept. 23 that Moscow would reply with a time and place "soon," but didn't say when.

NIXON PLEDGE

Nixon, upon taking office, vowed to seek an "era of negotiation," rather than "confrontation," with the Communist world. Rogers' meetings with Gromyko provided the first high-level test. Gromyko heads today for Ottawa, then Moscow. Rogers returns to Washington tomorrow.

Under the administration's nonconfrontation policy of not pushing issues it considers irreconcilable at this time, Rogers did not press Gromyko on Vietnam or Soviet pressure on Czechoslovakia.

Senator Shrugs At 'Bugout' Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles E. Goodell, shrugging off a "bugout" charge from fellow Republicans, says he hopes his proposal for total withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam will produce a searching inquiry into war policy.

The New York senator's bill to order a total cutback by Dec. 1, 1970 has drawn strong protests from the White House, summed up yesterday in a one-word description of the Goodell plan: "bugout."

Hugh Scott, Senate GOP leader, said he applied the GI slang to Vietnam withdrawal proposals, and President Richard M. Nixon agreed it was accurate. Within hours, Republicans were using it all over Capitol Hill.

"Hanoi has used some of these bugout resolutions and they've used some quotations of senators as a means of enforcing their hand," said Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo.

Allott even supplied a definition: "A bugout is when you pull out and put a date on a pullout or put numbers on a pullout in such a way that you have the position of the United States unguarded."

"I think they're bugged by my proposal," said Goodell. "It sounds like they have a unified line."

"I certainly don't think labeling it in that way contributes anything to an enlightened dialogue."

Another Republican who has criticized the pace of U.S. disengagement from Vietnam, Ohio Sen. William B. Saxbe, took issue with Goodell.

"His is a bugout attitude," Saxbe said. "It's just impractical. The Congress is not in a position to instruct the administration on tactical matters."

Goodell said he will seek hearings soon in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He said he anticipates a thorough debate of the war issues. Sen. Charles Mc. Mathias, R-Md., said that might be the major product of the Goodell proposal, which has no real prospect of gaining majority support.

"It is a vehicle for a review of national mistakes," Mathias said, "Congressional as well as military."

"I want no part of it," Saxbe said. "It could very well result in riot and hell-raising."

He proposed instead a Nov. 11 demonstration of support for Americans in Vietnam.

nal decision, giving the county staff 30 days to investigate the operation of both offices, with both directors suspended to clear the air.

Another was that the supervisors decided one or the other must go, and they are putting pressure on the hospital district to oust Wilson. A third was that the simultaneous suspensions were slaps on the wrist for both, and they could continue in their posts if they iron out their differences during the next 30 days.

Miller was called behind closed doors from 3:30 until 6:30 p.m., while a parade of witnesses was called in to testify in his defense. Administrator Alan Bruce and his assistant, Thomas F. Campanella, were with the supervisors throughout.

Among those who testified behind closed doors were Miller's administrative assistant Jay J. Shinohara, and various staff members of the mental health center. They included Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt, Dr. James Green, Dr. Robert Burke, and Dr. Arthur Reiss, all sympathetic to Miller.

Mrs. Daniel A. Collina, a member of the Mental Health Advisory Board, said she asked Shinohara for a chance to speak and was invited to testify before the supervisors.

From 6:30 on, only the supervisors, Bruce and his assistant Campanella remained behind closed doors.

Outside, Miller remained calm and cheerful throughout. "They're trying to decide whether they'll dismiss me," said Miller. He said he did not ask for an open hearing because he is satisfied the two and one-half hour morning session provided sufficient public hearing for both sides.

During the open morning session, a parade of about 30 speakers rose from the audience to speak for and against Miller. The majority were opposed, and several called for his resignation or dismissal.

The tone of speeches and letters ranger from charges against Miller of "inept" and "wasteful" administration to praise of him as a "man of vision, courage and intelligence."

Opponents declared Miller is an ineffective administrator, lacks the trust and confidence of various mental health organizations, and seeks personal control at the expense of services to the community.

The Rev. John J. O'Connor, director of Catholic Social Services, said he supported Miller in 1966 but is now convinced that the Miller should resign. "The problem is not one of philosophy or interpretation of policy," said O'Connor. "It is Dr. Miller's inability to communicate with the community."

Dr. William J. Dickerson, director of the Ross Psychiatric Clinic, criticized Miller's "preoccupation with control at the expense of services." Dickerson charged that Miller can never regain the confidence of various mental health contractors. "It is impossible for him to function effectively . . . He is not responsive to community needs."

Edward K. Allison, president of the board of trustees of the Marin Institute on alcoholism, added "my vote of no-confidence to Dr. Miller's Administration."

Florine Miller, speaking for the Marin Association for Mental Health, declared that an atmosphere of understanding and cooperation among the many organizations is not possible under Miller's administration.

Among supporters of Miller were Dr. Patricia Hallinan, assistant county health officer, who declared that mental hygiene in Marin would revert to the dark ages if Miller quit.

Others who backed Miller were Dr. Paul Kingsley, former member of the Mental Health Advisory Board; Sylvia Boorstein, psychiatric social workers; Dr. Leon Waterman, assistant director of the Community Mental Health Center; and Dr. James Green, consultant at the center.

Dr. Gerald Hill past chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, praised Miller as the one man responsible for the county's mental health program. "When the smoke has finally settled in 'mental health land'," said Hill, "let it not be forgotten that Dr. Clyde Miller made it a reality."

C. M. Pete Croughan, former chairman of the advisory board, described Miller as "a man of vision, courage, intelligence and ability." Said Croughan, "I didn't have any trouble understanding Dr. Miller."

Chairman McInnis declared the problem is more than one of personality but stems from long-standing bitterness among mental health organizations, each trying to expand its own activities.

McInnis scolded Wilson, director of the mental health center, for making a personal attack on Miller. "I'm disappointed when you sat there and tried to psychoanalyze Dr. Miller's reasons for taking a certain attitude," said McInnis.

Dr. John Guerrant, psychiatrist at the mental health center, had blamed Miller for not providing a maximum security room in the original plans of the center.

That criticism is aimed in the wrong direction, asserted McInnis. He said the previous board of supervisors had discussed the matter and decided against the maximum security room. "If you wish to criticize that area, you should bring the criticism to this board, not to Dr. Miller."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. declared the decision must be made by the supervisors, while Supervisor Michael Wornum preferred that the matter be sent back to the mental health advisory board for a recommendation.

"It doesn't bother me to have to remove the director (Dr. Miller) or to ask the hospital board to dismiss Dr. Wilson," said Arrigoni. "But I don't see any solution in dismissing one or both."

Supervisors William A. Gnoss and Louis H. Baar said the supervisors should make the decision.

E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.; and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York.

In Washington, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said he is convinced President Richard M. Nixon personally gave the order to drop charges against six Green Berets.

"He ordered it. I know it," Young told a reporter, saying "Every knowledgeable senator knows the order came from the White House.

Young, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said that "Obviously, this was a Central Intelligence Agency operation."

But he said prosecution was complicated by the fact that the body of the victim was not recovered and by the fact that two enlisted men in the case, against whom chargs were dropped earlier, were apparently going to testify against the six Green Berets.

The White House acknowledged belatedly today that President Nixon was involved in events that prompted the dropping of the criminal charges.

But press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted that the Army acted on its own in deciding to drop the charges Monday.

By Ziegler's account Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency made a decision that, in the interests of national security, its employees would not be permitted to testify at the planned courtsmartial of the Army Special Forces men.

"The President approved the decision," said Ziegler.

The press secretary said the Army made its move after being informed of the Nixon-approved CIA decision.

The Army did not seek Nixon's okay for its action but did inform the White House that the charges would be dropped, Ziegler said.

Observation For Suspect In Burglary Case

A young man was committed to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital today by Marin County Sheriff's deputies after he was found inside a Tamalpais Valley grocery store reportedly in the middle of an LSD trip, sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said they will book Louis Kuntz age and address unknown, into Marin County Jail for investigation of attempted burglary, resisting arrest and assault, after he completes a 72-hour observation period at the center.

Deputies said they found Kuntz inside the 7-11 food store at 371 Shoreline Heghway at 4:20 a.m. when they responded to a silent burglar alarm.

It took several minutes, deputies said, to subdue Kuntz. They reported he was running around the store, yelling, throwing food and canned goods and drinking wine from a bottle. He later said that he was on an LSD trip, deputies said.

Planning Council To Eye Housing

The City-County Planning Council will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Marin Civic Center to discuss a joint housing survey to be conducted with the Marin County Labor Council and the Marin Economic Opportunity Council.

The labor council will send questionnaires to union members who work in Marin but live outside the county to determine what housing needs are.

Also at the meeting, planning council will get progress reports on a tourism study in Marin, and on the county's balanced transportation study and bus and ferry studies.

Army NCO Graft Case Led To Threats, Senators Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bribe offers and threats of death were received by Army personnel probing charges of rakeoffs and kickbacks in operation of servicemen's recreation clubs, an officer testified today.

Lt. Col. William L. George said he received many anonymous threatening phone calls during the three months between the arrest of one sergeant and his conviction for stealing slot machine proceeds.

"One in particular which I remember most vividly happened about 2:30 in the morning and the caller said: 'You're dead, you bastard you,' and hung up," George told the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee.

He said his family also was threatened, but added that neither he nor any member of the family was hurt.

The subcommittee, of which Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., is acting chairman, is investigating charges that some of the Army's top sergeants who managed clubs throughout the world had received hundreds of thousands of dollars in a wide spectrum of schemes.

One witness yesterday estimated the takeoff from slot machines alone at $350,000 a year. He also said a live lion and expensive items of furniture were given by favor-seekers.

Col. George said that on one occasion a sergeant he trusted was threatened, offered bribes, and followed by unknown persons when he was assigned to monitor slot machine money at one club in Munich.

The gross proceeds of the gambling machines had slipped from $20,000 to $4,000 a month, George said.

The sergeant collected $10,000 in 10 days, George said.

The arrest George referred to was that of S.Sgt. Edward Jones, who committee aides said was sentenced to one year of hard labor after admitting he had taken money from slot machines.

George described also what he said was a $700 night on the town sponsored in part by Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge, who later became the first sergeant major of the Army. Wooldridge has been named as one of the leaders in the conspiracy.

George said he believed the money for the entertainment came from the noncommissioned officers' club in Munich. He said Wooldridge refused to accept his offer to pay part of the bill.

Investigator Irvin E. Beard also accused the Army of hiding the facts to avoid embarassing Gen. Harold K. Johnson, who, as Army chief of staff, had named Wooldridge the Army's first sergeant major.

Yesterday's testimony brought a quick admission from Secretary of the Army, Stanley R. Resor that "a number of strategically placed enlisted men have apparently been able to abuse their positions in nonappropriated fund activities" to siphon the pay of their fellow soldiers into their own pockets. Resor said the Army is moving firmly to correct the situation.

tions they will move toward peace.

Tower was not at the White House meeting and said he had not discussed his proposal—a retort to demands for U.S. withdrawal — with the President.

"It becomes increasingly apparent that the intensification of military pressure on our enemies is the only thing that will bring them to terms," Tower told a news conference.

"The point is we are involved in a war," Tower said. "The question is are you going to fight it or not fight it. . ."

"I think the time is fast approaching when, in the light of North Vietnamese intransigence, we must consider the exercise of additional military options available to us such as the resumption of bombing in the North, interdiction of their lines of communication and supply on a saturation basis, and closing the port at Haiphong," Tower said.

"It is my belief we can achieve military victory with no more than our present available resources," Tower said. "The policy of restraint, though honestly motivated and worthy of trial, has to date been unsuccessful . . ."

Tower said that he had no criticism of Nixon's troop withdrawal orders because they involve the replacement of Americans with South Vietnamese. He said congressional proposals for a withdrawal deadline would "completely sabotage" negotiating efforts.

Booking Made On Los Angeles Theft Warrant

A San Rafael man, who apparently was sharing both a home and an alias with a woman who died Monday, was booked into Marin County Jail today on a Los Angeles petty theft warrant.

Barbara Hyde Bastion, 41, who was using the name Barbara Hyde Dana, died in her home at 209 Marin Street Monday, apparently from an overdose of phenobarbitol pills, according to the coroner's office.

San Rafael police said Andrews told them she was unconcious when he left for work in San Francisco Monday morning that he knew she had taken some pills and was aware of her past suicide attempts but did not think it necessary to summon aid. He said he believed she would vomit the pills later, according to police. She was dead in bed when he returned that evening, he told police.

Passenger In Crash Is Fair

Michael Lee, 19, of 26 Los Cerritos Drive, Greenbrae, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after the car in which he was riding collided with a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus.

According to Lee's sister, Susan 21, of the same address and driver of the auto, the accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. yesterday while she was driving through the Francisco — Divisadero Street intersection.

Lee suffered a cut forehead, broken ribs and internal injuries. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bump on the head.

militancy when they reach high school or college.

Hyman criticized the department for "shoving statemardated tests down our throats." The criticism raised the eyebrows of state Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, who moderated the program.

Capt. Odell Sylvester of the Oakland Police Department informed the 200 department employees attending the discussion that his city has begun a concerted effort to head off campus unrest by a coalition of state and local agencies working together.

Sylvester said secondary schools are "plagued" by unrest that he said is "rooted in the past." He said two of the problems are poverty and prejudice.

Assemblyman Victor Veysey, R-Brawley, Assembly Education Commitiee chairman, predicted the same type of unrest and militant violence on high school campuses this year that spread across major college campuses during 1968.

"I hope educators will be ready," said Veysey noting that the legislature passed two onmibus bills last year giving administrators tougher tools to quell unrest and prescribing stiffer penalties for violators.

He said both were meant "to bolster the will of the educators" to take action against violent demonstrators who disrupt campuses.

Dr. William Lacey, superintendent of the Monrovia School District, suggested that administrators act fast to understand what students are demanding.

"It's more than just listening to the students," Lacey said. "You have to understand what they're saying."

He also recommended that student demands for new courses they consider relevant to contemporary times be given top priority.

"This doesn't mean basket weaving," Lacey said. "It means things that'll fit."

The lease calls for an annual rent of $840 for five years with an option to renew for two more five-year periods at $1,090 for the second five years and $1,410 for the third five years.

Widow Sounds Threat In Green Beret Case

SAIGON (AP) — The weeping widow of a suspected Vietnamese double agent allegedly slain by American Green Berets demanded an explanation of her husband's death at the U.S. Embassy today and threatened to kill herself and her children "so the whole world will know about this matter."

"My husband came south looking for freedom and democracy and the help of the Americans," she cried to two American political officers in the embassy garden. "The Americans killed him and won't take the responsibility. They must either take the responsibility for his death or my death."

Earlier, Pham Kim Lien, 29, met with the two officers inside. She carried a 14-months-old baby in her arms.

She presented the officers with a petition written in Vietnamese and addressed to the U.S. ambassador. It said:

"Now that the incident has happened that way, I would like to ask you, Mr. Ambassador, as a representative of the American government in Vietnam, to answer to us exactly the circumstances surrounding my husband's death.

"Also I would like to request that you let us know how you will treat us because I think your silence has lasted a bit too long already."

Mrs. Lien said the slaying of her husband, Thai Khac Chuyen was "an inhuman act. They killed my husband as killing an animal."

Mrs. Lien added that if the U.S. and Vietnamese authorities do not intervene, she will take her case to the United Nations.

"I want freedom and justice. And if I will not have it, I will go back to the North (North Vietnam) and live there," she said.

"What I ask for is compensation . . . to support myself and my two children."

She said her husband, as an interpreter for the U.S. Special Forces at Nha Trang, was paid 18,900 piasters a month, about $160.

A U.S. military officer said a claim filed by the woman in August is now being considered by the Army office in Saigon. He added U.S. authorities did not act previously because the death of her husband was a vital element of the Green Beret case.

Unions Tell Warning By Nixon

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Labor sources said today President Richard M. Nixon told construction union leaders at the White House yesterday to restrain in wage increases or face the possibility of federal controls.

The account of Nixon's statement was reported to AFL-CIO leaders at a convention here after the President met with his newly created commission to study inflation in the construction industry.

Four AFL-CIO officials who are members of the White House commission flew from the convention to the Washington meeting.

A report to labor sources here said Nixon told the union leaders their most important job is to restrain wage hikes that have been running at an annual rate of more than 15 per cent in the construction industry this year.

If they fail to persuade their union members to hold down wage hikes, the only alternative is controls, Nixon was quoted as telling the union leaders.

The report said Nixon apparently was vague as to whether such controls would cover both wages and prices in the construction industry.

President George Meany of the 13.6-million member AFL-CIO, which opens its biennial convention tomorrow, has said organized labor would accept federal controls if Nixon declared a national emergency, and if such controls were applied to wages, prices, profits, interest rates, corporate salaries and all other forms of income.

Metal Fatigue Found In Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A helicopter crash which killed 21 persons in Compton last year has been attributed to metal fatigue which caused the blade of the Sikorsky aircraft to rip loose.

The National Transportation Safety Board said yesterday that two factors contributed to the Aug. 14, 1968, accident:

—The Sikorsky company to carry out a request by Los Angeles Airways to strengthen the defective part.

Frank Kelly Quits Grand Jury Panel

Former San Rafael Police Chief Frank J. Kelly has resigned from the Marin County Grand Jury because of ill health, County Clerk George H. Gnoss said yesterday.

His place was taken by Russell M. Oram of Novato, whose name was drawn from the list of persons originally proposed.

Chavez Backers Beg For Support

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI)—Backers of grape boycott leader Cesar Chavez were out hours before sunup today begging for support from truck drivers at a big warehouse complex that distributes most of the food for the Washington, D.C. area.

An estimated 300 demonstrators picketed the gates of the complex starting at 3:30 a.m. as the big trucks pulled out on their morning runs to supply chain stores and other distribution points.

The demonstrators were asking each driver to refuse to haul California table grapes. It was not known if any of the trucks passing out of the warehouse complex actually contained grapes.

Chavez was not present but planned to put in an appearance later.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon said it has sharply increased its shipments of grapes to Vietnam because troops like them and there are fewer available oranges.

The Pentagon replied to a charge by Chavez that the Defense Department had increased the shipments because of the grape boycott.

The Pentagon said shipments in 1967 were 368,000 pounds; 1968, 555,000 pounds; and 1969, 2,167,000 pounds, and total military purchase rose from 8.3 million pounds in 1967 to 10.4 million pounds in 1969. It said military purchases comprised less than 1 per cent of the U.S. production.

150 Acres Of Land Charred

More than 150 acres of grazing land were charred yesterday in a fire started by a machine spreadiing manure west of Fallon.

The fire, which started at 1:30 p.m. either by a spark from the spreader's muffler or friction from the vehicles tires, burned 20 acres on the S and T Ranch before spreading to a neighboring ranch owned by Henry Jensen where it burned 130 acres. One acre on the Bilovick ranch was also burned, Marin county firemen reported.

Over 20 firefighters using seven units and one bulldozer took over two hours to control the blaze near the Whitaker Bluff Road west of Shoreline Highway. Four airplanes sent by the state Division of Forestry made 10 drops of chemicals on the blaze. The forestry departments also sent two ground units to assist the Marin County firemen.

Dr. Miller Suspended; Wilson Action Asked

nal decision, giving the county staff 30 days to investigate the operation of both offices, with both directors suspended to clear the air.

Another was that the supervisors decided one or the other must go, and they are putting pressure on the hospital district to oust Wilson. A third was that the simultaneous suspensions were slaps on the wrist for both, and they could continue in their posts if they iron out their differences during the next 30 days.

Miller was called behind closed doors from 3:30 until 6:30 p.m., while a parade of witnesses was called in to testify in his defense. Administrator Alan Bruce and his assistant, Thomas F. Campanella, were with the supervisors throughout.

Among those who testified behind closed doors were Miller's administrative assistant Jay J. Shinohara, and various staff members of the mental health center. They included Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt, Dr. James Green, Dr. Robert Burke, and Dr. Arthur Reiss, all sympathetic to Miller.

Mrs. Daniel A. Collina, a member of the Mental Health Advisory Board, said she asked Shinohara for a chance to speak and was invited to testify before the supervisors.

From 6:30 on, only the supervisors, Bruce and his assistant Campanella remained behind closed doors.

Outside, Miller remained calm and cheerful throughout. "They're trying to decide whether they'll dismiss me," said Miller. He said he did not ask for an open hearing because he is satisfied the two and one-half hour morning session provided sufficient public hearing for both sides.

During the open morning session, a parade of about 30 speakers rose from the audience to speak for and against Miller. The majority were opposed, and several called for his resignation or dismissal.

The tone of speeches and letters ranger from charges against Miller of "inept" and "wasteful" administration to praise of him as a "man of vision, courage and intelligence."

Opponents declared Miller is an ineffective administrator, lacks the trust and confidence of various mental health organizations, and seeks personal control at the expense of services to the community.

The Rev. John J. O'Connor, director of Catholic Social Services, said he supported Miller in 1966 but is now convinced that the Miller should resign. "The problem is not one of philosophy or interpretation of policy," said O'Connor. "It is Dr. Miller's inability to communicate with the community."

Dr. William J. Dickerson, director of the Ross Psychiatric Clinic, criticized Miller's "preoccupation with control at the expense of services." Dickerson charged that Miller can never regain the confidence of various mental health contractors. "It is impossible for him to function effectively . . . He is not responsive to community needs."

Edward K. Allison, president of the board of trustees of the Marin Institute on alcoholism, added "my vote of no-confidence to Dr. Miller's Administration."

Florine Miller, speaking for the Marin Association for Mental Health, declared that an atmosphere of understanding and cooperation among the many organizations is not possible under Miller's administration.

Among supporters of Miller were Dr. Patricia Hallinan, assistant county health officer, who declared that mental hygiene in Marin would revert to the dark ages if Miller quit.

Others who backed Miller were Dr. Paul Kingsley, former member of the Mental Health Advisory Board; Sylvia Boorstein, psychiatric social workers; Dr. Leon Waterman, assistant director of the Community Mental Health Center; and Dr. James Green, consultant at the center.

Dr. Gerald Hill past chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, praised Miller as the one man responsible for the county's mental health program. "When the smoke has finally settled in 'mental health land'," said Hill, "let it not be forgotten that Dr. Clyde Miller made it a reality."

C. M. Pete Croughan, former chairman of the advisory board, described Miller as "a man of vision, courage, intelligence and ability." Said Croughan, "I didn't have any trouble understanding Dr. Miller."

Chairman McInnis declared the problem is more than one of personality but stems from long-standing bitterness among mental health organizations, each trying to expand its own activities.

McInnis scolded Wilson, director of the mental health center, for making a personal attack on Miller. "I'm disappointed when you sat there and tried to psychoanalyze Dr. Miller's reasons for taking a certain attitude," said McInnis.

Dr. John Guerrant, psychiatrist at the mental health center, had blamed Miller for not providing a maximum security room in the original plans of the center.

That criticism is aimed in the wrong direction, asserted McInnis. He said the previous board of supervisors had discussed the matter and decided against the maximum security room. "If you wish to criticize that area, you should bring the criticism to this board, not to Dr. Miller."

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. declared the decision must be made by the supervisors, while Supervisor Michael Wornum preferred that the matter be sent back to the mental health advisory board for a recommendation.

"It doesn't bother me to have to remove the director (Dr. Miller) or to ask the hospital board to dismiss Dr. Wilson," said Arrigoni. "But I don't see any solution in dismissing one or both."

Supervisors William A. Gnoss and Louis H. Baar said the supervisors should make the decision.

E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.; and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York.

In Washington, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said he is convinced President Richard M. Nixon personally gave the order to drop charges against six Green Berets.

"He ordered it. I know it," Young told a reporter, saying "Every knowledgeable senator knows the order came from the White House.

Young, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said that "Obviously, this was a Central Intelligence Agency operation."

But he said prosecution was complicated by the fact that the body of the victim was not recovered and by the fact that two enlisted men in the case, against whom chargs were dropped earlier, were apparently going to testify against the six Green Berets.

The White House acknowledged belatedly today that President Nixon was involved in events that prompted the dropping of the criminal charges.

But press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted that the Army acted on its own in deciding to drop the charges Monday.

By Ziegler's account Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency made a decision that, in the interests of national security, its employees would not be permitted to testify at the planned courtsmartial of the Army Special Forces men.

"The President approved the decision," said Ziegler.

The press secretary said the Army made its move after being informed of the Nixon-approved CIA decision.

The Army did not seek Nixon's okay for its action but did inform the White House that the charges would be dropped, Ziegler said.

Observation For Suspect In Burglary Case

A young man was committed to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital today by Marin County Sheriff's deputies after he was found inside a Tamalpais Valley grocery store reportedly in the middle of an LSD trip, sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said they will book Louis Kuntz age and address unknown, into Marin County Jail for investigation of attempted burglary, resisting arrest and assault, after he completes a 72-hour observation period at the center.

Deputies said they found Kuntz inside the 7-11 food store at 371 Shoreline Heghway at 4:20 a.m. when they responded to a silent burglar alarm.

It took several minutes, deputies said, to subdue Kuntz. They reported he was running around the store, yelling, throwing food and canned goods and drinking wine from a bottle. He later said that he was on an LSD trip, deputies said.

Army NCO Graft Case Led To Threats, Senators Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bribe offers and threats of death were received by Army personnel probing charges of rakeoffs and kickbacks in operation of servicemen's recreation clubs, an officer testified today.

Lt. Col. William L. George said he received many anonymous threatening phone calls during the three months between the arrest of one sergeant and his conviction for stealing slot machine proceeds.

"One in particular which I remember most vividly happened about 2:30 in the morning and the caller said: 'You're dead, you bastard you,' and hung up," George told the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee.

He said his family also was threatened, but added that neither he nor any member of the family was hurt.

The subcommittee, of which Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., is acting chairman, is investigating charges that some of the Army's top sergeants who managed clubs throughout the world had received hundreds of thousands of dollars in a wide spectrum of schemes.

One witness yesterday estimated the takeoff from slot machines alone at $350,000 a year. He also said a live lion and expensive items of furniture were given by favor-seekers.

Col. George said that on one occasion a sergeant he trusted was threatened, offered bribes, and followed by unknown persons when he was assigned to monitor slot machine money at one club in Munich.

The gross proceeds of the gambling machines had slipped from $20,000 to $4,000 a month, George said.

The sergeant collected $10,000 in 10 days, George said.

The arrest George referred to was that of S.Sgt. Edward Jones, who committee aides said was sentenced to one year of hard labor after admitting he had taken money from slot machines.

George described also what he said was a $700 night on the town sponsored in part by Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge, who later became the first sergeant major of the Army. Wooldridge has been named as one of the leaders in the conspiracy.

George said he believed the money for the entertainment came from the noncommissioned officers' club in Munich. He said Wooldridge refused to accept his offer to pay part of the bill.

Investigator Irvin E. Beard also accused the Army of hiding the facts to avoid embarassing Gen. Harold K. Johnson, who, as Army chief of staff, had named Wooldridge the Army's first sergeant major.

Yesterday's testimony brought a quick admission from Secretary of the Army, Stanley R. Resor that "a number of strategically placed enlisted men have apparently been able to abuse their positions in nonappropriated fund activities" to siphon the pay of their fellow soldiers into their own pockets. Resor said the Army is moving firmly to correct the situation.

tions they will move toward peace.

Tower was not at the White House meeting and said he had not discussed his proposal—a retort to demands for U.S. withdrawal — with the President.

"It becomes increasingly apparent that the intensification of military pressure on our enemies is the only thing that will bring them to terms," Tower told a news conference.

"The point is we are involved in a war," Tower said. "The question is are you going to fight it or not fight it. . ."

"I think the time is fast approaching when, in the light of North Vietnamese intransigence, we must consider the exercise of additional military options available to us such as the resumption of bombing in the North, interdiction of their lines of communication and supply on a saturation basis, and closing the port at Haiphong," Tower said.

"It is my belief we can achieve military victory with no more than our present available resources," Tower said. "The policy of restraint, though honestly motivated and worthy of trial, has to date been unsuccessful . . ."

Tower said that he had no criticism of Nixon's troop withdrawal orders because they involve the replacement of Americans with South Vietnamese. He said congressional proposals for a withdrawal deadline would "completely sabotage" negotiating efforts.

Juvenile Hall Escaper Sought

Authorities were searching today for Robert Maier, 17, of 8 Laurel Place, San Rafael, who escaped from Marin Juvenile Hall Monday.

The youth was throught to be attending school there when discovered to be missing about 2:50 p.m.

Novato Girls Tell Exposure Incident

Hub Council Sets Session On Protest

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro has called a special meeting of the San Anselmo City Council for 8 p.m. today at city hall to hear complaints of property owners and businessmen about street construction work along Greenfield Avenue.

Greenfield has been made one-way for part of its length and workmen are building a retaining wall as part of the city's remodeling of the complex Hub intersection.

Booking Made On Los Angeles Theft Warrant

A San Rafael man, who apparently was sharing both a home and an alias with a woman who died Monday, was booked into Marin County Jail today on a Los Angeles petty theft warrant.

Barbara Hyde Bastion, 41, who was using the name Barbara Hyde Dana, died in her home at 209 Marin Street Monday, apparently from an overdose of phenobarbitol pills, according to the coroner's office.

San Rafael police said Andrews told them she was unconcious when he left for work in San Francisco Monday morning that he knew she had taken some pills and was aware of her past suicide attempts but did not think it necessary to summon aid. He said he believed she would vomit the pills later, according to police. She was dead in bed when he returned that evening, he told police.

Passenger In Crash Is Fair

Michael Lee, 19, of 26 Los Cerritos Drive, Greenbrae, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after the car in which he was riding collided with a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus.

According to Lee's sister, Susan 21, of the same address and driver of the auto, the accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. yesterday while she was driving through the Francisco — Divisadero Street intersection.

Lee suffered a cut forehead, broken ribs and internal injuries. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bump on the head.

militancy when they reach high school or college.

Hyman criticized the department for "shoving state-mandated tests down our throats." The criticism raised the eyebrows of state Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, who moderated the program.

Capt. Odell Sylvester of the Oakland Police Department informed the 200 department employees attending the discussion that his city has begun a concerted effort to head off campus unrest by a coalition of state and local agencies working together.

Sylvester said secondary schools are "plagued" by unrest that he said is "rooted in the past." He said two of the problems are poverty and prejudice.

Assemblyman Victor Veysey, R-Brawley, Assembly Education Committee chairman, predicted the same type of unrest and militant violence on high school campuses this year that spread across major college campuses during 1968.

"I hope educators will be ready," said Veysey noting that the legislature passed two onmibus bills last year giving administrators tougher tools to quell unrest and prescribing stiffer penalties for violators.

He said both were meant "to bolster the will of the educators" to take action against violent demonstrators who disrupt campuses.

Dr. William Lacey, superintendent of the Monrovia School District, suggested that administrators act fast to understand what students are demanding.

"It's more than just listening to the students," Lacey said. "You have to understand what they're saying."

He also recommended that student demands for new courses they consider relevant to contemporary times be given top priority.

Water District Grants TV Tower

The North Marin County Water District board last night approved a lease for a 74-foot television antennae tower with G'Tec cable TV firm for the Lynwood tank site on South Novato Boulevard at Sunset Parkway, according to District Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill.

The vote was 4-0 with Commissioner Franklin Gustafson absent from the adjourned meeting.

The lease calls for an annual rent of $840 for five years with an option to renew for two more five-year periods at $1,090 for the second five years and $1,410 for the third five years.

Session Canceled

The meeting of the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission scheduled for tonight has been canceled for lack of business. A meeting may be scheduled later in the month, reported recreation director Richard W. Schollenberger.

BERETS RETURN—Col. Robert B. Rheault faces newsmen at Travis Air Force Base, discussing guardedly the notorious case in which he and Green Berets were involved in South Vietnam. The colonel was spokesman for seven of the spcial forcs men who returned to the U.S. last night. (See story on page 1.) (AP Wirephoto)

Widow Sounds Threat In Green Beret Case

SAIGON (AP) — The weeping widow of a suspected Vietnamese double agent allegedly slain by American Green Berets demanded an explanation of her husband's death at the U.S. Embassy today and threatened to kill herself and her children "so the whole world will know about this matter."

"My husband came south looking for freedom and democracy and the help of the Americans," she cried to two American political officers in the embassy garden. "The Americans killed him and won't take the responsibility. They must either take the responsibility for his death or my death."

Earlier, Pham Kim Lien, 29, met with the two officers inside. She carried a 14-months-old baby in her arms.

She presented the officers with a petition written in Vietnamese and addressed to the U.S. ambassador. It said:

"Now that the incident has happened that way, I would like to ask you, Mr. Ambassador, as a representative of the American government in Vietnam, to answer to us exactly the circumstances surrounding my husband's death.

"Also I would like to request that you let us know how you will treat us because I think your silence has lasted a bit too long already."

Mrs. Lien said the slaying of her husband, Thai Khac Chuyen was "an inhuman act. They killed my husband as killing an animal."

Mrs. Lien added that if the U.S. and Vietnamese authorities do not intervene, she will take her case to the United Nations.

"I want freedom and justice. And if I will not have it, I will go back to the North (North Vietnam) and live there," she said.

"What I ask for is compensation . . . to support myself and my two children."

She said her husband, as an interpreter for the U.S. Special Forces at Nha Trang, was paid 18,900 piasters a month, about $160.

A U.S. military officer said a claim filed by the woman in August is now being considered by the Army office in Saigon. He added U.S. authorities did not act previously because the death of her husband was a vital element of the Green Beret case.

Rear-End Collision Hurts Fairfax Woman

Nina E. Washburn, 64, of 27 Sequoia Road, Fairfax, was treated for multiple bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after a two-car collision on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo police reported.

Mrs. Washburn was injured, police said, when she stopped her car to make a left turn onto Suffield Avenue at 3:45 p.m. and it was hit from the rear by a car driven by Iris Nelson, 17, of 24 Tiburon Boulevard, Strawberry.

Unions Tell Warning By Nixon

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Labor sources said today President Richard M. Nixon told construction union leaders at the White House yesterday to restrain in wage increases or face the possibility of federal controls.

The account of Nixon's statement was reported to AFL-CIO leaders at a convention here after the President met with his newly created commission to study inflation in the construction industry.

Four AFL-CIO officials who are members of the White House commission flew from the convention to the Washington meeting.

A report to labor sources here said Nixon told the union leaders their most important job is to restrain wage hikes that have been running at an annual rate of more than 15 per cent in the construction industry this year.

If they fail to persuade their union members to hold down wage hikes, the only alternative is controls, Nixon was quoted as telling the union leaders.

The report said Nixon apparently was vague as to whether such controls would cover both wages and prices in the construction industry.

President George Meany of the 13.6-million member AFL-CIO, which opens its biennial convention tomorrow, has said organized labor would accept federal controls if Nixon declared a national emergency, and if such controls were applied to wages, prices, profits, interest rates, corporate salaries and all other forms of income.

Metal Fatigue Found In Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A helicopter crash which killed 21 persons in Compton last year has been attributed to metal fatigue which caused the blade of the Sikorsky aircraft to rip loose.

The National Transportation Safety Board said yesterday that two factors contributed to the Aug. 14, 1968, accident:

—The Sikorsky company to carry out a request by Los Angeles Airways to strengthen the defective part.

Chavez Backers Beg For Support

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI)—Backers of grape boycott leader Cesar Chavez were out hours before sunup today begging for support from truck drivers at a big warehouse complex that distributes most of the food for the Washington, D.C. area.

An estimated 300 demonstrators picketed the gates of the complex starting at 3:30 a.m. as the big trucks pulled out on their morning runs to supply chain stores and other distribution points.

The demonstrators were asking each driver to refuse to haul California table grapes. It was not known if any of the trucks passing out of the warehouse complex actually contained grapes.

Chavez was not present but planned to put in an appearance later.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon said it has sharply increased its shipments of grapes to Vietnam because troops like them and there are fewer available oranges.

The Pentagon replied to a charge by Chavez that the Defense Department had increased the shipments because of the grape boycott.

The Pentagon said shipments in 1967 were 368,000 pounds; 1968, 555,000 pounds; and 1969, 2,167,000 pounds, and total military purchase rose from 8.3 million pounds in 1967 to 10.4 million pounds in 1969. It said military purchases comprised less than 1 per cent of the U.S. production.

150 Acres Of Land Charred

More than 150 acres of grazing land were charred yesterday in a fire started by a machine spreadiing manure west of Fallon.

The fire, which started at 1:30 p.m. either by a spark from the spreader's muffler or friction from the vehicles tires, burned 20 acres on the S and T Ranch before spreading to a neighboring ranch owned by Henry Jensen where it burned 130 acres. One acre on the Bilovick ranch was also burned, Marin county firemen reported.

Over 20 firefighters using seven units and one bulldozer took over two hours to control the blaze near the Whitaker Bluff Road west of Shoreline Highway. Four airplanes sent by the state Division of Forestry made 10 drops of chemicals on the blaze. The forestry departments also sent two ground units to assist the Marin County firemen.

Ethnic Studies Complaints Hint New Strike At State

By ALAN KORNFELD
(Independent-Journal Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO — Rumors of a repeat strike at San Francisco State College began circulating on campus yesterday when Black Students Union leader Benny Stewart told a campus press conference that "the administration is moving to sabotage the black studies department."

He charged that the administration has supplied a newly formed School of Ethnic Studies with inadequate classroom facilities.

"It is becoming clearer and clearer that the administration is backing off on its commitments," he said. The BSU is currently undertaking a study of student sentiment, according to Stewart, in order to determine possible strike action.

The administration immediately afterward rejected the BSU's charges. Executive vice president Earl Jones attributed the classroom difficulty to normal scheduling conflicts.

Jones said there have been two room problems within the school but that both were resolved without difficulty.

Last Friday, about 60 Mexican-American students and one roomless class staged a quiet sit-in in the administration building until, after an hour, space was found for the class.

Urban Whitaker, acting dean of the school, also rejected Stewart's claims saying, "All legitimate classes have been housed."

Stewart, however, was dissatisfied with the space allotments, "They gave us rooms for 25 or 30 in a class when there were over 120 applicants trying to get in. The administration gauged the school for 500 applicants, but ethnic studies was so popular that there were between 1,500 and 2,000 students trying to get in," he said.

Should any confrontation develop during the year, Stewart predicted "the key issue will be self-determination," or independent control of the school.

Nathan Hare, whose appointment as black studies department chairman was one of the 15 strike demands last year, has meanwhile been conspicuously absent from campus affairs this fall, although according to BSU leader Leroy Goodwin "the department's faculty is working closely with Dr. Hare."

Hare is currently publishing a Sausalito-based journal, "Black Scholar." The first edition, which will come out in November, will include articles by Eldridge Cleaver, Stokley Carmichael and other black scholars.

The new School of Ethnic Studies, meanwhile, has been launched this semester with a completely minority staff except for one black studies instructor and Dean Whitaker. Fifty-six classes are offered in black studies, Asian-American studies, Mexican-American studies and native American studies. A bachelor of arts degree is offered in black studies but the other departments do not grant degrees.

Community advisory boards of between 12 and 21 community members, selected by the administration with students and faculty from each department, will also be provided for the school.

Students Vote Bufano Statue Place In Sun

The stone Louis Pasteur sculpted by Benny Bufano will be moved to a spot in front of San Rafael High School picked out by the sculptor, students decided yesterday overwhelmingly in a plebiscite election.

The students also said they would help pay the estimated $900 it will cost to move the 7.5-foot 2,000 pound statue and its large pedestal to a central grassy area from its present location near the science building.

The students voted 589 to 228 in favor of complying with Bufano's request, according to Principal Alan Ellsberg. The students voted against returning the statue to Bufano or leaving it where it is. A multitude of other suggestions were also written on the ballot, including selling the statue and purchasing textbooks with the money.

The move began today with digging a hole and pouring a cement foundation.

The district hopes to cover the expenses later through donations. Ellsberg said he felt placing the statue in its new position will make it more of a community piece and said he would be delighted if persons in the area donated money for the move.

The statue was abducted by Bufano and a crew two weeks ago but brought back under police guard the same day. Bufano claimed it was not being properly exhibited.

Bought by the school in 1940 as a WPA project for $300, including pedestal and some mosaics, the statue is now appraised $5,000 to $10,000, Ellsberg said.

Petaluma Motorist Suffers Broken Leg

A Petaluma man was injured yesterday at 8:30 a.m. when his car tumbled into a drainag ditch on Spring Hill Road, west of Petaluma.

The Anti-Establishment Trend Not Passing Thing

I-J Special Report

"Many of those revolutionaries will not return to the Establishment," said Dr. Roy Fairchild, professor of education and social psychology at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

"New ways of life are emerging, and they are here to stay," Fairchild contended.

"The Protestant work ethic, for example, is going down the drain. Among the young people today there is a concentration on inner subjective sensation and enlargement of feeling, rather than a materialistic approach," he maintained.

Another Marin clergyman told chaplains that the clergy should not be conformist.

"Don't stifle change," said Dr. James Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral care at Golden Gate baptist Theological Seminary, Strawberry.

"Encourage it and help changes to develop within the social structure," he urged.

The Marin theologians are among several speakers scheduled for the four-day training session and workshop designed to explain modern youth's psychological, moral, religious and sociological outlooks to the Army chaplins. The session ends tomorrow.

Cuban News Agency Faces Ban In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced today that it had asked the Treasury Department to revoke the license under which the Cuban news agency, Prensa Latina, operates in the United States "until such time as American wire services are permitted to restore their operations in Cuba"

The Cuban agency has four persons accredited as correspondents in its New York office, a State Department spokesman said. One is a U.S. citizen and three are Cubans and the spokesman said the Cubans "are not being requested to leave."

Pressmen Halt Capital Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three daily newspapers serving the nation's capital were shut down by a pressen's strike early today after union members rejected new contract offers.

First to be affected by the walkout of members of the International Web Pressmen's Union Local 6 was The Washington Post, a morning newspaper. The Post was 20 per cent through its press run when the contract expired.

Pickets also surrounded The Daily News and The Evening Star, both afternoon newspapers.

Woman Denies Guilt In Youngster's Death

Florence Constance Stoltman, 41, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday to a felony manslaughter charge in Marin Municipal Court. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 24.

Mrs. Stoltman was the driver of a car which collided in San Rafael Sept. 23 with a 6-year-old boy riding a bicycle, throwing the child from the bike and killing him.

Emergency Medical Aid Proposal To Board

Suggestions for emergency medical examinations and treatment — developed by county medical men and law enforcement officers — have been sent to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for approval, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales announced today.

A meeting of Bales and other officials to develop policies followed public outrage at the difficulties a Novato mother of three experienced after she had been raped. The woman was refused help at Novato General Hospital but eventually was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Bales asked the board to consider the suggestions as soon as possible.

He reported representatives of Marin General, Kaiser Foundation, Ross General and Novato General hospitals, the Marin Medical Society and Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county medical director, met with him Saturday and discussed several proposals.

None received unanimous agreement, Bales said. However, he said four tentative conclusions were reached for the interim period pending a policy decision by the board of supervisors.

"Emergency medical care and services will continue to be furnished to all victims of crime by each of the four medical hospitals.

"Police evidentiary emergencies, where no medical treatment is indicated, should be referred to the county medical department for examination and similar services(which) will be performed at Marin General Hospital only; and

"Evidentiary . . . services comboned with emergency medical care will be furnished by the victim's personal physician or by the emergency ward of any hospital to which the victim is taken."

Brown Paternity Suit Is Settled

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Soul singer James Brown has agreed to pay child support for a one-year-old boy he is accused of fathering, it was disclosed yesterday.

James Ford, an attorney for Mary Florence Brown, 20, who filed a paternity suit against the singer, said "the entire case has been resolved." Details of the settlement were not disclosed.

Ford said a "fair and equitable" settlement was reached after two days of negotiations with Georgia State Sen. Leroy Johnson, an attorney and longtime friend of Brown.

Ford indicated the settlement was much less than the $5,000 a month sought by Miss Brown, a former president of Brown's Sacramento fan club.

Poverty War Goals Sought

Directors of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council will try to establish goals of the organization at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the county courthouse in San Rafael.

The EOC has a new executive director, W. Robert Lomax Jr.

New bylaws and board makeup also will be discussed by directors.

New Book Takes A Look Into Farm Labor Force

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Assemblyman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, today reported the new state book, "The California Farm Labor Force: A Profile," is the state's first study in history providing reliable and detailed information on the state's farm labor force.

Ketchum, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Agriculture, said the comprehensive survey began in 1964, and is the first successful attempt to survey the farm labor force of any state "on a scientifically valid basis."

The report was derived from the random samplings of 3,488 workers who, during 1965, had farm earnings over $100, and based on field surveys of these workers and their employers performed during 1966 and 1967.

Detailed are the workers' patterns of employment and unemployment, type of work performed by crop, education, housing, family and personal characteristics.

The data forms the basis for a series of studies on the pattern of earnings of the farm labor force, the migrant labor force, the low-in-income farm worker, the Mexican-American farm worker, the role of students in the farm labor force, along with welfare, social insurance, and pension payments to farm workers.

The survey was financed by grants from the U.S. Department of Labor, in collaboration with the state Department of Employment and the Assembly.

Nine Seeking Four Jobs In College Voting

Nine candidates are running for four student body posts in the two-day College of Marin election that was to end this afternoon.

Being chosen are the four final members of the Associated Students executive council. Ten councilmen were elected last spring.

Non-Commuter Jet Fares Hiked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One-way air fare hikes for United Air Lines non-commuter flights in California have been approved by the state Public Utilities Commission.

The commission yesterday granted a $2 hike for coach and $3 for first-class on one-way fares. The airline estimated the increases will hike its 1969 revenue by $1.3 million.

Burglar Allowed College Chance

Raymond Bruce Edwards, 26, of Novato, has been ordered to spend the next year in Marin County Jail but Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court said Monday that he could be released to attend classes at College of Marin.

He was charged with burglarizing the home of David E. Stovel of San Rafael on Dec. 1, 1968.

Judge Wilson also placed Edwards on three years probation.

4,000 Seeking 970 Openings At Sonoma

First in line to submit his application today was James Cartwright of Kentfield. Cartwright arrived on campus at 2 p.m. yesterday and spent the night with dozens of other prospective students at the entrance of the new library building.

A former College of Marin student, Cartwright said he failed to gain admission last semester by being a few too many names down on the list and was determined it would not happen again.

Harold J. Soerters, dean of admissions, said he expected to receive more than 4,000 applications with only 970 openings. The college will accept 50 first time freshmen, 750 junior college transfers and 170 graduate students.

Soerters said that with the large number of persons on campus seeking admission and many others who mailed applications after midnight, that the quota would no doubt be filled today.

College president Ambrose R. Nichols Jr. said the quota for students is determined by the facilities — or lack of facilities.

He noted last week that if the college had enough classrooms and auxiliary facilities, the 3,200 enrollment would easily be doubled by accepting all qualified students who apply.

With the large budget slash proposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan for the state colleges, Dr. Nichols said he saw no relief in sight for the problem.

Sonoma State is required to serve a six-county area and can accept only 4 per cent of its students from outside Marin, Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Napa and Solano counties.

Hunt Proves Futile For Marinite

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Max Schmeling today offered a $1,250 reward for information leading to the discovery of Gene Tunney's missing daughter, Joan Tunney Wilkinson of Tiburon.

A Schmeling spokesman said the reward was offered because of the personal friendship between the two former champions.

Tunney held the heavyweight title from 1926 to 1928 and Schmeling from 1930 to 1932.

Hamburg police said they had no new information on the case.

They said the search for Mrs. Wilkinson, 30, was continued in West Germany.

An extensive search in Norway also has been fruitless.

Mrs. Wilkinson was reported missing in Bergen, Norway, Aug. 28 after a camping tour with her husband, Carter, and their two children, Alexandra, 5, and Erin, 3.

Gene Tunney Jr., of San Rafael, Mrs. Wilkinson's brother, came to Europe to help West German and Norwegian police in the search.

Guilty Plea In Bridge Collision

James Edward Gray Jr., 28, of Larkspur, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of misdemeanor drunken driving. He had originally faced a felony count stemming from a head-on collision on the Golden Gate Bridge July 15.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. set Oct. 24 for sentencing.

Gray was charged after an accident in which his car crossed the center line and hit a minibus. Gray and the occupants of the bus, Brian W. Beggs, 21, and Paul R. Healey, 18, both of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, were injured.

Flood Zone Set To Pass Gavel

The Santa Venetia Flood Control Advisory Board will meet Tuesday to elect a new chairman to succeed Ronald W. Shafer, who has served for the past five years.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the library at MacPhail School, Vendola Drive and Adrian Way.

"It dawned on me that quite possibly we should rotate the chairmanship and so 'I'm asking for an election," said Shafer. He said he will suggest a set term for the post.

Other items on the agenda include progress reports on the storm drain that is being installed along Meadow Way and on reconstruction of dikes along Gallinas Creek.

Exiled Queen Has Boy—Third Child

Culprit Pinpointed In Water Trouble

The culprit in Marin Municipal Water District's sometimes "dirty, earthy, musty" water is a miniplant called the actinomycete, district officials reported yesterday after a two-year study.

The tiny irritant, part of a group of branching unicellular micro-organisms believed to fall between fungi and bacteria, was thought to be at fault from the beginning.

Two years of scientific study substantiated the theory and also resulted in recommendation of techniques designed to prevent future problems in district lakes.

The report, by district employees, was outlined yesterday for the board by Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger, shortly after board members authorized purchase of an oxygen system for Bon Tempe Lake at a cost of $1,748 — a system expected to eliminate taste and odor problems there.

Bon Tempe and Kent lakes have been most seriously affected but more recently, Nicasio Lake has shown signs of actinomycete, Seeger reported. Alpine Lake also was tested, but not Lagunitas and Phoenix which are no longer used as water supplies.

Seeger said there are two basic ways to control taste and odor — treatment after it leaves the lake or at the lake. He indicated the latter would be more economical.

Actinomycete develop on fallen tree limbs and other old vegetation along lake banks and on algae. Taste and odor problems are attributed to the metabolic products of the organism and lack of oxygen in the affected lakes, Seeger said.

One way of treating the problem is the system authorized yesterday which will circulate water in Bon Tempe to keep the temperature lower than actinomycete can stand.

Other methods are applications of copper sulfate or carbon to the lakes.

Copper sulfate is preferred in water district lakes, Seeger indicated, and has been used to kill the organisms.

The report said copper had been effective within two weeks of treatment in district lakes. In apparent conflict, however, it noted that literature in the use of copper indicates actinomycete growth is accelerated in copper environments.

Seeger also reported that after it was established that the organism grows on old vegetation, crews cleaned up the lake banks.

Puppy Is Stolen

A German shepherd puppy valued by its owner at $150 was stolen either Friday or Saturday afternoon from the Washone Kennels, at 1754 Indian Valley Road, Novato, the owner reported to sheriff's officers.

Russian River Water May Cost Millions More Than Expected

By JOANNE GRANT

A study that could add millions of dollars in cost to the plan to bring Russian River water to Marin is currently underway by a top Bay Area geologist.

Marin Municipal Water District Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said yesterday tests are being made to see if the planned natural filtration system for Russian River water will work.

If the natural system, filtering water through river bed gravel, won't work, a treatment plant would have to be built, at considerable additional cost.

Seeger explained the natural system would draw water 80 to 90 feet through the river gravels. The study is being made to see if the gravel will handle the necessary water volume.

Currently, Russian River water used in Sonoma County is filtered through gravel. From the earliest studies of the Sonoma-Marin project, it was believed the natural system would be used.

Some time ago, Seeger reported to the board that he had doubts about the system for the quantity of water which will eventually be needed, noting that the gravel can clog up.

Space will be needed in the river for several filtration units and it's also necessary to determine whether land acquisition would cost more than a treatment plant.

Seeger said geologist Burton H. Marliave of Walnut Creek is working on the project, with the total estimated cost of the study not to exceed $8,000 of which Marin Municipal's share would be 40 per cent.

Seeger did not discuss costs of land acquisition nor treatment plants. The last water treatment plant built in Marin, the Bon Tempe in the San Geronimo Valley, cost $1.2 million 10 years ago. Its maximum capacity at that price was 20 million gallons a day, far less than expected eventually from the Russian River.

Questioned after the meeting about the effect of former gravel mining operations in the river bed, Seeger said it had not been mentioned in connection with the current study.

He reported to the board a meeting has been tentatively set for Oct. 28 at the district office with members of the North Marin County Water District and the Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, the other jurisdictions involved in the multi-million-dollar plans to import water.

EARNING POWER

Water District Money Is Put To Greater Interest

A rare question from a Marin Municipal Water District director on district operation has resulted in higher interest rates, the board learned yesterday.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said a study was made following a question several months ago from Jordan L. Martinelli on whether the district was making all it could on the money it has in banks.

It wasn't, a report by Peter J. Gilliam, controller, indicated.

The district has money scattered throughout the county, mostly in small amounts — $5,000 or so, the report indicated. These accounts are receiving 5 per cent interest.

However a large chunk — $345,352 — in the San Rafael branch of the Wells Fargo Bank was only earning 4.25 per cent interest. It's now earning 6.25 per cent, Gilliam's report said.

Other funds at that bank were increased from 4.25 per cent to 5 per cent, he reported.

He also reported interest on U.S. Treasury bills at the time of his report was 7.27 per cent. No investments can be made in these until current time deposits are up, said Seeger.

He also said the controller would explore consolidating some of the accounts in an effort to obtain better interest rates.

The Marin Water District Board Also:

SLIDE — Called for bids for repair of a slide at the Bon Tempe treatment plant for the Oct. 22 meeting. Estimated cost of the work is $17,100 and federal assistance totaling $33,000 has been requested.

LOG CABIN — Approved reroofing Phoenix log cabin for the first time in 50 years. The work, to be done by low bidder McLeran Roofing Co. will cost $1,500. The board also authorized removing some trees from near the cabin.

FIRELINE — Authorized a fireline extension along Scenic Road in Fairfax, with the city and district splitting the cost of $8,184.

HEIFETZ — Extended for another year a 1967 personal note of Harry Heifetz for $3,400 in connection with some work across from Terra Linda, provided he continues paying 6 per cent interest. Asked for clarification of the note and problem, Seeger told the board, "It's a very shady thing; it was hard to tie down." Director William A. Marcus commented, "I'm a great believer in a modest (interest) rate and getting it than a high rate and not."

PERSONNEL — Hired James W. Mistron and Edward J. Posusney as engineering aides at $602 a month each.

SEWER BOARD — Authorized Seeger to serve on a regional board studying Bay Area waste disposal problems.

POINT REYES — Decided to study taking a stand on Point Reyes National Seashore, as directors indicated they weren't enthusiastic about it since Point Reyes isn't even in the district's area.

MACHINE STUDY — Authorized a study to process accounts receivable by computer, a program to cost $13,900 and require a $7,000 envelope stuffing machine.

Board Revisions Taken To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Service Committee on Public Education asked superior court yesterday to prevent San Francisco's voters from deciding whether to elect board of education members.

Judge Edward F. O'Day ordered the board of supervisors to show cause tomorrow why he should not issue a temporary restraining order against the initiative proposed by the Concerned Parents Association.

SCOPE, which describes itself as a liberal organization, says it does not object to an elective board rather than an appointive one. It does object to an election from the districts proposed by the CPA.

Supervisors voted to put the election proposal on the November ballot after a recheck showed that the CPA had enough valid signatures for an initiative on the subject.

Commission Argument Due Airing On KTIM

County Administrator Alan Bruce's proposed dissolution of some conuty commissions will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board by a panel including Bruce, Ray W. Foreaker, vice chairman of the county aviation commission; Lothar Salin, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, and a representative of the juvenile delinquency commission.

Questions are invited for tomorrow's broadcast. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Stations Donate $1,736 For Kidney Machine

Fourteen independent Shell service station dealers in Marin and Southern Sonoma have raised $1,736 for the Kidney Foundation of Northern California.

The money will be used to buy artificial kidney machines for patients unable to afford them.

The funds were raised in a one-day drive on Sept. 20 in which the dealers donated five cents on each gallon of gas pumped to the foundation.

Among the contributing dealers whose names were omitted from a list published Sept. 16 were Ed Gilmore, whose station is at Third and Irwin streets, San Rafael; Lloyd Roberts, Petaluma Boulevard, Petaluma, and Jim Burkhead, Washington Boulevard, also Petaluma.

Installers Of Elevators Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike of elevator installers has brought halt-work orders on 58 major buildings in the city and continues to hamper building on Long Island and nearby New Jersey and northern suburbs of New York.

The full impact of the strike, now in its 14th week, began to be felt this week after Buildings Commissioner John T. O'Neill ordered work stopped at 58 building sites, 27 each in Manhattan and the Bronx and two each in Brooklyn and Queens.

The order was issued at the request of Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery to enforce a regulation that a manned personnel elevator must be available for fire emergency in construction projects rising more than 150 feet above the street.

Refunds Due PG&E Customers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Refunds totaling $25 million have been authorized for customers of Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

The California Public Utilities Commission approved the refunds yesterday, a result of favorable reductions in costs ordered by the Federal Power Commission for gas supplied by El Paso Natural Gas Co.

A PUC spokesman said the average household gas refund would be $3.25 and the average electrical customer's refund would be 90 cents.

Electrical rates are involved because gas was used to generate electricity.

Tomales High Students Pick Slates, Leave Issue Open

Class officers have been elected at Tomales High School but the constitutional question of whether or not the principal should continue to decide the qualification of who shall run for student body offices has not been settled, according to Vice Principal Neal Fenton.

During the last days of school in early June, Supt. Anthony Matulich disqualified Robert Borello for running for student body president which threw the election to Dennis Rodoni. And as a result a student commission was selected to propose amendments to the constitution for submission to the student body.

"The students are still working on the constitution and as yet no date has been set for any election on it," Fenton said.

New class officers elected are:

Juniors: Mike Deenihan, president; Ray Mazzuchi, vice president; Kathy McDonald, secretary-treasurer and Annette Bunce, student council representative.

Warrant Issued In Credit Card Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for Harry M. Cassidy, 26, of Kentfield, when he failed to appear in court.

Cassidy is accused of signing another person's name to a credit card slip. He was arrested Sept. 23 in Novato after San Rafael police alerted other officers to be on the lookout for him. Cassidy allegedly used a stolen credit card Sept. 21 in San Rafael.

Expansion Of Grand Canyon Being Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., called today for expansion of the Grand Canyon National Park to more than three times its present size.

Case introduced a bill to enlarge the park from its 673,575 acres to more than 2.1 million acres.

The Case bill, based on proposals of the Sierra Club of San Francisco, also would result in a park more than twice as large as called for in pending bills by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, jr-Ariz., and Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

Either proposal would bar construction of huge dams once proposed as part of the Central Arizona Project to carry Colorado River water through aquaducts to the Phoenix and Tucson areas.

Case said he was "glad to join the battle" against the proposed dams in the Grand Canyon. But he said further studies "indicated the desirability of protecting the important side canyons and plateau areas to make an intelligible whole of the canyon."

The proposed park, Case said, would require acquisition of about 40,000 acres of private land at a cost the Sierra Club estimated at less than $4 million. He said the bill would provide for acquisition of 50,000 acres of state land.

Gonorrhea Case Load Reaches 21

Twenty-one cases of gonorrhea were reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer has reported.

Also reported were 11 cases of streptococcus infection, three cases of infectious hepatitis and one case of tuberculosis.

Reagan Differs With Nixon On Direct Presidential Vote

COMBINED AP & UPI

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan, chief executive of the state with the most votes, doesn't like direct election of the president — the plan passed by the House of Representatives and supported by President Richard M. Nixon.

"To go to the direct presidential election would be the greatest blow to our sovereign states that has been made for a long time," said the Republican governor.

Reagan commented at his news conference yesterday a few hours after Nixon, also a Republican, endorsed the House-passed constitutional amendment abolishing the present electoral college and substituting direct balloting.

It would give the presidency to the candidate receiving the largest popular vote. If no candidate got 40 per cent of the vote, there would be a runoff.

On other topics, the governor:

Declined to say much about whether he will run for a second term, even though his friends and advisers have said he will enter the race. Asked if he had decided to run, Reagan said "I haven't and I'm not prepared to make any statement."

Promised again that California will not have another tax increase while he is governor. "I don't care what has to happen," he said. "We are not going to ask the people of this state for more money."

Said he doubted whether he would call a special legislative session to reconsider his defeated tax reform plan.

Expressed doubt about claims by Cesar Chavez, the farm labor leader, that there are dangerously high levels of pesticide residues on grapes harvested in California.

Said he "would hate" to see the California State Employees Association remove its no-strike pledge, as will be proposed at its meeting next month.

Reagan's opposition to the House-passed electoral reform constitutional amendment could spell trouble in California for the plan.

If it passes the Senate, it would go to the states for ratification by legislatures. Both houses of the California Legislature are controlled by the Republicans — and Reagan has been successful in opposing party discipline on the GOP on major issues.

Speaking of the grape strikers Reagan was critical of a Chavez statement that dangerous levels of a pesticide had been found in California grapes purchased in and eastern market.

There might have been "shenanigans" involved, he said. The laboratory that tested the grapes might have made a mistake, he said. "It was either that or someone putting something on the grapes."

Reagan also said Operation Intercept had his "full support," saying the inconvenience faced by irate motorists may be a good idea.

Alarmed by an "epidemic of narcotics addiction and drug abuse" in California, Reagan warned the only way to cure this "is to isolate the virus" and "Operation Intercept is trying to do just that."

It was the first time Reagan has spoken out strongly in favor of the Nixon administration's new get-tough policy of searching every vehicle leaving Mexico in an effort to cut off drug smuggling. The searches have resulted in frustrating traffic tie-ups.

"There is no question that this project has caused more inconvenience to tourists and workers who cross the border regularly," Reagan said. "Some are obviously experiencing a measure of economic hardship.

"But if this were an epidemic disease that crippled and took the lives of our youth, the economic hardships and the inconvenience to travelers would be considered inconsequential."

Reagan repeated his opposition to legalizing marijuana.

"I think that our young people are being deliberately indoctrinated by some who for whatever reason are continuing to tell them (marijuana) is like chewing gum," Reagan said.

Bolinas Pipeline Job May Interrupt Water

Installation of a new water pipeline on Brighton Avenue at Wharf Road in Bolinas may interrupt water service during the next six weeks, warned Jane Phillips, secretary of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

Mrs. Phillips said construction on the pipeline, which will provide domestic and fire-fighting water service, began yesterday.

BAY AREA housewife Mary S. Atwood was inspired by a visit to India to learn all she could about traditional Indian dishes. Her interest prompted several return visits to watch and assist Indian housewives with food preparation and the outcome is a cookbook, "A Taste of India," with recipes adapted to the American kitchen.

Try Traditional India Recipes

By BARBARA HOSMER

With Marinites' love of travel abroad, perhaps the trip around the world and ensuing inspiration to write a cookbook on Indian foods of Hillsborough resident Mary S. Atwood will give Marin travelers an idea of their own.

Mrs. Atwood and her husband John made a nine months' trip around the world in 1960 and she became fascinated with India and its cooking.

She returned to India on three more trips to spend time in Indian friends' homes and kitchens, dine at some of the country's "best tables" and discuss food preparation with many Indian homemakers.

"During these visits I . . . learned the techniques and recipes in Indian home kitchens by observation and participation in the cooking process," she says.

Mrs. Atwood began to compile some of the basic Indian recipes and then to work out the proportions and techniques so that an authentic Indian meal could be prepared in any American kitchen.

Her book, "A Taste of India," (Houghton Mifflin Co.) has a wide variety of traditional Indian dishes and sweets and Mrs. Atwood includes an introduction explaining origins of the dishes and ingredients and their use. In all there 275 recipes that the most inexperienced cook can follow easily.

Some of the recipes:

MILD LAMB CURRY

2 pounds lamb, cubed
6 cloves garlic, crushed
3 medium onions, thinly sliced
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoons ground coriander
1 teaspoon cumin
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon ginger, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
pinch of ground cardamon
1½ cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sugar
½ cup yogurt

Heat vegetable oil and fry onions until golden. Add coriander, cumin, paprika, ginger, cayenne pepper and ground cardamon. Fry for 2 minutes. Put in lamb and fry for 5 minutes. Add water and bring to a simmer. Add salt and sugar. Cover and simmer until meat is tender. Just before serving, stir in the yogurt.

A dessert to accompany this meal could be Banana Halva which contains the romantic ingredient of rose water, though vanilla can be substituted:

BANANA HALVA

4 or 5 firm, ripe bananas
3 tablespoons clarified butter
1¼ cups water
⅝ cup sugar
½ teaspoon rose water
½ teaspoon ground cardamon
2 tablespoons blanched sliced almonds

Peel and cut banana into 1-inch pieces. Heat butter in a heavy skillet. Add bananas and fry for about 5 minutes over moderate heat, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and thoroughly mash the bananas. Add ¼ cup water and return to heat. Simmer gently for 2 and 3 minutes, stirring constantly.

Combine sugar and remaining 1 cup of water. Add to bananas. Simmer gently for 15 to 20 minutes or until quite thick. Stir frequently and watch for sticking. Remove from heat and stir in rose water. If any excess butter is present, drain it off. Pour into serving dish. Garnish with ground cardamom and blanched almonds. Can be served either warm or slightly chilled.

Vanilla can be substituted for rose water.

Food Bacteria

Food safety tips from Purdue University nutritionists: Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. If food cannot be served when ready, either keep it hot on low heat, or cool and reheat before serving. Most bacteria do not multiply above 120 degrees but 140 degrees as a minimum provides a safety zone. And for storage of perishable cold foods, temperatures should be 42 or below.

Mexican-Inspired Tamale Pie

Give a "charro" a tempting hot tamale, and you're sure to bring a smile of pleasure to his face. Tamales, made of cornmeal dough, filled with tastily spiced ground beef and steamed in corn husks, are one of Mexico's famed foods. Even if you didn't get to Mexico this year to see these dashing horsemen perform at rodeos or fiestas, or to taste these exciting foods, you can still enjoy the cuisine of this colorful country.

TAMALE PIE

Cold water
1⅓ cups yellow cornmeal
2 teaspoons salt
1½ tablespoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 pound ground chuck
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
⅓ cup pitted ripe olives, drained

Measure 1 quart water into top of double boiler. Place over direct medium heat. Gradually stir in cornmeal. Add 1 teaspoon of the salt. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mush is thick and bubbling. Set it over boiling water; cover and cook 20 minutes. Heat oil in a large skillet. Add onion; cook over low heat until soft and yellow. Add chuck. Break it up with a fork and cook, stirring often, until browned. Stir in tomato sauce, ¼ cup water, pepper, chili powder, olives, half the Roquefort cheese, and the remaining salt. Line the bottom and sides of a 2-quart casserole with three-fourths of the mush. Pour in meat mixture. Spoon remaining mush over top. Dot with remaining Roquefort cheese. Bake, uncovered, at 350° 45 minutes or until bubbling hot and lightly browned on top. Makes 6 generous servings.

TAMALE PIE — Ground beef, ripe olives, onions, tomato sauce, Roquefort cheese in a cornmeal crust — dates back to early days in California when it was a province of Mexico. Easy to make, delicious to serve for buffet suppers with more of the piquant Roquefort and fruit for dessert.

Dinner Short-Cuts From Canned Meats

Canned meat can mean a shortcut to cooking and clean-up chores without short changing the family.

LUNCHEON MEAT ORIENTAL

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, cut into ½-inch cubes
1 can (16 ounces) bean sprouts
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
1 slice bread, cut into ¼-inch cubes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Drain bean sprouts thoroughly. Combine meat, bean sprouts, celery, onion, sugar, pepper and mushroom soup. Mix well. Place in a 1½-quart casserole. Combine bread cubes and melted butter or margarine and sprinkle on top of meat mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. 4 servings.

DESERT CHILI

3 cans (10½ ounces each) chili (without beans)
4 cups corn chips
1 cup onion, coarsely grated
2 cups Cheddar cheese, grated

Open and heat chili. Crush corn chips. Place a third of corn chips in bottom of a greased 8 x 12-inch baking dish. Arrange half the heated chili, half the onion and half the cheese over the bottom layer of corn chips. Cover with another third of crushed corn chips. Add remaining chili, onion and cheese. Top with remaining corn chips. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

CHEESE HASHBURGERS

1 can (15½ ounces) corned beef hash
⅓ cup catsup
2 tablespoons pickle relish
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 teaspoons mustard
4 hamburger buns
8 slices Cheddar cheese

Combine corned beef hash, catsup, pickle relish, oregano and mustard. Split buns in half and toast slightly. Spread hash mixture on buns evenly, covering toasted surface completely. Place on broiler pan. Place broiler pan and rack in oven so the meat is 3 to 5 inches from heat. Broil 6 to 8 minutes or until mixture is heated through. Place Cheddar cheese slice on top of meat mixture and broil 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese is melted. 8 servings.

Marin Native Aids Local Museum

SINCE OLD St. Hilary's was turned into a local history museum by the Landmarks Society of Belvedere-Tiburon 10 years ago, a number of items once used in the old church, as well as articles of general interest have been donated. Mrs. John Ericson, executive director of the society, displays a holy water font and a religious picture used in the former church. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

By BETTY FROST

"I retired and became a full fledged volunteer immediately," said Mrs. John Ericson of Belvedere.

"Retirement" was in 1947 from her work as a statistician with the public health department and was prior to the birth of her daughter, Robin, now 22.

For the past 11 years the community service of Carol Ericson has been concentrated on helping the Landmarks Society of Belvedere-Tiburon. Officially she is the executive director of the society. These duties she describes as "curator, janitor, painter. . . " They also involve lectures to visitors to the museum, including school children, Boy and Girl Scouts and others.

Mrs. George Elman gives talks on the wildflowers preserved in the surrounding acreage under the auspices of the Landmarks Society, and Carol talks about local history. Lately a number of college students interested in botany have been making field trips to the Tiburon landmark.

THE MUSEUM, open to the public free of charge from April until mid-October is coming to the conclusion of its official season. On Sunday John Thomas Howell, curator of botany at the California Academy of Sciences, will talk on "Fall Flora" at 3:30 p.m. at Old St. Hilary's. Dried flowers and seed pods to be arranged for the occasion by Mrs. Elman, will be on display until Oct. 15, when the final event of the official season will be a tea, and lecture by Mrs. Robert Tuckey of Kentfield on arrangements of dried flowers that are available locally.

This does not end Mrs. Ericson's responsibilities, however. The museum will still be open by appointment for individuals and groups, and in the winter months refurbishing of the building is undertaken and certain necessary bookkeeping responsibilities taken care of by the executive director.

Breaking up the ordinary routine of Sunday and Wednesday afternoon sessions when the museum is open have been some unusual events. Shortly after an article appeared in the New York Times about the unusual wild flowers preserved in the two acres below the museum, a woman flew out from New York especially to see the Black Jewel Flower in bloom.

Last Fourth of July a wedding was held at the Landmark, when Elaine Lyons of Ross chose it for her marriage to William K. Halnan of Oakland. The ceremony, performed by an Episcopal clergyman, was the first marriage service in the former Catholic church since 1954.

"IT WAS A charming wedding," Carol reminisced, "Simple field flowers were used to decorate the church, and it was just right for a small wedding. I wish we could have more weddings here."

The most unusual request for use of the museum came to the director by telephone. "What about a funeral at Old St. Hilary's?" a woman's voice demanded. Taken aback, Carole sputtered, "I don't see why not." "Good," said the anonymous caller, "I will put it in my will that I want my funeral held at Old St. Hilary's," and hung up.

Mrs. Ericson's interest in the area and in local history is authentic and springs from a life-long association with the area. A native of Marin County, she grew up in Tiburon. She attended the old Tiburon grammar school, noting that the present structure is the third Tiburon elementary school. She was graduated from Tamalpais High School and from the University of California with a B.S. in bacteriology. She has lived in Marin all of her life with the exception of four years when she was employed in Stockton as a statistician for the San Joaquin County Health Dept.

Her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Creighton came to Belvedere as bride and groom in 1905. Five years later they purchased property in Lyford's Cove in Tiburon and built a large house where Carol, her three brothers and two sisters spent their childhood. The home, still in the family, is now owned by Carol's brother, Allan Creighton of San Anselmo.

CAROL'S FATHER was a marine engineer on the bay ferry boats, serving as chief engineer of the Cazadero for many years and was chief engineer of the ferry, Eureka, until February 1941 when the boats were taken off the bay permanently.

After her marriage in 1940 to Jack Ericson, now in the insurance business in San Francisco, where he is employed with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., the couple lived in Sausalito for several years. In 1947 she began her "volunteer career."

For 17 years she was secretary for St. Hilary's Church, which she had attended all of her life. In the old structure is a window dedicated to Carol's mother, Loretta Ryder Creighton, noting that she had been a member of the church since 1905.

During the time immediately following World War II she started the Tiburon Well Baby Clinic which she operated for nine years, under the sponsorship of the Tiburon Mothers Club.

"WHEN THE Village Salvage Shop was started 17 years ago, who was into that up their neck? — Me!" Carol emphasized. She was chairman of the board of directors of the shop for four years, and continued to assist actively for several years. The shop was, from the beginning, an ecumenical endeavor, and today is operated by the women of St. Stephen's Guild, St. Hilary's Church, Westminster Presbyterian Church and the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club.

In 1958 when plans to build a new church for St. Hilary's Parish were in the works, the question of what would become of the little white church on the Tiburon hill, an outstanding example of Carpenter's Gothic architecture, concerned the whole Tiburon peninsula.

Carol worked with Mrs. Robert Bastian of Belvedere, former president of the Landmarks Society, to preserve the old church as a museum.

But the cheerful Carol's days aren't entirely devoted to good works, she protests. She has studied pottery making at the College of Marin, plays golf with the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club regularly and has lately taken up gourmet cooking.

"Me and Julia Child," she grins.

SEATED IN one of the two remaining original pews used in Old St. Hilary's when it was a Roman Catholic mission church, Mrs. John Ericson of Belvedere holds a coal oil lamp used in the structure at the turn of the century. The lamp had been preserved by the late Mrs. Agnus Kircher of Tiburon, who gave it to the museum.

Wedding Postponed

ESTCOURT, South Africa (AP) — Telephone operator Bennie Schutter, 19, talked himself out of a wedding when he put a long-distance call through to his out-of-town brother to relieve the boredom of office routine. He lost track of the time as he carried on the conversation in between connecting other telephone calls. At the end of the month, he discovered the one call cost him Rands 45 ($63). His next telephone call was to his fiancee to explain that he couldn't afford to get married that month. The wedding was postponed.

Wives Think Of Pie And Cake But Ice Cream Is Favorite

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most women think men's favorite desserts are pies and cakes. But the desserts wives serve most often are ice cream, gelatin or canned fruit.

The study that revealed these findings also quoted most wives as saying they choose desserts to please their husbands.

WHILE YOU ponder the logic of the foregoing, consider some other findings of the study made by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn.

Ice cream is the most frequently served dessert and the ranking favorite with children. Runners-up with small fry are puddings, flavored gelatins and cookies.

Childen, as you might expect, are the big dessert eaters. More than nine out of 10 women said their children ate dessert with one or more main meals during the week, and three out of four said their children ate dessert every weekend.

Women themselves said they preferred gelatin, cakes and pies, in that order. Yet 68 per cent of the 800 women questioned in the eight-city study said they serve ice cream one or more times a week. Sixty-seven per cent said they serve canned fruit as frequently.

STORAGE SPACE apparently has little influence on the choice of dessert. Only 60 per cent said they actually had ice cream on hand. But 84 per cent had canned fruit in the house, and 77 per cent had both flavored gelatin, which is relatively popular, and packaged pudding mixes, which the study showed well down in usage on a list of 12 types of desserts.

Other desserts considered were mix cakes, already prepared cakes, cakes made from scratch, pies made from scratch, bought pies and frozen baked goods.

Women ranked both ice cream and canned fruits high in nutrition, with the fruit taking a slight edge. But they look on canned fruit as a casual dessert —not fancy enough for a formal setting or a special occasion meal, such as entertaining close friends or the husband's boss.

They regard both canned fruit and flavored gelatins as versatile desserts and ingredients for desserts; also economical and appropriate for dieting.

THE WOMEN tended to categorize puddings as children's desserts; relatively few felt puddings should be served to adults.

Pies were envisioned as a man's dessert and, with cakes, those best designed to impress both families and guests. Women also called pies and cakes the tastiest and most popular desserts of the dozen they were asked to consider.

Pies and cakes' stepchild status in menu planning apparently stems from their oft-deserved image as fattening, rich and expensive.

The study showed women put frozen baked goods in the same class as cakes and pies — and for the same reasons. Yet 45 per cent of the women said they buy more frozen foods now than they did a year earlier.

DESPITE SUCH drawbacks, women look to desserts to add variety to meals. Four out of 10 felt a good dessert guaranteed success for a meal. More than eight out of 10 said they felt they could rely on a dessert to dress up a meal.

Many use desserts—especially cakes and pies—to round out a meal featuring a meatless casserole, or to brighten a meal in cold, dreary weather.

In our increasingly weight-conscious society, low calorie desserts appear to be making small headway — at least, among the families covered in this study. Women said they found it difficult to accept low calorie desserts. Forty per cent said that "low calorie desserts usually aren't very good."

Even though desserts can be expensive, three-fourths of the women said they wouldn't eliminate that course to save money. They indicated that they tend to reserve cakes and —to a lesser extent—pies for occasions when the upgrading of a meal outweighs the disadvantages of high cost and high calorie count.

HELEN HELP US!

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 28 and happily married, though my mother in her well-meaning way almost goofed it up. In fact, she did scare away several prospects.

Now she's doing the same thing with my younger sisters. She gets that marriage look every time they bring a fellow home, and the way she talks them up to eligible bachelors, well, it's like she was desperate. She praises their cooking, sewing, sweetness, the works, and even though my sisters are very marriageable, the guys get scared and run. Actually they aren't ready to settle down yet, but they'd like to keep male friendships. They can't always keep the men away from our matchmaking mother, so how can we get her to think before she speaks? She's really a dear and always so sorry afterwards, but she just can't help (as you once said) the ring in her voice. — MRS. J.P.

DEAR MRS. J. P.:

It's darn near impossible (as you discovered) to make a born matchmaker stop glowing with bride. She does it unconsciously, and don't blame her overmuch, as most mothers develop a ringing in their ears when their girls reach marriage age.

If your sisters can't kid Mama into line, then they might work out a system of stop signals when she gets that marriage look. Most fellows understand, especially if they're in on some of the friendly teasing. Didn't yours? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I notice you are sometimes reprimanded by adult readers who are furious because you stand up for young people. Too often they see only what they hope to see, not the real good in youth. It seems they actually enjoy believing kids are going to the dogs so they can pound their chests and show how righteous they are.

My eldest grandson has long sideburns and a longer hair style, wears bell-bottoms and fancy ties, but works in a research department of a chemical company. Yet he gets those looks from up-tighters who can't accept change. Often he spends his weekends taking youngsters on outings they would never get to enjoy otherwise.

We recently lost our 15-year old dog. The boy next door felt so sad for us that he offered us his much-loved dog as a replacement. When we explained how grateful we were but we couldn't accept, he said, "Any time you want to, come over and talk to my Lancer. We know how lonely you are."

Children of all ages are still the same. Socrates thought they were going to the devil and the world still does, but some of these so-called devils are now running our country, and some of the present crop will be doing a good job running it in the future. Our youth, for the most part, are holding up well in an insecure world shadowed by too many wars.

I'm glad you give them credit, Helen. — ME TOO!

DEAR ME TOO:

Thank you for an extra-fine letter. You know, the so-called generation gap isn't so much between the young and older, as it is between members of the same generation. You, and people like you relate beautifully to youth, but I doubt you have much time for the doom-cryers in your age group who see every long haired boy and miniskirted girl as a sex-crazed juvenile delinquent. — H.

Breathe In Birth Control

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — A University of New Hampshire botanist says all women could be sterilized by an airborne virus, and those who wanted to have children could receive an antidote.

Dr. Richard W. Schreiber said the virus and antidote could be developed in three years at a cost of about $5 million.

He said his system would require married couples to "make a human decision" to have a family, reversing the present approach that requires them to "work not to have children."

The antidote would be administered by injection and be good for six months or less, he said.

Schreiber said his system is justified by trends that show man is "fatally close to breeding himself out of existence."

Season Of The Shaped Shirt

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

It's shirt time again. Every so often the fashion world takes a look at the all-purpose, ubiquitous old shirt and decides it's time to do something with it again. And the time is now. Is there any other garment, I wonder, that has been such a long-player in the history of fashion?

The shirt of the season, for both men and women, is shaped. That's the message. Instead of bagging out over your skirt or your trousers, with the need for frequent tucking in, this season's shirt hugs you gently around the ribs, definitely marks your waistline - and the same goes for men and women. This is achieved of course by shaping of the side seams and by darts taken in both back and front. So if you've an old shirt you're fond of, and you can sew,there's nothing to stop you from up-dating it at once. Just put it on, pin in darts to make it fit snugly around you, and sew it up.

SHAPED SHIRTS for men are a relatively new idea, and many a middle-aged man, and quite a few younger ones too who have let themselves go around the middle will be surprised to find that the new shaplier version of drip-dries won't quite do up in the front.

Lace shirts and shirt dresses that the girls have been wearing for the past few months are giving way to designs in slippery satin or crushed velvet for autumn—while the men have picked up the lace-look idea for themselves.

The Indian look comes in, unexpectedly, in a range of super-shirts cut from very fine lightweight suede and trimmed with leather fringing on the breast pocket and the cuffs. These are strictly for girls who don't spill things over themselves and live a dainty life. The cleaning bills for suede could mount up astronomically over a period of months. There's a trend, too, towards the home-spun wood-choppers look again with shirts in woolly materials, checked or plaid designs and bright warm colors.

Swinging in completely the opposite direction, there are a whole host of shirts around now in floppy droopy fabrics which cling seductively to the body (his or hers) and go in perfectly with the rather more fluid look of fashion at the moment. Some of the best shirts are in printed jersey, cut rather meanly so that you look rather like an overgrown schoolchild in them, if you are skinny. If you're not the result is less than appetizing.

THE SHIRT that's the fashion favorite at the moment is the jockey shirt. It's cut from boldly striped cotton jersey, and it has no collar, simply a collar band which buttons in the center. It has short sleeves, which makes it look somehow younger and gayer and more feminine than the long-sleeved variety which can conjure up an office atmosphere. On the shoulders are little epaulettes.

The skirt that you wear with your shirt is important, because it's essential to retain something of that long-waisted look. In the conventional skirt this is done by having it snug and cut on the cross from the waist to the hipline, then flaring out in tiny pleats or panels cut on the cross. If you're wearing trousers then they must be flared or cut like bell-bottoms - anyone who is sticking to stretch ski-trousers for casual wear is missing out on a great new fashion look.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

(AP Newsfeature)

Men are accustomed to giving neck and sleeve sizes when buying shirts, but for those who want to keep up with style waist measurement also will count.

This is because of the new shaped shirt, which follows the contour of the body.

Typical of the trend is a torso shirt which has a bib-like front, reminiscent of the old-time tapered sides. A man wearing a 15½ neck and 34 sleeve would have to have a waist measurement of no more than 35 inches. Otherwise, it'd look like a stuffed sausage.

"One of the factors which makes the torso shirt a broad-appeal shirting item is that Americans are weight-conscious and have the trim to wear such a shirt," says Jay Raab, Philadelphia, a shirt firm executive.

There doesn't seem to be any concern that the ordinary guy will go for the shaped shirt. Last year's high collar, which seemed so noticeable, scarcely causes a ripple. Fashion designer John Weitz has come forth with an international line for fall which accents the collar further, adds detail to three-inch French cuffs, some of which have a curved instead of straight edge, and colors and patterns of vivid and vibrant hues.

"We feel the big colors will be chocolate brown, bronze, red and black," says Raab.

Hands Off Ties

Tip to the men: If you're a "tie soiler," could be you're a chronic tie adjuster. Don't keep adjusting the knot when it doesn't need it.

Save Stuffers

Scientist Ties Infants' Death Rate To Radiation

PITTSBURGH (WMNS) — Why did infant deaths, which had been dropping steadily for years, suddenly level off in the early 1950s?

A leading radiation expert blames fallout from atomic tests begun in 1945 and continued until 1963, according to the Women's Medical News Service.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, director of radiation physics at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, points to infant mortality rates in eight southern states as proof. In these states, all in the path of fallout from the New Mexico and Nevada testing sites, the rate of baby deaths stopped declining while infant mortality in neighboring states — out of the fallout path — remained normal.

Furthermore, says Dr. Sternglass, baby deaths in other states correlate directly with strontium-90 measurements in milk. Recent Swedish experiments, he says, reveal something unsuspected up to now — that radioactive strontium can damage reproductive cells. This genetic damage, he believes, has killed one baby out of every hundred born in the 1950s and up to the mid-sixties.

Wear The Right Shoes When Applying For Job

Clothing specialists in the Extension Service of the University of Vermont say that potential employers can tell a lot about a prospective employee by the cut of his or her shoes.

The specialists offer these tips to job hunters:

Women should wear simple, low or mid-heeled pumps, ties or slingbacks.

Sneakers are two-prong sore spots—they're definitely "out" for interviews and can hurt feet on the job because they normally lack proper support.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Major interest at the San Francisco Opera House last night centered on the opera debut of the renowned young Welsh soprano Gwyneth Jones in the title role of Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio."

She more than fulfilled expectations with a powerful voice of rich quality produced with splendid control. This permitted great emotional intensity in the demanding role of Leonore, disguised as a prison guard in order to find her husband imprisoned by a tyrant.

The role was a fortunate one for her debut in that she had as her husband, Florestan, the excellent young tenor James King, heard in his first major San Francisco Opera role after starting his career with spring opera here in 1961. The results of their previous singing of these roles together was evident.

In another way, however, it was a hazardous debut vehicle, for any woman singing an entire performance dressed as a man is at a disadvantage.

Miss Jones was electrifying in her great aria, "Abscheulicher! Wo Eilst Du Hin!" ("O! Thou Monstrous Diend!") on learning of tyrant Pizarro's plan to murder her husband, and the full beauty of King's voice was revealed when he sang the moving aria, "In Des Lebens Fruhlingstagen" ("In the Springtime Days of Life"). Their voices were evenly matched in duet and ensembles.

Franz Mazura, heard last year in the far different role of John the Baptist in "Salome" had the perfect black iron voice, appearance and dramatic force to convey the savage cruelty of Pizarro, and Peter Lagger of Switzerland, making his San Francisco Opera debut as Rocco, the chief jailer, was a strong bass with much emotional warmth.

A sparkling Marzelline, the jailer's daughter, was sung by soprano Sheila Marks, recently heard in the Marin Music Chest-sponsored performance of "Cosi Fan Tutte," with her usual clear, resonant lyricism.

Young tenor Evan Thomas made his major operatic debut successfully as Jaquino, who loves Marzelline. Bass Ara Berberian, a regular member of the opera staff sang the Prime Minister role of Don Fernando well, but has been heard to better advantage in other roles.

Swedish conductor Sixten Ehrling in his San Francisco Opera debut, for the most part made the orchestra serve the purposes of the singers and the drama, but conducted a full concert caliber "Leonore" Overture No. 3 between Scenes 1 and 2 of Act 2. I am inclined with critics who feel that this unnecessarily anticipates the musical and dramatic effects of the following scene. It belongs in the concert hall.

The huge diagonally placed wall of grillwork of designers Skalicki and Colangelo was ingeniously used to suggest the prison environs of the entire Paul Hager production. I have seen more impressive staging, however.

Though the chorus of prisoners and townspeople helped to provide a brilliant finale, the only notable choral number, the prisoners' chorus in Act 1, I found rather disappointing.

SLITHERY TOURIST IS JUST A MARIN STRAY

A San Rafael man and a local snake are both a little bit wiser today. The man has been given a brush-up course in herpetology and the snake has learned to watch where he crawls.

It all began yesterday morning when a man called the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum and excitedly told museum officials he had captured a deadly poisonous South Pacific reptile. The snake had apparently immigrated to this country in a shipment of Japanese flowers, the man said.

Museum officials waited eagerly to assess the rare find, but were disappointed when the deadly reptile turned out to be a garden variety California King snake.

Bar Owners Plead Guilty In Pot Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sausalito bar owners Stanley Mulligan, 36, and Charles P. Barrett, 46, pleaded guilty yesterday in U.S. District Court to conspiracy to import marijuana and buy and sell it without paying taxes.

Sentencing was set for Dec. 1 by Judge George B. Harris.

The charge the pair pleaded to allows the judge to grant probation. A similar charge, which would not allow probation was dropped by the prosecution.

The two men were captured by U.S. Customs agents last October in Texas with 258 pounds of marijuana. They were allowed to deliver it and brought it to entertainment promoter Frank Werber's Richardson Bay home.

Arrested and charged with conspiracy to smuggle the weed, Werber was acquitted by a federal court July 3 in San Francisco but still faces trial in Marin on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

Murphy Retracts On Table Grape Pesticide Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., yesterday retracted charges that a California union had falsified a sample of table grapes to show a dangerous level of pesticide residues.

"Let's say that I was mistaken," he said during a Senate hearing called at his request to consider conflicting laboratory reports on pesticide residues in California table grapes.

Murphy's retraction and near apology came during an exchange with Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chairman of the Senate Migratory Labor Subcommittee.

Murphy denied he had accused the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (UFWOC) of misleading the committee with "a vicious type of deceit" in its efforts to organize California grape workers.

Mondale said he did not believe UFWOC had doctored a sample of grapes purchased from a Washington area store and found by an independent laboratory to contain a dangerous level of the pesticide aldrin.

"I think it is abundantly clear the union took an honest sample, took it to an honest laboratory, and came up with an honest report," Mondale said.

As a result, Mondale said, he felt the committee was "kicking a dead horse."

The chairman's comment resulted in prompt disagreement by Murphy, who said the committee should seek to determine the facts about a report that had done "a great deal of harm" to the California table grape industry. He said he wanted to know how the pesticide got into the sample in light of testimony that aldrin was not used on California grapes.

"This is not just an accusation," he said.

Mondale said Murphy's comments suggested "the nature of this hearing has changed," but went on a few minutes later to cite Murphy's charges of "a vicious type of deceit" by UFWOC.

"I did not understand that my statement was on trial here, and I resent the implication," Murphy said. "I have made no charges against anyone."

Mondale then read another of Murphy's statements suggesting UFWOC's charges grapes had dangerous amounts of pesticide were "part of an attempt to mislead the subcommittee by presenting false testimony."

When Murphy asked where Mondale was reading from, the chairman said it was from the Californian's letter requesting the hearing.

"This is a personal letter from me to the chairman, isn't it?" Murphy said.

"It was released to the press," Mondale noted, adding it made a "serious charge."

"Let's say that I was mistaken," Murphy said. "I intended no accusation. I'm not in the habit of accusing without facts and knowledge. Let's get on with the hearing. If the chairman has any complaints about me, I think we should take them up at a different time."

"Yes, I'm very fond of Senator Murphy," Mondale said. "I have no complaints."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., sat silently throughout the exchange.

Expert testimony presented to the committee did little to solve the mystery of how the aldrin got into samples which both UFWOC and Safeway Stores had tested by independent laboratories. Tests by the Food and Drug Administration, on the other hand, showed only traces of aldrin.

Monterey Nabs Check Suspect Duo

A man and woman forgery team wanted in three Marin cities for passing stolen checks has been arrested in Monterey.

Jerry Eugene Sharpnack, 26, of Hermosa Beach and Patricia B. Whitaker, 20, of Palm Harbor, Fla., who are being held in Monterey County Jail on charges of forgery and possession of a stolen vehicle, are wanted by San Rafael, Fairfax and Mill Valley police for passing stolen, forged checks here during the last two months.

They were arrested by Monterey police Sept. 5 while riding a stolen motorcycle, local police departments reported yesterday.

On Aug. 15 the pair passed a $20 forged check, stolen from Stephanie G. Johnson of Hermosa Beach, at the Gamas Service Station, 107 Bolinas Avenue, Fairfax Patrolman Mel Dollahite reported. Miss Whitaker allegedly forged the check and Sharpnack signed his own name as payee, he added.

Three days later the pair cashed a $122.50 check at the Western Sport Shop, 902 Third Avenue, San Rafael police reported. Sharpnack again endorsed the check, stolen from a Manhattan Beach cleaning firm, with his own name.

The duo began their alleged spree in Southern California where Sharpnack, working as a painter, gained access to homes where the checks were allegedly stolen, reported Patrolman Dollahite.

He was ordered to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Perdue was arrested by police answering a burglar alarm at the store. They said they found him in the attic.

Criss, 51, of 60 Magnolia Avenue, San Anselmo, as patrons of the Escrow bar where she was taken for first aid continues their drinking, juke box listening and dice games undisturbed. Mrs. Criss was treated later at Marin General Hospital for the severe head cut and bruises of the knees suffered at 7:40 p.m. yesterday when her car rammed into a nearby pet shop. Gerald Sutcliff (right), proprietor of the Casa del Perro, examines from the inside the hole knocked in the wall by Mrs. Criss's car. THREE-CITY CHASE

Burglary Suspect In Head-On Crash

A fleeing burglary suspect and a Tiburon woman were injured yesterday in a head-on crash that ended a high-speed chase through three cities, Larkspur police reported.

The suspect, Kenneth Ray White, 17, and two men who reportedly bailed out of his car at the start of the chase were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary. The other two were caught as they fled on foot in Larkspur.

The chase started at 12:25 p.m. after a neighbor telephoned Larkspur police to report a burglary in progress at the David L. Going residence on 93 Wilson Way in Madrone Canyon.

As Sgt. John Cottle started up the canyon, he was passed by the suspects in their car coming down. As he turned and gave chase, Cottle reported, two men leaped from the car near Larkspur-Corte Madera School and the third sped on along Magnolia Avenue.

The fleeing car reportedly hit 80 miles an hour as it went through Corte Madera and started up the Corte Madera Grade. Cottle radioed ahead to Mill Valley police, who took up the chase as White came down the grade. He reportedly sped through the East Blithedale Avenue-Camino Alto intersection at 45 to 50 miles an hour and smashed head-on into an oncoming car driven by Carolyn A. Fifield, 55, of 7 Mercury Drive, Tiburon.

Meantime, Larkspur Police Capt. Charles Mattos went after the other two suspects, aided by telephone reports from residents who saw them fleeing on foot. On Edison Avenue he arrested Donald Ray Turner, 20, of 623 Drake Avenue, and Morlin Smith, 22, of 307 Drake Avenue, both of Marin City.

White, 11 days short of his 18th birthday, reportedly has been sought since April when he escaped from Synanon House in Oakland, where he had been sent by Marin juvenile authorities.

Formerly of Marin City, White has been in hiding since then.

White was treated at Marin General Hospital for a back sprain, then taken to jail.

Mrs. Fifield was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for cuts and bruises.

All three men were in jail today in lieu of $2,500 bail. Smith and Turner were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

White is being held at jail rather than Marin County Juvenile Hall because of the risk of his escaping, said. Lt. Harvey Teague, head of the juvenile department of the sheriff's office.

Questioning Into Death Continues

Sheriff's inspectors today continued to question the husband and children of a Sleepy Hollow mother of seven while a coroner's investigartor sought the cause of death yesterday.

Joan Conine, 38, died in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital of a brain hemorrhage. Tests were being made today to ascertain whether the hemorrhage was due to natural causes or an injury.

Lt. Guido Battaglia of the sheriff's department said that officers were interviewing her husband, Thomas S. Conine, 43, a former jazz tap dancer, who was reported by a daughter to have beaten his wife Sunday night.

Residents Of Marin City To Direct Future Planning

Marin City Council last night approved formation of a nonprofit corporation, owned and controlled by Marin City residents, to undertake development in Marin City.

"It's a big step," said Ulysses J. Montgomery, San Francisco urban consultant, who has proposed a $13 million, three-year development program for Marin City.

The council's action, an endorsement of Montgomery's proposal for development of Marin City by a locally controlled association, will expedite the program, he said.

The corporation will be named the Marin City Development Association.

Montgomery said it could function as the Fillmore Community Development Association did in sponsoring the Martin Luther King Square housing development in San Francisco.

Among the purposes of the corporation are to provide moderate and low income housing and to plan and execute a development program.

It also is designed to give Marin City residents full involvement in all phases of development and a hand in decision making.

The council appointed seven persons to be incorporators of the new association and act as directors until an election is held.

Named directors were Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., Frank Phillips, C. J. Williams and Terrie Harris, all council members, and Otis Gaines, Thelma McKinney and Hazel Curry.

Banks pointed out that people in Marin City didn't have the money to get started on a development program. But Montgomery said the new corporation would qualify for federal funds and private grants for preliminary planning and federal funds for mortgage financing.

Montgomery has proposed a program of housing construction, a neighborhood shopping center and development of a science and industrial park over a three-year period.

He said the articles of incorporation will be filed in Sacramento "as quickly as possible."

The proposed program would provide 123 multifamily housing units, 40 single family units and a neighborhood shopping center in the first phase.

Phase two would include 123 multi-family units and 39 single family units.

The final phase would be construction of a science industrial park on flatland area, once designated for a high school site.

Banks reported that six persons have filed for five council seats open in next Tuesday's election at the Economic Opportunity Council office at the Manzanita Center, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Candidates are Ronald Foster, seeking reelection, Harris, Mrs. Ruth Hodges, Williams and Peggy Ann Bullock, who recently were appointed to the council, and the lone challenger, Royce McLemore.

Remaining members on the nine-member council, whose terms are not expiring, are Banks, Mrs. Collie Gaines, Phillips and Joseph Knighten.

Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Gaines, Foster and Knighten were absent last night.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1969 23

Logging Case To Be Tried In Oakland

A suit filed by Marin County asking a halt in timber cutting on the Ethel Righetti Ranch on Bolinas Ridge will be tried in Alameda County, it was decided yesterday by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

After an all-day hearing in San Rafael City Hall, the judge granted the request of the logging firm and Dr. Righetti to move the case to her home county.

Attorneys for the lumber firm of Matthews, Humbert and Walker of North Bend, Ore., and for the ranch owner had asked for a change of venue on two grounds.

The judge refused the request on the grounds that the case should be heard in a "neutral" county, but granted it on the grounds that Dr. Righetti was entitled to be sued in her home county. (None of the defendants lives in Marin.

Judge Keating also denied the county's request for a temporary restraining order which would halt timber cutting immediately, saying that the matter should be decided in Alameda County courts in Oakland.

The county's suit for an injunction alleges that logging operations will damage Bolinas Lagoon and Tomales Bay through erosion and siltation and that debris left from the logging constitutes a serious fire hazard.

The loggers have responded with a $5 million claim against the county, charging that officials have no right to halt the logging.

Creek Trespass Case Awaits Judge's Ruling

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court yesterday said that he will announce his decision next Wednesday as to whether a participant in last April's Tamalpais Creek demonstration is guilty of two misdemeanors.

He took the case of Mary Kent Schardt of Kentfield, who is acting as a test case for all 38 defendants in the spring flood control protest, under submission after hearing about two hours testimony.

It appeared after yesterday's trial that Mrs. Schardt and the other defendants may have been charged under the wrong section of the California Penal Code.

They are charged with trespassing under a section which requires that unfenced lands be posted with at least three "no trespassing signs per mile.

Yesterday Judge Smith asked Deputy Atty. J. Michael Anthony why he had not charged the defendant under another section, which makes it misdemeanor to trespass with the inten of obstructing a lawful business operation.

Anthony said that he thought the signs had been posted.

Anthony also argued against dismissal of the case saying that the code section referred more to large farms and that the posting of the signs was meaningless on such a small piece of property.

Mrs. Schardt and the other defendants are also accused of failure to disperse when ordered to by officials.

Attorneys yesterday also argued that the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control District had not legally obtained a right-of-way for Tamalpais Creek.

Two Puppies Stolen

Officials at Guide Dogs for the Blind in Los Ranchitos reported yesterday that someone had crawled over a fence in the kennels and taken two puppies valued at $300 each, sheriff's deputies said.

Guilty Plea In Marijuana Case

Michael Garrett Gray, 20, of Santa Venetia, admitted yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that he possessed marijuana at his home May 22. A second charge of growing the weed was dismissed.

Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered the youth to appear in superior court Oct. 13 for setting of a sentencing date.

Gray was arrested by drug agents who said that he had about 15 plants in his backyard.

Emergency Care Panelist Quits With Parting Shot At Bruce

A second member of the Marin County Emergency Medical Care Committee has resigned with a blast at County Administrator Alan Bruce — and a suggestion that the office of county administrator be abolished.

Thomas H. Larke Jr. of Fairfax, committee chairman and retired insurance broker, submitted his letter of resignation yesterday, too late for the weekly meeting of the county board of supervisors.

The resignation itself was included almost as an afterthought in a letter from Larke to the board praising the committee work of Dr. Elmer A. Weden of Sleepy Hollow, who resigned last week with a call fore replacement of the county administrator.

Dr. Weden had suggested that, to prevent the administrator's becoming too powerful, a new man should be put in office at least every six years. He advocated Bruce's removal now.

"From my own observations at your meetings," wrote Larkep "I would have a somewhat different idea. I would add to the staff of the county clerk, and upgrade communications between the heads of the county departments and your board, by abolishing the office of county administrator.

"To paraphrase his own words about the county commissions and committees, I consider the office of the county administrator to be a duplication of functions already performed by others, an impediment to good government and a waste of the taxpayers' money. It also assumes an erroneous conclusion, that the incumbent of that office knows everything about everything."

Larke wrote that he will "continue to do volunteer work for organizations where I feel that I am accomplishing something, and my efforts are appreciated, at the Red Cross, at Marin General Hospital, the City of Fairfax, for the California Legislature, which thinks enough of my efforts to pay me a consultant's fee for planning emergency medical services, and for the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, where I serve on the faculty of its course on initial emergency care of the sick and injured.

"Of course, I too am hereby resigning from the committee, as of now."

Bruce recommended to the supervisors on Sept. 16 that the emergency medical care committee be reconstituted or merged with the Marin County Comprehensive Health Facilities Committee. "To date the committee appears to have been dominated by two members, and has tended to be vehicle for pursuit of their personal interests," he wrote.

Hub Woman Is Attacked By Two Men

A 20-year-old San Anselmo woman who accepted a ride from two strangers last night told police she was raped by both of them and robbed on a lonely fire trail outside Fairfax.

The woman told Fairfax police she was about two blocks from home on her way from work after 5 p.m. when two men offered her a ride. She first refused, she said, but yielded as they argued.

She told officers they drove by her house without stopping and then one forced her to the back seat and onto the floor police said. One had an iron pipe, she reported.

After a short ride, the two took her to a fire trail off Olema Road, Fairfax, and forced her down the trail where both raped her, she told police. After that they searched her purse and took her single dollar bill.

She told officers the two men offered to take her home then but she refused and as soon as they left she ran to a nearby apartment house to notify police.

She was later examined at Marin General Hospital, hospital officials reported.

Police said the girl described both men as white and about 25. One had dark hair, was about five feet, 10 inches tall and weighed about 155. The other had light hair, blue eyes, was about 5 feet, nine inches and weighed about 170 pounds.

Youth Center Sought For Gallinas Area

By ROD BREWSTER

A youth center where Las Gallinas Valley teen-agers can paint, sculpt and play music and talk over coffee is being planned by a group of local church members and school art teachers.

The group recently incorporated the Revelation of Las Gallinas Valley, a non-profit organization that will allow the group to solicit tax deductible funds and acquire a building lease for the youths.

Werner Von Gundell of 2208 Juniperberry Drive, San Rafael, one of the Revelation directors and a county planning assistant, said the purpose of the center is "to fill a need of young adults away from home." It is a common complaint of the day that youngsters are left out in planning the daily life of an area, Gundell said yesterday.

For this reason the company is quite confident it can raise the $12,000 to $13,000 budget it has set for this year, by soliciting funds from churches and businesses in the Las Gallinas area, he said. It has collected $1,500 so far and plans to begin its major push for contributions soon.

The group presently has a lease option on a large room in an industrial area at the rear of 4180 Redwood Road, Terra Linda in which partitions could be moved to fit changing space needs.

Von Gundell says the company hopes to interest art and music teachers in donating time to teach youngsters who would come into the center after school. A small annual fee would be charged for artistic supplies but general use of the center would be free.

Part of the room would be used as a gallery where the artistic results would be shown. Another section would have tables and chairs for a coffee house.

The company plans to hire a full-time director, who will manage the center and act as an informal counselor to the youths.

The group also hopes to add five more directors to its board. Present directors are Von Gundell, attorney T. Neal McNamara of 240 Mount Shasta Drive, Marinwood; Rev. Clyde R. Vaughn of Aldersgate Methodist Church, Terra Linda, and Mrs. Granville Coggs of 847 Pine Lane, Terra Linda.

Red Cross Sets Officer Election

The Marin County Chapter of the American National Red Cross will elect officers and honor volunteers at its 57th annual meeting at noon Oct. 14 at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Mrs. Douglas M. Christensen, volunteer chairman, will present awards to adult volunteers.

A fee for luncheon will be charged. Reservations may be made through the Red Cross office at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Nevada's Gov. Laxalt To Quit Political Life

CARSON CITY (UPI) — Gov. Paul Laxalt ended months of speculation about his political plans yesterday, announcing he will retire from public life at the end of his term next year. Laxalt, 47, had been encourged by Republican party leaders, including President Richard M. Nixon, to run for the U.S. Senate or seek another term as governor.

The governor told a packed State Senate chamber he had never promised to stay in office beyond his present four-year term and now wants to spend his time in Nevada with his friends and family. He was elected governor in 1966.

Laxalt said he had written to Nixon declining his request to run for the Senate. He also said his decision not to seek re-election as governor was "firm and irrevocable."

"Regretfully, after an intense consideration of all factors, I must advise you I have decided to retire from public life," Laxalt said in his letter to Nixon. The governor said his decision was based largely on his belief he had accomplished many of his goals and aims during his administration.

Marijuana Case To Youth Court

The case of Valient Gale Nims III, 18, of Novato, has been accepted by Marin Juvenile Court, it was reported yesterday in municipal court.

The youth is accused of possessing marijuana, being in a place where narcotics were used and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He was arrested with two young girls in a car in a parking lot Sept. 14 in Novato.

Hearing Is Set On Marijuana Growing

An Oct. 14 preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for John Frederick Tanzi and Patricia Ann Tanzi, both 21 and of San Anselmo, who are accused of growing marijuana at their home.

They were arrested Sept. 20 after police noticed the plants from a neighbor's home.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Octogenarian Has Sudden Trouble With Activities

VAN DELLEN

A.R. writes: "I am 85 and, until recently, my activities have included long walks, golf, and driving the car. Lately, however, my muscles have deteriorated.

Could my agility be improved by some form of exercise?

"Picking up things off the floor and getting in and out of the car are difficult. Perhaps other senior citizens would benefit if they did exercises that were not too strenuous. Just sitting around waiting for the end does not appeal to me.

"THERE must be others who would do something about the aging problem, if they could."

Weakness in a previously healthy individual requires a thorough physical examination. Sudden weakness usually stems from an infection or a change in mood, such as a depression. This man should continue walking and playing golf, as these are excellent activities.

SWIMMING AND fishing also are good, because they are not too strenuous. If you are physically sound, get a hobby, engage in social activities, or take a long trip. As a matter of fact, at 85, you have a very young outlook.

A reader writes: "I have a small bunion on the outside of my foot. I've been told it is a Taylor's bunion. Can you elaborate?"

I assume you refer to a tailor's bunion. This name stems from the way a tailor sat on the table with legs crossed and the small toe against the hard surface.

The bunion develops on the outer edge of the foot at the base of the small toe. The skin thickens becasue the individual has a wide or bent metatarsal joint in this area.

When the shoes are too tight, pressure against the small toe leads to the irritation that causes the defect. Treatment involves wearing properly fitted shoes or surgery.

(Questions on medical topics will be answerd by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DRAINAGE TUBE

REPLY

This is done after gallbladder removal especially when the surgeon has reason to believe that some of the stones have escaped into the duct leading from the liver to the intestine. An incision is made into this passageway and a tube is inserted to prevent the bile from leaking into the intestine during the healing process.

FIRST AID FOR EPILEPTIC

REPLY

Ease his fall and stretch him out flat on his back. Place a folded handkerchief between his teeth to prevent him from biting the tongue. Do not restrain him, but watch him carefully so his arms and legs are not injured as he thrashes about.

CHILD WITH CONTACTS

REPLY

There are reports of a 1-year-old child being fitted with contacts. Most physicians, however, do not recommend the devices for youngsters under the age of 6. It is well to remember that if a youngster of 6 or 7 is fitted with contacts, it will be up to the parents to insert and remove them.

Murder Case Reward Offered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. is offering a $10,000 reward in the slaying of an employee who came to this area to audit firm records.

J. Dexter Bowers Jr., regional vice president for the F.W. Dodge division of the firm, said the money would be given for information leading to an arrest and conviction.

The body of Davis Sarles, 39, of North Hollywood, the victim, was found strangled Thursday in his room at the Hyatt Motor Lodge in Oakland. A necktie was knotted around his neck and his hands had been tied behind his back.

Police said clothing pockets had been turned inside out, indicating a robbery.

Forgery Count Prison Sentence

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court has sentenced Anthony Mark Ramirez, 29, of San Francisco, to state prison for two counts of passing forged checks.

Ramirez had been convicted by a jury July 28 of passing the checks last year in Novato and Tiburon.

The judge on Monday said that the two- and one-to-14-year sentences could be served concurrently.

Freshman Elections Postponed A Week

Freshman class elections at Tamalpais High School, scheduled for today, have been postponed one week because only four candidates filed nomination papers for the four offices open, student activities director Joseph E. Petterle reported.

The elections will be held all day Wednesday in front of the high school's book room, Petterle said.

No Contest To Crash Charges

Frank Edward Jordan, 20, of Novato, pleaded no contest yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony manslaughter charge stemming from a June 22 car crash in which Michael W. Gramlich of Novato died.

He was told to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date.

More Home Control For Cities Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Robert Monagan, R-Tracy, says he sees a reversal of the trend toward Washington domination of municipal programs and an increase in state participation.

Monagan told delegates to the League of California Cities convention here yesterday that home rule is not necessarily threatened when the state works with local government on regional problems.

"It is a fact that the concerns of environmental quality tend to find their solutions in regional approaches, simply because the problems of congestion and pollution have no respect for jurisdictional boundaries," Monagan said.

LEGISLATIVE ROLE

He added that "in this age of giant departments," the Legislature — not the executive branch — finds new solutions to the cities' problems.

"Many agencies of state government are naturally dominated by narrow professional or specialized interests. These agencies find it difficult to develop solutions to major problems requiring approaches in more than a single discipline," Monagan said.

He also said local leadership should seek solutions to urban problems, the same plea voiced by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto at the convention.

"The radicals . . . suggest that the simple solution for the ills of democracy is simply more democracy," Monagan said. "Nothing could be further from the truth. The cure for our ills is leadership."

Alioto said a key to an effective city program to find more jobs in industry for minority youths is to "use the city's economic clout. The strong leadership has to be at city hall."

ALIOTO'S REPORT

Alioto said he was encouraged that there has been "substantial improvement" in conditions causing unrest last year at San Francisco State College.

He counseled restraint in dealing with student dissent, "but if they go beyond dissent and resort to violence, then we must use whatever police power is necessary."

Berkeley Mayor Wallace Johnson added:

"The lesson learned over the years in Berkeley is that it is important to under-react rather than to over-react. The hazards of over-reaction is that it attracts sympathy groups to the disturbance."

Automobile accident deaths in Great Britain declined to 6,810 in 1968, the lowest in seven years.

Sierra Clubber Flays Nixon Park 'Duplicity'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The 82,000-member Sierra Club has blasted President Richard M. Nixon for "duplicity" and "non-policy" in the field of conservation.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, vice president and organization spokesman, yesterday told a news conference that the administration was engaging in false economics involving "federal peanuts" while backing the $667 million supersonic transport program, a $4.5 billion annual highway program, and a trip to Mars which will eventually cost $50 billion.

But the conservation economies mean Point Reyes National Seashore will be destroyed, Everglades National Park will remain in jeopardy, and long-standing park proposals, such as Sleeping Bear Dunes Lakeshore in Michigan, will be lost, according to Wayburn.

Wayburn said the administration was refusing to use $76 million this year in the land and water conservation fund for anti-inflation reasons. He said Nixon had requested an appropriation of $124 million for park acquisition, compared with congressional authorization of $200 million.

He begged the President to authorize the $38 million needed for Point Reyes Seashore before owners there are forced for tax reasons to sell to developers. He said leaders of both parties have recommended the President support full development of the seashore, but "Mr. Nixon doesn't understand what is going on, and we want to make him understand."

"We feel we have to indict and attack the Nixon Administration for what we call its nonpolicy in conservation," Wayburn said.

"...The Nixon Administration has given strong verbal assurances that the protection of our present and potential parklands is a matter of high priority," Dr. Wayburn said.

"This is an example of the duplicity that is going on right now. Mr. Nixon says one thing and does the opposite, and the sad part here is that his nonpolicy is neither economical nor anti-inflationary. Land prices for park purposes are escalating at rates of 10 to 20 per cent."

Passerby Halts Attempt To Leap Off Gate Span

A 35-year-old San Rafael man who said he needed love was rescued early today as he attempted to jump from the railing of the Golden Gate Bridge, California Highway Patrol Officers said.

Dwain Eldon Essig of 4 Oak Avenue was committed to Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco for 72 hours observation, officers said.

Gabe Jackson, 31, of 45 Drake Avenue, Marin City, told officers he was driving north on the bridge when the car in front of him stopped and Essig got out and walked toward the rail near the north tower.

By the time Jackson stopped, he said, Essig had climbed on the rail and was dangling his legs over the edge. Jackson said he slowly approached the man, talking all the time, until he was close enough to grap him.

He then held him until another passerby, an offduty San Francisco police officer, stopped and called for aid.

Jackson said Essig kept mumbling about needing love and repeating a person's name all the time Jackson was holding him, officers said.

Transit Session Off Due To Quorum Lack

The Marin County Transit District board will not meet tonight because of lack of a quorum.

Chairman John F. McInnis announced last night he would call off the meeting because he could not get four of the seven-member board to attend tonight's meeting.

Bird Expert To Talk Friday At Ross School

Fred Sibley, director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, will speak on "Birds of the Farallons" at 8 p.m. Friday at Ross Schco! at a public meeting of the Marin Audubon Society.

ENCOUNTER IN THE AIR

Clinch West Title

ATLANTA (AP) — Manager Luman Harris was scrambling away from a mob of fans, Cecil Upshaw was passing out cigars and the Atlanta Braves were pouring champagne and beer on anyone in sight as they savored winning the National League West Division title last night.

"You're danged right it was dangerous out there," said Harris in the jubilant Braves' dressing quarters after threading his way through the crowd that swarmed on the field following Atlanta's 3-2 title-clinching victory over Cincinnati.

"I lost my glasses, my cap and everything else," Harris said. "That was the worst mistake I made all night, trying to get to (Hoyt) Wilhelm and congratulate him."

Upshaw, the Braves' leading relief pitcher with 27 saves, shouted, "Man, it's too good. Have a cigar. We had a baby-it's called a pennant."

However, the relief honors last night went to the old veteran, the 46-year-old Wilhelm, who retired the final six Reds to protect Phil Niekro's 23rd victory.

"In a game like that, you've got to be tensed up," said Wilhelm.

Asked if he planned to play again next year, Wilhelm, who isn't eligible for the playoffs, replied, "You damn right. I'm going to take them year by year. You've got to work until you can draw your pension."

"I'm not going to worry about New York until Friday," said Hank Aaron, who starred on the Milwaukee Braves pennant winners in 1957 and 1958.

"This is the best thing that ever happened to me," said Bob Didier, the rookie catcher. He said he wasn't worrying about the Mets because "right now, we'll do a little celebrating."

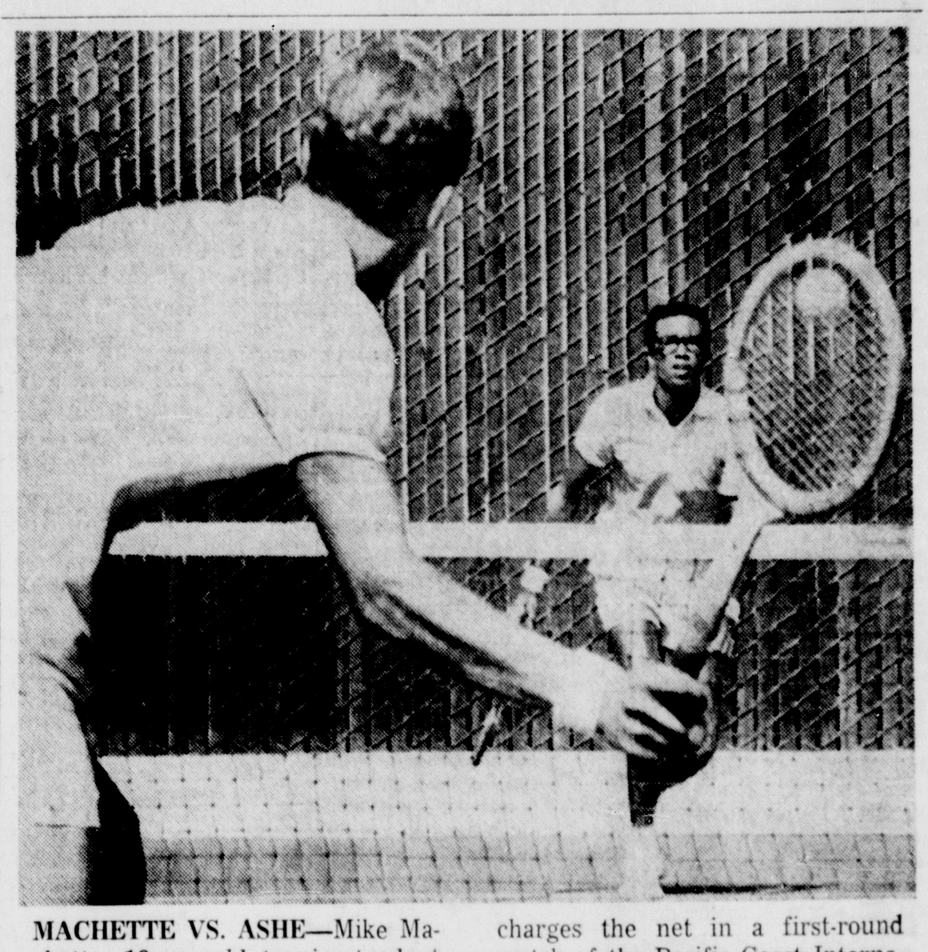
"Twenty-five guys contributed to it," said Clete Boyer, a veteran of five World Series when he was with the New York Yankees. "These guys hustled their rears off all year. At no time did we think we were out of it."

"Beautiful, beautiful and beautiful," shouted Orlando Cepeda, who came to the Braves from St. Louis in a trade for catcher-first baseman Joe Torre. Cepeda played for the Cardinals when they won the last two National League pennants and the World Series in 1967.

"This is the happiest moment of my 32 years in baseball," Harris said.

Harris said the playoffs with the Mets opening here Saturday should prove to be interesting.

Reminded that New York whipped the Braves in eight of 12 regular season games, Harris said, "They may find us a little damn tougher hitting. I'm encouraged by the way my team has been hitting."



MACHETTE VS. ASHE—Mike Machette, 18-year-old tennis standout from Belvedere, prepares to return a forehand shot as Arthur Ashe charges the net in a first-round match of the Pacific Coast International Tennis Tournament in San Francisco. Ashe won, 6-3, 6-1. (UPI Telephoto)

Machette Loses To Ashe In Pacific Tennis Tourney

COMBINED AP & UPI

Ashe, the No. 1 seed in the $20,000 Pacific Coast International Tennis Championships, quickly disposed of Machette in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, in a trans-planted game yesterday at the Golden Gateway Tennis Club in San Francisco.

Machette, who had trouble returning service, was meeting Ashe for the second time this year and improved on his 6-1, 6-0 loss in the first round of the Western championships at Cincinnati.

A brace of upsets were recorded iin the opening round with the most notable ones being unseeded Jim McManus, Berkeley, topping fifth-seeded Australian Davis Cupper Ray Ruffles, 8-6, 6-1, Britain's Gerald Battrick, also unranked, topping Mexico's eighth-seeded Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, 6-3, 6-2, and Jeff Borowiak, Berkeley, defeating 12th seeded Erik van Dillen, San Mateo, 6-4, 7-9, 6-3, 9, 6-3.

The Women's singles got underway today with top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia meeting Gail Hansen, Palo Alto, and No. 2 seed Winnie Shaw of England facing Sharon Walsh of San Rafael.

And You Think Torrey Faced With Problem!

When Tamalpais High School District Superintendent Robert Torrey temporarily rescinded a Redwood athletic department hair-grooming policy last week he found himself in the middle of a controversy that won't easily be brushed aside.

I still wonder why he temporarily sided with a handful of long-haired boys against a 12-year-old department policy when it would have been much simpler for the boys to get a temporary haircut.

Anyway, Torrey's problems may seem minor compared to those of Petaluma High School authorities. I understand some of the girls there are creating an embarrassing situation by not wearing bras to school. And apparently there's nothing in the books that makes flopper stoppers mandatory. You see, when authorities set standards of dress they were so concerned about length of hair that they apparently overlooked such fundamental weapons as double-barrelled sling shots in the regulations. So, NO, Virginia, there is no scanty clause.

It Sure Livens Up Campus

This may be a tremendous letdown for the lingerie retailers but has livened up the campus considerably, according to one of my Petaluma undercover agents who reports: "You ought to see the action when the bell rings for the home economics class!"

Meanwhile, back in Larkspur, long-haired students are looking up to Mr. Torrey as the guardian over their fundamental rights to life, liberty and the hirsuite of hippiness while Redwood coach Bob Troppmann feels he has been upbraided just for advocating low ears.

"But, I've received a lot of moral support for my stand," said Tropp. "Let's see, I got a letter from the World War I Veterans of Merced, another from the local barbers union and a pledge from the Yul Brynner Fan Club." I think he's kidding, but I heard that the SPEBSQSA will perform at halftime of all Redwood athletic contests. But, again, that's only hairsay.

Takes Heat Off Fat Teachers

One good thing about this hair issue, though: It's taken a lot of heat off fat gym teachers. You may remember that one pleasantly plump Redwood girls' physical education marm got farmed out to Weight Watchers for being "a living hypocrisy of the subject she teaches." I heard she landed a job with the Department of Weights and Measures in Toledo.

This matter of avoirdupois and hirsuteness is really bugging some physical educators. I saw one gym teacher sneak into class the other day wearing a girdle and rug. No one knew the difference, but he had trouble explaining it to his wife with Halloween still a month away.

As a matter of fact, the only man I can think of at the moment who physically and tonsorially qualifies for the Redwood athletic directorship is Abraham Lincoln.

Just Complying With Rules

It should be noted that Redwood cross country coach Doug Basham was only complying with department policy when he temporarily suspended the long-hairs until they were temporarily reinstated by Torrey. Basham was among the minority of Redwood coaches who had voted against the short hair policy. Which is admirable on his part. Imagine a track coach who doesn't advocate short cuts.

Well, I think everything will be resolved soon. I don't think the Marin schools will have any more problems with long-haired or short-haired boys. They're all transferring. To Petaluma.

Another Second For S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The turning point of the season was when Atlanta failed to lose," sighed San Francisco Giants' manager Clyde King at the conclusion of the Great Race last night.

The second place Giants failed to grasp the bouquet for a fifth straight season when the Braves clinched the National League western division title with a 3-2 triumph over Cincinnati last night.

A few minutes later, the Giants took the field and sealed runner-up honors as Gaylord Perry struck out 14 San Diego Padres in a 6-1 victory, his 19th of the season.

17 OF 20

"Naturally, I'm disappointed we didn't win it," said King, "but it isn't because we didn't try. We've won 11 of 16 games, but the Braves have been unbelievable with 10 straight and 17 of 20.

"If we were something like 6-11 down the stretch it would be different, but we played good ball," the skipper stressed. "I can't complain because I'm grateful we did so well despite all our injuries.

"Nothing that's happened has changed my opinion of this club," Clyde continued. "We kept hustling all the way. Look at tonight. We could have fallen flat on our face, but we went out and did a job."

BONDS HITS

Though the Giants learned the bad news prior to the game, they jumped on loser Al Santorini, 8-14, for three runs in the first inning. Bobby Bonds belted a two-run single and scored on the same play when two Padres errored.

Bonds scored again in the fourth after walking and stealing second and third. The two runs pulled him ahead of Pete Rose for the league lead, 119 to 118, has 44 successful steals in 47 attempts.

Willie McCovey went hitless, but boosted his RBI lead to 125 with a run-scoring grounder in the seventh. King said it would be up to McCovey whether he played in the second game of the series today.

"We're going to take a look at some of the young players," explained the manager, "but I'd like to see Willie win the home run and RBI titles. It'll be up to him."

NO PITCH

King also disclosed tht Juan Marichal, 21-11, would not pitch the season finale tomorrow, virtually sewing up the league earned run average title for the great right-hander at 2.10.

"If we needed a win Thursday to clinch second, Juan would have pitched," said King, He named onetime bonus baby Bob

Lee Stung With Loss In 1st Start

Bill Lee, former Terra Linda High School prep star who got a call in mid-season to join the big team, got his first pitching start for the Boston Red Sox last night.

It turned out to be a mixed blessing. Lee pitched shutout ball for four innings but was tagged with the loss when the Washington Senators exploded for seven runs in three innings, four of the runs being charged to Lee in a 7-2 Washington victory.

Lee gave up six hits and four earned runs, walked six batters and struck out three. Del Unser's bases-loaded triple was the big blow off Lee, who now has one win and three losses.

The Red Sox' loss gave second place in the American League's Eastern Division to the Detroit Tigers.

College Of Marin Runners Extend Record To 2-0

College of Marin's cross-country team, behind record-setting Don Makela, kept its dual meet record unblemished with a runaway against Merritt College in Oakland yesterday.

The Tars won easily, 16-43, as Makela, last year's Marin County Athletic League champion, led a sweep of the first four places with a course record of 25:06 over Merritt's 4.2-mile layout.

The Tars are now 2-0 in dual-meet competition. They'll go to San Francisco Saturday ffor the Golden Gate Invitational.

He's Scoring Star

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Patriots end-placekicker Gino Cappelletti has led the American Football League in scoring five of the nine years that the league has been in existence.

PREP GRID STATISTICS

Tomales Ace Leads List

Ron Petroni, Mr. Everything at Tomales High School, member of the 1,000-yard club last year as a junior, is once again casting his statistical shadow over Marin County prep footballers.

Petroni, who leads Tomales in rushing, scoring and pass receiving, is also the top rusher in the county, with 285 yards amassed in two games and 35 carries.

Only Tamalpais High School sophomore flash Clifford Hall comes close to that total with 224 yards in 35 carries.

SHARES LEAD

Hall also shares the scoring lead with Ken Gnoss of San Marin, both having scored three touchdowns for 18 points.

There's a batch of runners who have rushed for at least 100 yards or more on the Marin County scene, headed by Scott Duncan of San Rafael (157), Mark Costello of Tamalpais (125), Bob Sutherland, last year's MCAL rushing king from Drake (115), Urbano Bousciguez (113) of San Marin and Mark Lewis of Marin Catholic (106).

Tom Jackson of Terra Linda is the standout quarterback so far in Marin County, having completed 14 of 28 passes in a pair of games for 320 yards and three touchdowns. He's also scored twice.

Tennis Seems To Have Met Its Match In Ashe

Tennis is like China — it usually manages to swallow up all those who invade it. THEY change, Tennis doesn't. The eyes don't start to slant, a pigtail grow and the skin yellow, but "dese, dem and dose" guys begin to talk like a guy being strangled. They get this kind of bored, rich look. They play life from the baseline.

YOU REMEMBER your first trip to a tennis tournament? All of a sudden, that purple tie, the one with all the flowers on it and the wide bottom that looks like a St. Bernard's tongue hanging out, begins to look as if it came with a packet of seeds alongside those subdued ones with all the coats-of-arms and Latin phrases on them. Your suit, the lavender-blue gabardine looks as if you copped it off a Salvation Army truck alongside those custom-tailored, real wool ones on the legitimate patrons.

YOU BEGIN to think What am I doing here? You get the feeling none of these people ever sold papers or shined shoes (not even their own), or sorted mail, or waited table, or drove a truck, or left the spoon in their coffee or went out for dinner where the menu was printed in English or where they had to order entrees by number and put plenty of ketchup on them and, if they were ever in Peoria, they stuck to room service.

Well, lots of underprivileged kids came in the game in recent years but, if they were good enough to hang around long enough, Tennis hacked the rough edges off and took them in and, pretty soon, they knew to take their hats off when they ate and not wear brown shoes with tuxedos and they joined Tennis, not vice versa.

Arthur had one gigantic handicap right off the bat — eyeglasses. Nobody ever walked into championship tennis carrying that handicap before. Nobody who couldn't see without glasses ever won anything more important than a mixed doubles before.

IT WASN'T only the glasses that set Arthur apart. His other peculiarity was that he was the first male of his ethnic minority of 30 million in America to begin showing up in the finals of Wimbledon and Forest Hills. In fact, he was the first one to show up there, period. For one thing, a game in which a shutout is called "love" could not be expected to make much headway in the ghetto. You had no trouble spotting Arthur. At the tonier clubs, he was the only black person carrying a racket instead of a tray, playing a court instead of mowing it.

A lot of us sat back with a good deal of zest to watch the contest for Arthur's, so to speak, soul.

YOU CAN prizefight without becoming a part of prizefighting. You can play baseball merely for a living. But tennis is a way-of-life. The line between social, athletic and private life is blurred. It's its own cruise through life, the world's tightest key club.

Tennis didn't make Arthur a gentleman. His parents did that. They had class, they just didn't have money. But, tennis being tennis, most of us thought it wouldn't be long before Arthur would be exchanging those hornedrims for two monocles.

TENNIS SEEMS to have met its match. It's at least set-point. Arthur Ashe didn't just show up in eyeglasses. He showed up in yellow shirts. If you can't imagine the sucking-in of breaths THAT caused, you just don't know tennis. When the ladies auxiliary protested, Arthur showed up in BLUE shirts. Some patrons fainted dead away. They just hoped he wouldn't be scheduled the same day as the Queen.

Tennis has been a game for pale faces and pale shirts and for guys who get paid off like kidnapers for so long that it was surprising how effortlessly Arthur cut through the seeds of hypocrisy as easily as he cut through the seeds of Forest Hills. One by one they fell in love sets. Arthur didn't challenge them, he ignored them. He got paid for wearing the shirts, he candidly explained. Candor had been even less a part of the game than colored shirts — or colored players.

IT MAY be coincidence but lily-white amateurism disappeared as swiftly as lily-white shirts with the advent of Ashe. Amateurism became as optional as shirt color — or skin color. The game joined the century.

Ont thing is demonstrable: Ashe didn't change. The game did.

ARTHUR STOOD easily in a locker room at the Pacific Southwest tennis tourney the other afternoon, pulling on a blue shirt and explaining HIS plans for the game:

1) Open up the Davis Cup or Ashe and the present Cup team won't play; 2) take the challenge round out of Cleveland next year or take Arthur Ashe out, he doesn't much care which; 3) pick a commissioner with the dictatorial powers of a czar (Ashe is on a committee of six of the USLTA to pick one and he is the only player ever to be on such a committee); 4) reconcile the warring groups of tour professionals and insist they play only for prize money in Open tournaments the same as everyone else or Ashe and his group won't; 5) let Arthur Ashe play South Africa IN South Africa or don't let South Africa play Arthur Ashe anywhere.

I DON'T know who is swallowing whom but I have a feeling when it is over, Arthur Ashe will be the one burping.

Bando Leads A's Victory Over Pilots

SEATTLE (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics, with a lot of hammering by Sal Bando, nailed the expansion Seattle Pilots into the cellar of the American League West last night.

Bando banged out five hits, drove in three runs and scored one as the A's, who easily clinched second place in the division, downed the Pilots 8-4 before a crowd of only 2,937 fans.

The two teams meet again tonight with Oakland's Rollie Fingers (6-7) going against George Burnett (8-12).

Namath Says This Year Is His Last

BOSTON (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets' said in a television interview last night he expects to retire from professional football at the end of the 1969 season.

Namath, interviewed by Pat Collins on WBZ-TV's 11 p.m. Eyewitness News show, said his problems with knee injuries have grown and this season they're the worst they've ever been.

Namath said he and his doctors have decided upon an operation on the left knee at the end of the season, and that he probably will be finished with football after that.

"Does that mean you're all through at the end of this season?" Miss Collins asked.

"I can practically guarantee that," Namath replied.

WBZ-TV said the interview was taped earlier in the evening at Namath's Bachelors III Club in Park Square.

'C' Teams Remain Unbeaten

Drake and Marin Catholic high schools are running neck and neck in the Marin County Athletic League Class C basketball race, both teams keeping undefeated records intact in yesterday's action.

Drake won its third game without a loss, rapping San Rafael, 36-25 at Drake, while Marin Catholic ran its record to 2-0 with a 35-20 whipping of Terra Linda on the loser's court.

Drake was never headed, jumping off to a 16-10 half-time lead and pulling steadily away. The Pirates have beaten Redwood and Terra Linda.

Marin Catholic broke up a close game, shutting out Terra Linda 10-0 in the third period to pull away from a 16-11 half-time lead

Bruce Nuttman scored 10 points as nine Wildcats got into the scoring act. John Kunst helped out with 14 rebounds.

Daryle Lauds Wells' Ability

BOSTON (AP)—Warren Wells has given a new dimension to the Oakland Raiders' offense, says quarterback Daryle Lamonica.

Lamonica hit Wells with touchdown passes of 27 and 55 yards in Sunday's 38-23 victory over the Boston Patriots.

Now the Raiders are training at Tufts College in nearby Medford until Friday when they leave for Miami and a Saturday night clash with the Dolphins.

"Warren has the uncanny ability to burst to the ball," Lamonica said yesterday. "Sometimes I'm amazed that he catches balls that I think are overthrown."

Wells has made Fred Biletnikoff more effective and has helped the Raider sweep. Lamonica said.

Tournament Honors Late John Forbes

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Golfers in the Meadow Club near Fairfax were swinging away today in the Forbes Tournament, named in honor of the club's first president, the late John F. Forbes.

Forbes, the founder of John F. Forbes and Co., reportedly the largest independent accounting firm on the Pacific Coast, died in 1965.

Seventy golfers will be competing in the medal play tourney. It's an all-day thing, lunch and dinner sandwiched around the actual golf.

THERE WAS a lot of brass on the Peacock Gap golf course in San Rafael Monday, and one of the officers pulled rank on the ball.

Lt. Col. Conrad Matson, playing a round of golf with three fellow Air Force officers, whacked a hole-in-one on the 10th hole, 140 yards. Watching in awe as Col. Matson's eight-iron shot rolled in the cup were Lt. Col. James Lee, Lt. Col. James Bardsley and Maj. Don Tidwell. All four men are stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base.

FINALS IN club championship tournaments are on tap this weekend at two Marin County courses. At Peacock Gap, Bob Sterley and Bob Bond will lock horns Saturday. In semifinals, Sterley downed Sid Nu Delman 1 up and Bond did in Bill Breen, 2 and 1. At Indian Valley, finals will be held Sunday on the Novato course, Mike Dunham vs. Bob Hachmyer. In semi-finals last weekend, Dunham defeated Jim Creighton 3 and 2, and Hachmyer eliminated Al Randig, 2 up.

Mill Valley Golf Club will hold semifinals of its club championship Sunday, with one of the quarter-finals still up in the air.

Lou Garbutt and Rick Patterson still have to meet, the survivor advancing to Sunday's semis. In the other matches in round of two, Jim Brown d. Jeff Ferris, 2 up; Wayne Duerson d. Russ Adams, 1 up, and Early Brown d. Craig Smith, 2 up.

SAN GERONIMO National will be the last of the Marin-Sonoma courses to hold its club championship, Ken Harnquist to defend his title in that tourney starting Saturday and the final 18 the following Saturday.

Over at Sonoma National, sister club to San Geronimo (all part of National Golf Courses, Inc., headed by William Saunders), they're moving into the third round of the club championship. At present, former state champ Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael is tied with John Flachman of St. Helena, each with a 147 total, a two-stroke lead, at the halfway mark.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Experimentation Gets Correct Dangle Angle

The tilt adjustment of an outboard motor is probably one of the most misunderstood things about this very efficient machine. Yet it's such an important thing, because having an outboard motor at the wrong angle can cut its efficiency by as much as 25 per cent. This is so wasteful because getting the right "angle of dangle" on the outboard is not very difficult. It takes just a little experimentation.

THE QUALITY of "tiltability" possessed by an outboard—and by the outboard section of a stern drive unit — is the feature which makes these devices so versatile. They can be used on an infinite variety of hull shapes and transom angles. The transom is that flat part at the stern of power boats, and surely everyone has noticed that it is not the same on any two boats.

The angle of tilt is controlled by a pin through two holes in the clamp bracket which holds an outboard on the boat. In theory the motor is at the correct angle when the anti-cavitation plate is parallel to the surface of the water when the boat is in motion.

THE ANTI - CAVITATION plate is that flat plate on an outboard just above the propeller. Every outboard and stern drive unit has one, and its function is to make sure that the prop by its suction does not pull down air into its slip stream, thus creating a "cavity."

An engineer might say that an outboard motor is at the correct angle when the line of thrust of the propeller is parallel to the plane of the boat's motion.

BUT NOBODY can go over the side to see that the anti-cavitation plate or the line of propeller thrust is parallel to anything. So really, the only way to tell whether the angle is right is by checking the boat's performance.

PORPOISING — This is a rhythmical rising and falling of the bow . . . much like the swimming action of a porpoise. Bad weight distribution in the boat may also be a cause of porpoising, but not as often as improper tilt.

CAVITATION — This problem often shows up on turns. The outboard races and the propeller churns up a great deal of foam. A common cause is a motor tilted too far forward. The prop is cocked up too high behind so it sucks air. Then it races around in a cavity of air and water vapor instead of the "solid" water it should be working in.

BOW HIGH ATTITUDE—This is very common in small outboards where the operator sits at the stern to handle the controls. It's dangerous because the operator can't see properly over the bow, the boat is vulnerable to wind and may be hard to control, and it sure wastes gasoline.

INABILITY TO PLANE — How often does one see a boat which rides along bow high until someone crawls out on the foredeck to add weight up front, then it starts to plane? It speeds up and skims along. A major cause of this is increased drag because of bad tilt angle. A little weight up forward improves the attitude, reduces the drag and when power isn't being wasted on drag, there is enough to make the boat plane.

There are other causes to all these problems — such things as nicks in the prop, operation of the prop too close to the surface, a keel or other protuberance on the bottom causing turbulence in the propeller current, something wrapped around the prop, bad boat design, or possibly even a boat shape that was never meant to be powered such as a sailing hull. But mostly it's the tilt.

Recreation Softball Champs Announced

The San Rafael Recreation Department has announced the champions of its recently completed adult summer softball league.

Hiller's Men's Wear topped Timmer Realty in a playoff game to take the C-II title. Cal's Steak House eventually won the 16-inch slow pitch crown, nipping Native Sons in the playoffs.

Elijah Paces Hornet Cross Country Win

Novato High School swept the first five places and handed Drake High School a 15-40 cross-country thumping in a Marin County Athletic League meet at Drake Monday.

Ron Elijah led the way for the Hornets with a first-place finish in 13:44. The Hornets also won the junior varsity meet, 16-46.

Openings Announced In Scuba Class

There are still openings in the San Rafael Recreation Department's scuba diving class.

The class, which is limited to adults 18 or over, meets on Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at San Rafael High School. It will switch to the Terra Linda High School beginning Oct. 9.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Only Way for The Declarer To Keep Cool – No Third Ruff

Now that the weather's a bit cooler, we can play more bridge. A bridge player uses his brains so furiously that he's in danger of getting overheated and exploding if he picks the wrong time of the year for his exercise. See if you can work up a sweat over today's hand, taken from "Hold Our Bridge Hands," by Charles J. Solomon and Bert Wilson.

EAST OVERTAKES

West leads the jack of spades, and East overtakes with the queen just in case West's card happens to be a singleton. East continues with the ace of spades and then the king.

The average declarer works himself into a lather at this trick. He fingers the ten of hearts and the queen of hearts, trying to choose which card to play on the king of spades.

The ten of hearts will be high enough if East happens to have the jack. But if West has the jack of hearts, South probably considers ruffing with the queen of hearts. Then he will be safe if the jack of hearts is singleton or part of a doubleton.

BOTH FAIL

Both plans happen to fail. If South ruffs with the ten, West overruffs with the jack. If South ruffs with the queen, West's jack becomes set up for a later trump trick. South eventually loses a diamond trick as well. Down one.

South can keep cool if he doesn't ruff the third spade at all. He should discard the low diamond, allowing East to win the trick.

RUFFS LOW

If East then leads a fourth spade, South ruffs low. If West then overruffs, dummy can win with the ace of trumps. South can then easily draw the trumps and claim the rest of the tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 9 7 3
♥ A 6 5
♦ Q J 10 8 3
♣ K 10.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 3-no-trump. Since you have 10 points in high cards you know that the combined count is 26 to 28 points. This should be enough for game at no-trump buy may not produce 11 tricks at diamonds.

Finnish Auto Sales

HELSINKI (UPI) — About 29,000 automobiles were sold in Finland in the first three months of 1969, an increase of approximately 13,500 cars over the corresponding period of 1968.

The St. Lawrence Seaway allows ocean-going vessels to travel inland 2,342 miles to American and Canadian ports.

Market In Sixth Day Of Setback

NEW YORK (UPI)—Declines bowled over advances by more than a 2-1 margin on Wall Street today, stretching the stock market's losing streak to six sessions. Trading was moderate.

Turnover of 8.8 million shares was about in line with that of the previous session.

Analysts noted that the list continued to be pressured by inflationary concern and monetary uncertainty in Europe.

Newton Zinder of E. F. Hutton Brokerage said the news background simply "reduced the incentive to buy stocks."

Among the most active issues were Benguet, Thiokol Chemical, Texaco, INA Corp., Aluminum Co. of America, American Telephone and Financial Federation. Texaco closed off 1-4 at 36 7-8 and AT&T was off 1-8 at 50 1-4.

Motors continued to attract selling. The automobile industry recently said it expected sales and production to slack in the remaining months of the year. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler lost fractionally at the close.

Chemicals and steels generally traded in fractions. So did most oils, although point-sized declines cropped up in a few instances.

Rails were narrowly mixed. Airlines, aircrafts, and conglomerates also traded in both directions, as did gold mining shares.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Savings Bonds Under New Pressures On Interest

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have been purchasing U. S. savings bonds through payroll savings for the last 17 years. These were bought for retirement coming up in three years. Is there any hope that interest rates will improve before then? — G. L.

A. In an obviously misguided attempt to keep the lid on inflation certain influential members of Congress let it be known that they would fight the Treasury's proposal to lift the ceiling on savings bond interest to a 5 per cent rate.

Retention of the unrealistic 4.25 per cent rate has created a cash outflow problem for the Treasury as bond redemptions exceed sales, month after month. The end result is that the Treasury has been forced to turn to other sources for funding, paying interest rates in some cases double those currently paid on savings bonds.

Now United Steelworkers' president, I. W. Abel, has stated that unless some remedial action by Congress is begun quickly, he will urge the 1.2 million members of his union to boycott U. S. savings bonds. While his threat may not move a foot-dragging Congress, it may stir some action from an aroused public.

Q. I plan to retire the first of the year and have $30,000 to invest for income. What do you think of Fannie Mae and other federal agency bonds? What are current interest rates on these and where can they be bought? — E. K.

A. Federal National Mortgage Assn. issues are top quality and can be purchased to yield 8.1 per cent to 8.2 percent. FNAM 8.30s of November, 1970, and 7.85s of September, 1974, can be purchased in $5,000 lots. Another attractive agency issue is the recent 8¾ Series D Federal Home Loan Bank Bond due April 26, 1971, available only in $5,000 denomination or larger. These bonds may be purchased through your broker's bond department.

CIA Defies Army, Law —And Gets Away With It

If there was any doubt about the power of the Central Intelligence Agency, it has been removed with the announcement by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor that murder charges against six Green Berets will be dropped because CIA agents refuse to testify.

The CIA, according to Resor, refused to let its agents be witnesses in the projected courts-martial "in the interest of national security."

We have come a great deal closer to "1984" than is pleasant to contemplate when the legal processes are blocked by the simple refusal of a government agency to participate in them.

WHAT IS THE CIA that it can thumb its nose at the army, at the law, and at the democratic processes — and get away with it?

Following World War II, President Harry Truman realized that our foreign intelligence systems were inefficient and overlapping. Army, Navy and Air Force each had its own spies and undercover operatives. The State Department also had its intelligence network. None knew what the others were finding out.

Truman proposed to remedy this situation by creating a new over-all intelligence agency to do spying and investigating abroad for all the services, and to keep the State Department informed of its findings. The Central Intelligence Agency was created for this purpose.

LIKE TRUMAN'S "unification of the armed services," it was an idea that sounded fine and looked all right on paper but didn't work out. Army, Navy and Air Force all continued to do their own spying. The State Department went on as before. But the CIA provided a haven for an assortment of characters who had found work to their liking in the Office of Strategic Services, a World War II "super-spy" agency that would have gone in for bacterial warfare in North Africa and various other atrocities if it had had its own way.

Freed from control by the military commanders, the CIA has pretty much had its own way. Some of the results may have been good. But some that have come to light have been quite the opposite.

IT WAS CIA "intelligence" that led to the Bay of Pigs fiasco in Cuba.

CIA "intelligence" helped influence Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson to involve us deeper and deeper in Vietnam.

It was the CIA that sent U-2 planes over Russia, leading to an international incident when Francis Gary Powers was forced down in one of them and spoiling the best chance for postwar understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union

Now it is the CIA that blocks an army court-martial for murder in Vietnam.

WE MAY BE SURE the Army did not begin court-martial proceedings against the six Green Berets if what was done was in the ordinary course of war.

And since the CIA refuses to let its agents testify, we must suspect it does not have clean hands in the matter.

A long time ago, in France, there was similar effort to prevent a public trial based on new evidence in the case of Alfred Dreyfus.

That effort failed, and Dreyfus was re-tried and cleared, largely because of an open letter by Emile Zola, "J'Accuse," which appeared in the newly founded newspaper, l'Aurore.

Perhaps we need another Emile Zola today, in the United States.

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Announcement by Pacific Lighting System in Los Angeles that it is converting its entire fleet of vehicles to combination natural gas and gasoline propelled automobiles and truck marks an important step in California's battle against air pollution.

Pacific Lighting representatives were in Sacramento recently, with three converted cars, which they demonstrated to state officials. While here, the air resources board approved the conversion system for all automobiles.

CONSIDERING that a converted car discharges up to 90 per cent less pollutant, depending on the type of usage, than does a normal internal combustion engine, the change over of an entire fleet, while it may be no more than the proverbial "drop in the bucket," is at least an indication that private enterprise not only is studying the smog problem but has reached the point where it is doing something to curtail poison in the air.

Pacific Lighting and its two subsidiaries, Southern Counties Gas Co. and Southern California Gas Co., which already have 33 experimental cars operating on natural gas and gasoline, will, according to their three presidents, Joseph R. Rensch, W. Morton Jacogs, and Bruce A. McCandless., apply the same treatment to 1,100 service vehicles in southern and central California. When the job is completed, there will be 1,161 company vehicles operating on the dual-fuel system.

In addition, the switchover has been applied to some state automobiles in the Division of Highways, as well as to Los Angeles city and county cars and some federal government vehicles.

AT PRESENT, the usage of the dual-fuel system is practical only in fleet operations, and not for the individual citizens' automobiles. This is because the car needs refueling every night, and this is done on a mass basis.

The average citizen could use the system, but such usage would require installation of a home gas compressor, and charging up the tanks that hold the compressed gas after about every hundred-mile run.

The companies are testing the use of liquid gas, which would reduce the space needed for tanks. But not all the bugs have been ironed out of the liquid gas usage as yet, although at least one experimental car is operating on it.

But the important thing about the fleet conversion is that it's a visible start on licking the smog problem

Eventually, and the sooner the better, the smog problem has to be whipped, or there will be no one left around to worry about it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Coach Should Have Faith In All

To read of the resignation of Mr. (Robert J.) Troppmann, and particularly his reason for doing this - saddens me.

To say that we live in an era of change in this year 1969, is a masterpiece of understatement. As adults we cannot join the younger generation but we can try to understand their search for individuality in a troubled generation of inconsistencies. Rules and discipline are vital elements in any area of life, but the style of hair does not make the man.

As a swim coach of many years experience, it has been my observation that it takes a special kind of young person to participate on a regular basis in any type of athletic program. The total dedication, sacrifice and strong sense of "team" is essential to all who participate in athletic programs, particularly in high school where young people are searching for a permanent sense of identity. . .

It is every young man's birthright in this country, to find his own place in life, and to have available the same right and opportunity guaranteed to each child in our nation.

To penalize a young dedicated athlete because he chooses to have long hair, is to withhold the very opportunities this country guarantees to each growing youngster.

Our job as a coach is to teach, to encourage, to take pride in, and to have faith in the young people who will some day take our places and hopefully approve on our efforts to build a better world.

Proclamation For Waste Disposal

Our illustrious sire, Emperor Norton First, would be extremely distressed could he see the devitalized, depleted and eroded lands of his domains . . . and the heartless pollution of his rivers and oceans resulting in extinction of animals — even California sardines. . .

Many long years ago our loyal and devoted subject, Sir Henry Ford, perfected an economical method to deodorize and reactivate organic sewage, garbage, wood pulp and other wastes at Muscle Shoals. But all are still being shivaized and dumped into our rivers and oceans.

As the custodian of our local province you, Sir Ronald Reagan, governor of the Province of Upper California, are hereby directed to immediately institute emergency measures to reverse this tragic waste, as follows:

Separate, then bale all non-organic materials into compressed building blocks.

Extend large soil pipe carriers from each city, town and hamlet alongside both sides of each highway and into the nearest eroded flat lands in the outback. Shred, homogenize and liquify all organic sewage, waste and garbage including paper. Add waste consuming microbes and bacteria to decompose, reconvert and rejuvenate the mix into humus and soil additives. Then force the future soil through the soil pipes under high water pressure to huge catch basins and treatment areas to cure. . .

Even now our loyal subjects in our City of Hanover, Province of Germany, are treating waste products in our Leine River with waste-consuming microbes. They shall be knighted in due time.

This decree and proclamation issued under our hand and seal at Serendip, the City, Calif. Norton Second, heir apparent to the throne and empire of Norton the First of blessed memory, may he rest in peace.

Comment On Hair Upsets Reader

I am writing in response to Jim Gilmartin's column of this date (Sept. 26). His understanding, or incredible misunderstanding, of the "hair" issue at Redwood High School outrages truth and fairness. He violates the school community, Redwood, Mr. Torrey, Coach Troppman, the students ("monkeys"), faculty and administration ("Zoo keepers") and the Marin public which your paper serves by allowing his personal prejudice to be the content of his column. I think you have the responsibility to the idea of a free press to make sure that your writers don't abuse it by projecting their prejudices and ignorance into print. How does he dare to call any young person a "monkey"? How does he dare call teachers and school admonistrators "zoo keepers"? How does he dare to make judgemental statements without attempting to get at the complexities of the issue?

How could you permit him to print such a subjective and irresponsible statement?

President Keeps Self Informed Through Digest Of Press Comment

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

Is he isolated deliberately or helplessly from the harsh cross currents of public opinion?

Does he get only a tenderized version of what's being said and done and thought in a turbulent nation?

If the answer to these questions were yes, the United States would be in danger from an insensitive, unaware, ill-informed President. We report the good news that Mr. Nixon gets the bad news — and plenty of it. He wants it that way. He knows that he can't do his job unless he knows what is going on in the country and is sensitive to its moods, its concerns, its complaints.

WE ARE APPRAISING how well President Nixon does with all his information; we are reporting that he is exceptionally and continuously well-informed, that he knows this is a vital input for him.

He has set about to make sure he isn't insulated, that he isn't fed only what some of his aides might think he would most like to hear.

HERE'S HOW it's done.

Every morning at 8 an aide puts on the President's desk in the Oval Room an 18- to 48-page loose-leaf blue briefing book marked "For the President's Eyes Only." It isn't classified; everything in it is from the public press but it's prepared for the President only.

A typical breakdown of its contents:

Summary of American and foreign news developments based on press-association dispatches — six pages.

Digest of other news reports from 42 U.S. newspapers, plus summary of principal columnists and analytical writers — six pages.

Summary of the TV news from the three national networks plus commentaries — six pages.

A weekly cross-section of articles in weekly and monthly magazines, including the Saturday Review, Newsweek, Time, National Review, Economist, U.S. News and World Report, Life, New Republic, Fortune, Business Week, Nation — 30 pages.

The President also gets a weekly summary of the foreign press and of magazine articles from all over the world including Communist publications.

Mr. Nixon himself reads at least six daily newspapers which reach the White House on their day of publication.

THE MOST ELABORATE news summary for a president would be gravely harmful if it were softened or slanted.

The Nixon news summaries are remarkably objective, and faithfully representative of all viewpoints and sources from the whole country. They give the rough with the smooth, the favorable with the unfavorable, the critical and hostile with the praise.

Anyone who has read samples of the summaries can affirm that this is the fact. It is evident of Mr. Nixon's desire to keep himself abreast of reality that he insists that it be so. If unpleasant news and critical comments dominate the press, it dominates the President's disgest, and our impression is that if there is any doubt as to what should be included, the critical gets more space.

VIETNAM is never played down, college unrest is fully covered. The news bearing on black estrangement is reported, as are the Haynsworth hearings, congressional criticisms, Senator Kennedy's troubles, the peril of war in the Mideast, Latin American uprisings and racial disturbances at home.

Does Mr. Nixon really read and use his unusual daily newspaper? The best evidence is that cabinet members and others get chits almost daily as the result of his reading. These news digests weren't something the staff thought it would be nice for the President to have. He ordered them.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Pentagon Moves Against 'Pot' Use By Soldiers

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon, while it discounts reports of widespread "pot" smoking in Vietnam, is moving to reverse a steady trend toward increased use of marijuana by is everywhere.

In its campaign against marijuana the Defence Department is cooperating with other federal authorities, including the Bureau of Narcotics and the Customs Bureau, which are currently trying to choke off supplies of "pot" bound for U.S. cities. The Army has even started a pilot program for training dogs to locate marijuana by smell.

IN A FACT SHEET issued at the end of May, the Pentagon reported that there is "virtually no addiction to the so-called hard narcotics" in service units. It described as "gross exaggeration" reports that as many as 50 per cent of the troops in Vietnam are regular users of marijuana.

The fact sheet said available statistics, admittedly no index of undetected marijuana use, show that drug offenses have been increasing among GIs since 1965. It reported, however, that the worldwide statistics for 1968 reflect that slightly less than five servicemen per 1,000 were then involved in marijuana investigations.

Additional army statistics were later presented to congressional committees behind closed doors. The rising narcotics trend was reflected in the number of completed drug investigations filed at the Army's investigative records repository.

In 1965, 379 such investigations were completed. The annual figure has increased each year to a total of 8,247 in 1968 — the high up to that time.

Figures for the first five months of this year, however, when projected to an annual basis, indicate that about 15,000 investigations will be completed during the current year.

LT. GEN. A.O. Connor, who presented the data in congressional budget sessions, included drug abuse with the rising tide of dissent in the military among the "most critical" of disciplinary problems for the armed services.

In its campaign against drug abuse the Defense Department has already printed 3.5 million copies of a pamphlet designed for distrubution to each serviceman. In addition, a reference handbook for commanding officers has become a best seller (more than 130,000 copies) at the Government Printing Office.

The Pentagon has been working with the government of South Vietnam to stamp out marijuana traffic there. According to the Pentagon fact sheet, prepared by Frank A. Bartimo, chairman of the Defense Department's drug abuse committee, the Narcotics Bureau has sent a top agent to work with Vietnamese authorities.

About a year ago, South Vietnamese Prime Minister Tran Van Huong urged national police and province chiefs to crack down of traffic in opium and marijuana. U.S. authorities believe the enforcement of South Vietnamese narcotics laws is improving. Joint investigation squads, combining South Vietnamese police and U.S. agents are also concentrating on the marijuana crackdown.

Board Of Supervisors Is Letdown After Fairfax City Council

"Being on the board of supervisors is kind of a letdown after being in Fairfax," Peter Arrigoni declared at a recent Fairfax City Council meeting.

Arrigoni, a former mayor of Fairfax who shows up occasionally to see how things are going, complimented the group — "You people take an active interest" — and told them interest in county actions is limited to a couple of items.

IT'S TRUE. Fairfax people do turn out for city council meetings with amazing frequency . . . even when there isn't a single item that might affect them directly.

They offer suggestions, criticize, shout and scream sometimes — the current council members are masters of indecision.

But it doesn't happen as often as when Arrigoni was on the council and situations erupted that have made some of his meetings legends.

HOWEVER, even regular, faithful participation doesn't satisfy some devoted Fairfax residents and they're hoping the town meeting Oct. 11 will draw a hearty response.

Joe Walla, chairman of the Congress for Community Progress as the town meeting is called, started with a far-out questionnaire asking things like "Do you relate to Fairfax?"

There was space to "speak out/freak out here; say whatever is on your mind about Fairfax."

Residents were asked to identify themselves by age group or in a separate category, "hip."

Some resented the whole thing — they prefer to ignore as much as possible what they call the "new residents" or "visitors."

But they talked about it.

NEXT, WALLA arranged for a community paint-in on a big bare wall. The top half said "Whose Town?", the theme of the meeting and a question Walla thinks every Fairfax resident should ask himself.

The bottom half was devoted to anything anyone wanted to paint and it ended up with peace symbols and love scrawled here and there.

That didn't go over so well either.

Everybody who might conceiveably be able to do something was flooded with calls after the sign appeared and shortly, the committee was ordered to wash it off.

WALLA WAS delighted — the whole purpose of his precongress work is to arouse the citizenry.

"The big objection last year was that it was run by the establishment," he said. This year while the establishment is still very much in evidence, others are also involved.

He pointed out the people who showed up to paint the sign (the whole town had been invited) were the same ones who had turned out for the massive cleanup project in downtown Fairfax earlier in the summer.

"Whose town indeed?" Walla wonders — and hopes everyone will find out Oct. 11.

Another resident who also wonders whose town or if it should be a town has gone in an opposite direction.

Tired of council inaction, the simmering bitterness between the oldtimers and the "new residents" (for the uninitiated they are hip people who've lived there for some time now), he has prepared a stack of petitions calling for the disincorporation of Fairfax.

He hasn't started passing them — yet.

Pleads Innocent

Ralph Dwayne Sisler, 19, of Novato, pleaded innocent Monday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a car Saturday in Mill Valley. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 7.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Are Schools Ready To Do Job If Unrest Vanishes?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

There have been many innovations in American public schools in recent years. Each of them, we have been assured, has made the schools better.

A somewhat pessimistic view of the result of all these innovations was taken this month, however, by the Council for Basic Education in its monthly bulletin.

CBE, which is basically conservative but by no means a crackpot rightist organization, noted that the major concern as the new shool year begins is whether the schools can survive the unrest arising from their being made staging grounds for revolution. But it asked the question: "Are our schools so organized that once the social problems are eased they are prepared to provide a sound education for all students?"

EXPRESSING DOUBT that they are, it gave these reasons for the doubt:

"1. The schools seem to be increasingly inefficient, especially in the big cities, in carrying out their essential first task of imparting simple literacy. Even where there have been dramatic increases in financial support of special school systems, the percentage of poor readers or non-readers steadily increases. . . .

"2. In the other essential language, mathematics, the level of competence among American students is also distressingly low. Two years ago the International Study of Achievement in Mathematics found that American 13-year-olds ranked 10th out of 12 countries in mathematics. . . .

"3. OTHER REFORMS in the subject field have also been disappointing. The 'new English' has banned 'Silas Marner' and grammar but the result has hardly been a new love for the native language on the part of students . . . We are discovering that a generation of teachers not trained in the structure of the language has little to pass on to its students about language except its own ignorance. The reforms in the social studies seem to hold more promise, especially in the emphasis on the inductive method, but history as a subject is undoubtedly losing its identity. The effort to make it a 'behavioral science' and the emphasis on 'revelance' and 'comtemporary issues' do not serve to improve the average American's notoriously limited knowledge of his past.

"4. The promise of quick pay-offs from technological hardware and innovative gimmicks has not materialized. . .

"5. Despite new economic gains and organizational solidarity, the teacher seems to be losing identity rather than gaining status. . . ."

CBE CONCLUDED with a reminder of something often overlooked or forgotten:

"This ideal of basic education for all was not only a WASP ideal, it was also the ideal that motivated schools in the Jewish ghettoes and Chinatowns of our larger cities, the ideal that inspired those who founded the Catholic parochial schools, and those who started the pioneer Negro schools."

CBE left unanswered the question of whether the schools, if freed from their current preoccupation with social unrest, are prepared to do a better job of teaching the basic disciplines of civilization. But on the page of the bulletin following the assessment appeared a regular department called "Trivia of the Month," and among its items were these:

"AN ASSOCIATED Press dispatch states that Bowling Green University (Ohio) is about to offer a curriculum, leading to master's and doctor's degrees, based on a study of comic books, mail order catalogues, psychedelic posters, and 'underground' newspapers. . . .

"Last month at the summer session of the Scarsdale (N.Y.) high school, students could take a course, with a half-credit toward graduation, on revolutionary tactics and guerrilla warfare. . . ."

(A class in revolution was given during the summer at College of Marin, but as an "experimental college" course for which the institution gave no credit and assumed no responsibility.)

Light planes may now land on an airstrip at the Wright Brothers National Memorial, North Carolina, where the two brothers made the first successful flights.

AIMED AT YOUTH

Hard Core Drug School To Open

A drug education school to discourage youths from using marijuana and to prevent their getting hooked on harder drugs will start in Marin next month.

Catholic Social Services of Marin, with headquarters at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael, will sponsor the school. Classes will be held in different locations, starting with Golden Gate Baptist Seminary and College of Marin.

James D. Kilty, director of the school, announced that the one-month course will be given each month to a new group of 40 students between the ages of 13 and 22.

These students, the bulk of them marijuana smokers, will meet experts in drugs, including some former addicts, for confidential talks and instruction on the effects of narcotics. Each session will start with a 40-minute lecture, and students will then break into four groups for the confidential seminars.

Students will be youths referred to the school by various public agencies, schools, doctors, police, probation department and social workers. Self-referrals will also be accepted if vacancies exist, said Kilty. If there are more than 40 students per month, the overflow will be carried over to the following month's course.

"During these seminars, we hope to get beyond the rationalization stage where they make excuses for having to depend on drugs," said Kilty. "If they try to rationalize, the other kids will keep them honest. One of the hallmarks of this course is confidentiality. Nothing said during the seminars will get outside the group."

The chief aim will be to show that there are alternatives to drugs, explained Kilty.

The first course will start on Oct. 21 in Robertson Hall at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry. The final of the eight sessions will be on Nov. 13.

The second group of students will then start its course on Nov. 27 and continue through Dec. 10. This will be held at the College of Marin.

Lecturers include Dr. William Lamers, Marin psychiatrist; James Roosien, graduate student at University of California School of Pharmacy; Daniel A. Meyerson, director of Marin Institute; Martha Parsons of Langley Porter Institute; Marin Municipal Judge Hadden W. Roth; Cindy Ceteras, chairman of the Psychedelic Drug Information Committee in Berkeley, and officer Charles Newman of Corte Madera.

Group leaders will be teachers and counselors who have demonstrated their ability to reach teen-agers, said Kilty. Among them are a couple who have experience at Synanon.

Second Campus Views Sought

Where does the state rank College of Marin's need for a second campus? The Marin Junior College District board may find out when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 72 of the fine arts building on the Kentfield campus.

Acting Supt.-Pres. Louis H Herkenhoff is to report on the project's status as seen by the staff of the board of governors of California Community Colleges, which last spring recommended no new campus in Marin or Southern Sonoma before 1977.

But in mid-September, the staff reversed itself, saying the north campus plan "is justifiable and should be supported."

$2,400 Is Collected For Student Program

The Terra Linda High School International Friendship Club collected over $2,400 in its annual door-to-door fund raising campaign Monday night, the dean's office reported yesterday.

The donations, collected in Terra Linda, Marinwood, Lucas Valley and Los Ranchitos, will go toward the school's foreign exchange program. Last summer four students were sent abroad to travel and study.

Long Miller Hearing Cuts Board's Agenda

The expected blowup over Administrator Alan Bruce's suggestion that various county commissions be cut back or merged was postponed until next Tuesday because a closed meeting on the community mental health director stole the show yesterday.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors held a closed meeting on Dr. Clyde G. Miller, mental health director, from 2:40 p.m. until 3:13 p.m. (See also story, page 1.)

When it became evident that testimony on Dr. Miller would take all afternoon, County Clerk George Gnoss announced that the afternoon agenda of the supervisors would be postponed until next Tuesday.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

WELFARE CRITICISM — Heard Peter Edler of 50 Shell Road, Mill Valley, complain that the general attitude of the county welfare staff "is one of condescension." Chairman John F. McInnis asked for specific examples and suggestions for improvement but got none. Edler wound up by staring at the ceiling and writing the word "GOD" on the blackboard before leaving.

LOGGERS' CLAIM — Rejected a $5 million claim filed by the Oregon logging firm of Matthews, Humbert and Walker Timber Co. which charged it suffered damages when the county declared the logging operation a nuisance on Sept. 23 and ordered a halt on timber cutting.

STOCKS — Decided to sell six shares of stock in the Pacific Breeders Association, worth about $30 in all. Supervisor William A. Gnoss said the county acquired the six shares in 1966 when the old Marin County Farm in Lucas Valley became a corporation.

Burglary Charge Proceedings Halted

A burglary charge against Tyrone Westbrook, 36, of no known address, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court when the district attorney's office reported that a witness had failed to identify him.

Another man arrested in connection with the burglary, Michael Emanuel Jenkins, 22, of San Francisco, will be tried on the charge the week of Nov. 10 in Marin Superior Court. The burglary occurred Aug. 20 at a Sausalito home.
